FACTIONS FAIL ON FIVE-POWER NAVAL TREATY

French Refuse British Security Formula for Fleet Cut.

ITALIANS DECLINE ANY CONCESSIONS

MacDonald Is Expected to Announce Publicly End of Farce.

ONLY THREE-NATION AGREMENT IS LEFT

U. S. and Japanese Delegations Reach Accord on Most Disputed Points.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, April 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Complete failure of the British and French leaders at the London Naval Conference to agree on fleet reduction in consideration of British undertakings on security, coupled with Italian refusal to make the slightest concessions, practically ended the five-power farce tonight.

From a high British source, the New York World News Service is informed that Prime Minister MacDonald, chairman of the parley, is likely to announce in public tomorrow, or next day, that only a three-power pact remains.

The Japanese and American delegations today settled all questions outstanding between them, excepting a small point about replacement of Japanese naval cadet training ships. The aircraft carrier controversy was also resolved as the Americans wished, so there are now no obstacles to prompt drafting of a three-power agreement. The delegates and expert of Great Britain, the United States and Japan are, in fact, working on draft clause continuously and these will be submitted to each other for criticism as soon as the five-power pact is officially buried.

England Bars Formula.

There were three coffin nails hammered into the five-power pact today:

First—It was learned that former Premier Lloyd George pointedly, and former Premier Stanley Baldwin in milder terms, had warned MacDonald that the Liberal and Conservative parties, of which they are the leaders, could not support the security formula under discussion by MacDonald and Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France.

Second—Meetings were held between the naval chiefs of Great Britain and France, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander and Minister of Marine Macques-Louis Dumesnil, and Briand and MacDonald at which the French declined to lower their tonnage figures materially, which the British have held indispensable if France is to be given the interpretation she desires of British obligations under the League of Nations covenant.

Third—The Italian Ambassador at London, Antonio Chiarmonte Bordonaro, in the absence of Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, who has influenza, told Mr. MacDonald that Italy would refuse to discuss the Anglo-French security formula unless France grants Italy parity in principle and formally renounces the attempt to impose upon Italy a naval rank inferior to that of France. Moreover, the Italian spokesman added, Italy would decline to proceed further unless assured of material reduction in armaments on all sides, and considers that the present is not the time, nor this the place.

Custody of Child Gained By Wife of Pacific Ocean Flier.

Divorce and custody of a 5-year-old child were granted yesterday to Mrs. Ruth Thurston Maitland from Lieut. Lester J. Maitland, noted transpacific flier, in Las Vegas, Nev., according to Associated Press advices from that city.

Mrs. Maitland, formerly prominent in Washington society, had been living in Las Vegas for some time under her maiden name of Ruth Thurston. She was granted the divorce on grounds of mental cruelty.

Rumors of a rift in the married life of the Maitlands had been heard in the Capital for many months and the award to Mrs. Maitland came as no surprise to friends here. Lieut. Maitland is now stationed at Kelly Field, in Texas.

Two years ago the lieutenant and Lieut. Albert Hegenberger made the first flight from the United States to Hawaii. He has since been in the Army Air Service at various fields.

Mrs. Maitland is the stepdaughter of Dr. William Alanson White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital in Washington. They were married in the Capital in 1922 and both have scores of friends in social circles of the city.

VIRGINIA U. RIOTERS PROTEST MOVIE FEE

Several Students Are Hurt in Clash With Police While Storming Theater.

PRESIDENT CALMS FIGHT

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 9.—As a protest against alleged high prices charged at local moving picture houses, about 1,000 University of Virginia students, headed by a drum corps, marched down town tonight and for one hour and a half blocked traffic on Main street.

As the collegians started to enter the Jefferson Theater, one of the two operated by the Kindler-Zimmerman Co., of which Fred W. Twyman is president, the doors of the playhouse were locked. Rocks and eggs were thrown at the electric signs and some of them were broken. City police made their appearance and attempted to stop the fusillade. In the clash that followed several students were injured in the melee and one or more policemen were knocked down. One collegian was knocked senseless by an officer and was rushed to University Hospital for treatment.

The mob was finally quelled about 9:30 o'clock, when Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the university, appeared on the scene and addressed the students.

"Mob methods never did accomplish any good ends," he told the un-

PROHIBITION REGIME FLAYED BY TYDINGS

Senator, Wadsworth and Mrs. Sabin Protest Law at Wet Meeting.

MRS. NORTH PRESIDES

Predicting an early national revolt against "the police statute written into the Constitution by an intolerant minority," Senator Millard E. Tydings, former United States Senator James W. Wadsworth and Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, of New York, last night told approximately 1,500 men and women members of two recently organized antiprohibition associations that prohibition was a political issue to be decided by the ballot.

The meeting in the Willard Hotel was called by the District Council of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, but the presence of nearly 1,000 "Crusaders" gave the gathering a "coed" atmosphere. The Crusaders are members of a national young men's antiprohibition society claiming a local membership of 1,500, recruited in less than three weeks.

Pointing to crowded jails, corrupt officials and increased crime as the by-products of prohibition, Mr. Wadsworth said that "this straightjacket that a minority has sought to place around 120,000,000 people can not be removed until we retrace our steps, repeal the eighteenth

SENATE NEARS BLAINE QUIZ IN POSTAL LEASE

Tilt Marks Discussions on Allegations of Fraud.

ST. PAUL CASE MADE BASIS OF ATTACKS

Fess Draws Fire of Foe by Mention of Burleson.

BROWN, MITCHELL CALLED NEGLIGENT

Postmaster General Avers He Welcomes Inquiry Into His Acts.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate moved forward toward adoption of the Blaine resolution calling for an airing of the so-called postoffice scandal yesterday in a tensity that presages a storm.

Postmaster General Brown, after a day of unusual activity in administration circles, issued a statement which was read in the Senate by Senator Fess, saying that he welcomed an investigation of any leases executed by him and pointing out that the St. Paul case had been placed in litigation long before he assumed office. The Department of Justice also issued a statement.

Senator Fess pointed out that the St. Paul case originated in the latter part of Postmaster General Burleson's administration, that the first lease was executed by Postmaster General Hays, subsequently renewed by Postmaster General New, and payment stopped in 1928 upon presentation of a grand jury report that the lease was tainted with fraud.

Facts Seem Reasonably Clear.

So far as this pivotal case is concerned, the facts seem to be reasonably clear. The firm of Jacob Kulp & Co., of Chicago, with a building alleged not to be worth more than $400,000 at the very most, secured a rental lease with the Postoffice Department for 20 years at $120,750 a year.

On the strength of this lease it sold bonds for $750,000. Senators Nye and Blaine charge, but then realized that in advertising these bonds it had referred to its contract with the Government as uncancellable.

This is charged not to have been the case at the time. Mr. Blaine charges that former Secretary of War Good was retained to come to Washington and get an uncancellable clause in the contract, which it is alleged he did by reducing the rental $750 a year. The bond company is then charged with having bought up its original issue of $750,000 and floated another issue of $1,200,000.

GRUNDY URGES PRIMARY FUND QUIZ IN SENATE

Norris Resolution for an Inquiry Is Approved by Committee.

CONTEST IN ILLINOIS WOULD BE INCLUDED

Pennsylvanian Strikes at Atterbury, Supporter of Davis for Seat.

CURTIS WOULD NAME FIVE INVESTIGATORS

Attack on State Situation Prompts Shortridge to Call Senator to Order.

(Associated Press.)

Inquiry into the campaign expenditures of senatorial candidates in this year's contests was virtually assured yesterday when the Senate elections committee unanimously approved the Norris investigating resolution.

The bitterly fought Illinois primary of Tuesday, in which Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick defeated Senator Deneen for the Republican senatorial nomination, is one of several contests which Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, has said he would have investigated.

Chairman Shortridge, of the elections committee, said he would report the resolution to the Senate today. It will have to be referred to the audit committee for approval of the $100,000 expenditure authorized for the inquiry before the Senate acts.

Grundy Backs Resolution.

Senator Norris appeared before the elections committee at yesterday's session. Senator Grundy (Republican), Pennsylvania, who is opposed for renomination in the May primary by Secretary Davis, also went before the committee to urge adoption of the resolution.

The investigation would be put in the hands of a committee of five, to be named by Vice President Curtis. The resolution would empower the committee "to act upon its own initiative and upon such information as in its judgment may be reasonable or reliable."

Senator Norris himself is a candidate for renomination on the Republican ticket in Nebraska this year. He has said he already has received complaints of campaign expenditures in Illinois, Pennsylvania and his own State. He said he would refer these complaints to the committee when it is authorized and organized.

A similar Senate committee four years ago inquired into the Republican senatorial campaigns in Illinois and Pennsylvania and on the basis of its reports the senators elected from those States that year were denied

NEW COMMISSIONERS OF DISTRICT TO TAKE OFFICIAL OATH TODAY

Senate Confirms Crosby and Reichelderfer as Capital Heads.

FORMER'S APPROVAL COMES AFTER FIGHT.

43-to-24 Vote Follows Battle Based Upon Civilian Status.

WALSH AND GEORGE LEADERS OF ATTACK

Retired Major General Not Legal Resident of City, Both Declare.

By a vote of 43 to 24, the Senate confirmed the nomination of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, U. S. A., retired, to be a civilian Commissioner of the District of Columbia late yesterday.

The Senate gave its consent to the nomination at the conclusion of the hardest fight ever directed against a local appointment.

The debate on the nomination lasted for three hours and a half, and the 24 senators who voted against confirmation did so because they felt that the selection of a retired Army officer as Commmissioner was illegal.

No Debate on Reichelderfer.

The nomination of Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer for the other civilian commissionership was confirmed by the Senate without debate shortly after noon.

The two new city heads will take the oath of office as Commissioners at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The ceremony will be conducte by Daniel E. Garges, secretary to the Board of Commissioners, and among those who will be present will be the two men who are going out after three years of service, Commissioners Proctor L. Dougherty and Sidney P. Taliaferro. Col. William B. Ladue, the Engineer Commissioner, also will be on hand.

Of the senators who voted for confirmation of Gen. Crosby's nomination 37 were Republicans, 5 Democrats, and 1 Farmer-Labor. Of those voting against confirmation 19 were Democrats and 5 Republicans.

Vote Seen as Partisan.

Hence it might be said that the vote was pretty much of a partisan one. Among the Republicans who voted against confirmation, however, was Hale, of Maine, who always has been regarded as an administration man. The other Republicans—Borah, Frazier, Blaine, and Norris—are classified as Progressives and frequently vote with the Democrats.

In the course of the long debate, two of the Senate's outstanding authorities took the floor against confirmation—Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, and Senator George (Democrat), Georgia.

Like all the others who argued against confirmation, these two senators paid high tribute to Gen. Crosby's character and ability. But his appointment, they insited, was clearly in violation of the spirit of the law.

Legal Residence Denied.

The organic act of 1878 says that two of the Commissioners shall be selected from "civil life," and that they shall be legal residents here for three years before their appointment.

In the opinion of the Montana and the Georgia senators, Gen. Crosby does not meet either qualification. Not only is he not in civil life, they said, but he is not a legal resident here within the meaning and spirit of the law.

The words "from civil life" were written into the act creating the commission form of government here, the two senators said, because of a repugnance to military rule.

They insisted that Gen. Crosby, even though he is retired, is still a part of the Army. He is a part of it, they said, because he is drawing re-

VICTOR IN PRIMARY RETURNS TO CAPITAL

Mrs. McCormick Is Silent on Platform for Coming Political Fight.

KEEPS HUGE PLURALITY

Chicago, April 9 (A.P.).—Ruth Hanna McCormick swept to the head of the Republican party in Illinois by an avalanche of ballots in yesterday's primary election, dropped the campaigners' role today to return to Washington and her duties in Congress. Belated returns maintained her indicated plurality of 200,000 over Senator Charles S. Deneen, who ousted her husband from the Senate six years ago.

A total of 6,184 precincts out of 7,117 in Illinois gave Mrs. McCormick 613,200 and Deneen 426,073.

Mrs. McCormick departed with no word as to the causes she will expound when she again takes her post on the political battlefield next November to contest with James Hamilton Lewis, the Democratic nominee, for election to the United States Senate. She can not use opposition to the world court in that contest as Lewis also is opposed to it.

Lewis, political chevalier and orator of the old school, congressional contemporary of Mrs. McCormick's famous father, senator of a decade ago, and owner of one of the country's two most famous beards, already has sounded his cry for the battle—"personal liberty vs. prohibition."

Mrs. McCormick is dry, "both personally and politically," she told the Antisaloon League during her campaign for the nomination. On this issue she stood side by side with her defeated opponent, Senator Deneen, who voted for the Jones five and ten law.

She attacked Deneen before the primary for his support of American adherence to the world court with reservations, and in a midnight statement after her nomination was assured she held the vote demonstrated

M'CORMICK VICTORY HELD RAP AT COURT

Senate Protocol Opposition Strengthened by Vote in Illinois.

URGE DELAY FOR PACT

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Opposition in the Senate to the world court protocol gained momentum yesterday as a result of Mrs. McCormick's victory in the Illinois primaries. According to senators who have urged President Hoover to indefinitely delay submission of the protocol for ratification, the defeat of Deneen shows that nineteen procourt senators have been defeated in elections since the first vote on the protocol in 1926.

The administration's delay in submitting the protocol, with the Root-Hurst reservations, has been partly upon the advice of Republican leaders like Senator Watson, who have maintained that this year's elections would demonstrate that the people did not favor American adherence on the proposed terms. After the Senate ratified the protocol with safeguarding reservations, the league powers refused to accept American membership with the Senate's safeguards and Sir Cecil Hurst, of Great Britain, and Elihu Root drew up a new set of reservations fashioned after league requirements. The protocol with these reservations has been signed by representatives of the United States, but the Senate has not been called upon to give its advice and consent.

Senator Watson said yesterday: "Thumbs down on the League of Nations. That is what the result in Illinois means."

Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, said:

"It would seem from the returns that the people of Illinois are not in favor of the world court, and I presume for the reason that they know it is not a world court but a league court. In my opinion the result would be the same in a popular vote

Two-Way Television Closes Two-Mile Gap

Sharp and Clear Images of Conversationalists Thrown on Screen of "Ikonophone" as Device Is Brought Into Use in Telephone Tests.

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—The curtain veiling the telephone of the future was jerked aside for a moment today in the first practical demonstration of two-way television by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Seated comfortably in an armchair in tiny rooms that bore little resemblance to the ordinary telephone booths, users of the device, described on a tiny sign as the "ikonophone," looked each other directly in the eye as they conversed, 2½ miles apart.

It was a demonstration of the progress the Bell telephone laboratories have made in approaching the day when it is hoped to be able to see the person at the other end of the telephone line. It was made possible by a number of improvements in the elaborate apparatus required to transmit and receive clear and easily recognizable pictures by television.

The picture as received was sharp and clear, with only an occasional slight flicker. The booth was bathed with orange-colored light, and the scanning beam, which picked up a copy of the features of the speaker, was a blue ray not bothersome to the eyes, as was the strong light of earlier television systems.

The television apparatus is basically the same as that employed by the telephone company in its demonstration in 1927. However, the results obtained were much better, due to improved neon tubes for the receiver and more sensitive photo electric cells for the transmitter. The other equipment also has undergone considerable improvement.

The picture transmitted had 5,000 elements, or 72 lines. Two frequency bands, each 40,000 cycles wide, compared with 10,000 cycles as used in radio broadcasting, were required for the television channels.

Two of the five connecting telephone circuits carried the television impulses. Two others handled the voice, while the fifth was used for synchronization of the scanning discs of the receiving and transmitting equipment. The wire space needed was equivalent to that for 30 telephone conversations.

At each "ikonophone" there were a television transmitter and receiver, each with its own scanning disc containing 72 holes. At each side of the speaker were banks of photoelectric cells which copied the face for transmission over the wire. The improved neon tube, which reproduces a picture in pink and black, played an important part in making the demonstration successful.

This advance in television is due to the efforts of the same group in the laboratories who were responsible for the earlier achievements. The work is under the direction of Dr. Herbert E. Ives, with important contributions by Dr. Frank Gray, H. M. Stoller, A. W. Horton and M. W. Baldwin.

New York Hotels' Padlocking Sought

Suits Started After Raids Are Staged by U. S. Dry Agents.

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—Suits to padlock the entire Cornish Arms Hotel or "such parts thereof as the court may determine" and to padlock the grill and 18 guest rooms of the Hotel Manger were begun in Federal Court today by Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney. The suits are the outgrowth of recent raids staged on two hotels by Federal prohibition agents.

Attorneys for the Manger issued a statement stating that the management would "vigorously contest" the Government's action.

"It is hard for any hotel management, however, well informed, to protect itself when Government agents entice bellboys and waiters, with bribes and heavy tips, to violate the law," the announcement said. "We are confident that the management will establish that it has not, technically or otherwise, violated the law."

Steel Merger Vote Count Delay Is Cause of Recess

New Writ Restrains More Shares for Ballot in Combine Fight.

Youngstown, Ohio, April 9 (A.P.).—Because inspectors had not finished counting votes in the merger of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the stockholders' meeting tonight adjourned until 4 p. m. tomorrow.

The session was convened at 8:15 p. m. for the announcement of the merger vote. The large number of protested proxies to be counted was believed to have been the cause for delay. In anticipation of a merger victory, more than 1,000 Sheet & Tube employes had been called by their employers to gather at Stambaugh Auditorium, where the sessions are being held. James A. Campbell, 75-year-old Sheet & Tube chairman, was on the platform with other officials tirement pay, and because he still is subject to trial by court-martial and subject to other Army regulations.

Lived Here Under Orders.

The fact that he has lived here for eight years, they said, does not make him a legal resident within the meaning of the law. He did not acquire a residence here voluntarily, they pointed out, but came here because he was ordered here.

If it is to be contended that the station of an Army officer is his legal residence, Senator Walsh declared then the President could locate the entire Army in a particular State in order to swing an election in that State.

The two senators quoted extensively from laws and legal decisions to bear out their contention that the appointment was illegal.

Hale Opposes Choice.

Senator Hale, a real old guard Republican, declared that despite his admiration for Gen. Crosby he was forced to the conclusion that the appointment was illegal.

The members of the Senate District committee, who had held a hearing on the nomination, were divided in yesterday's debate.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York, opened the fight on the nomination, and soon was joined by Senator Glass (Democrat), of Virginia. Both held that the nomination was illegal.

Chairman Capper and Senators Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, and Kean (Republican), of New Jersey, defended the nomination.

Senator Copeland quoted from the Congressional Record of 1878 to show that Congress, in drafting the organic act of that year, meant that two of the civilian Commissioners should in fact be men who had lived here and were familiar with the city's problems. At the outset, he eulogized Gen. Crosby for his reputation as a soldier and a man.

Stranger in City, Claim.

But Gen. Crosby, he said, really is a stranger to Washington.
RULE—ADD 4

"Are we going to turn the District of Columbia over to military rule?" he asked. "Are we willing to have it ruled by strangers? In this day, when we are talking about law observance, are we ourselves going to approve an appointment that is clearly unlawful?"

After declaring that the President had passed up many natives who would have been willing to serve as Commissioner, the New Yorker added:

"What is there about the training of a major general of the United States Army that should make him familiar with all the affairs of the District of Columbia?"

Capper Tells of Witnesses.

Chairman Capper told the Senate that at the hearing on the nomination a host of witnesses testified as to the splendid character and ability of Gen. Crosby.

Later Senator Kean said that 5 of the Commissioners in the last 52 years were former soldiers, but Senator Glass developed that none of these occupied the same status as Gen. Crosby.

The law of 1878, Senator Glass said, was clear as to what Congress meant with regard to the make-up of the Board of Commissioners. One Commissioner, he said, would be an officer in the Engineer Corps of the Army and the other two should be selected from "civil life." Until now, he said, this law has been scrupulously observed.

Former Cases Cited.

The Virginian said that he was in possession of trustworthy information that a former Attorney General had held that Maj. Gen. William Black was not eligible for the commissionership because of "residence inhibitions," and he said he also understood that Maj. Gen. Eli Helmick also was held to be ineligible.

He recalled that Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, had strongly indorsed the nomination, saying that the National Capital was fortunate in getting such a man

Chairman Capper reminded the Senate that Gen. Crosby was selected to administer the local Police Department, which has come in for considerable criticism in the last few years.

Senator Vandenberg also quoted from Dr. Havenner's statement indorsing the former cavalry head. The Federation of Citizens Associations, the Michigan senator said, is the "voice of the city," and it had decided that it wou'd rather have a Commissioner like Gen. Crosby than to indulge in technical hair-splitting."

Military Rule Fear Scouted.

"Nobody wants to substitute military rule for civil rule here," Senator Vandenberg said, "and nobody really believes that the appointment of Gen. Crosby will mean military rule."

Senator Vandenberg cited the opinion of Attorney General Mitchell to show that the appointment was legal. In the law of 1878, he said, Congress had no intention of saying that a former soldier should be barred as Commissioner.

When Senator Glass asked him if he knew of any case where a retired Army officer had been selected as Commissioner in the past, Senator Vandenberg said no.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, a famous authority on the Constitution, made the lengthiest speech of the afternoon. Reversing the charge made by the proponents of the nomination, he declared that if anybody had resorted to technicalities it was the Attorney General. His opinion justifying the appointment, Senator Walsh said, was not at all convincing.

George Argues With Walsh.

Until Senator Walsh arose, the fight against Gen. Crosby had been confined to the argument that he was not in fact a civilian. To this, Senator Walsh added the argument that he was not a legal resident here.

Gen. Crosby, he said, was appointed to West Point from Illinois. From that time on, he said, he lived wherever the Army ordered him to live.

Senator George agreed with Senator Walsh.

"He was compelled to go where he was sent," he said. "He could not select his residence. He has no residence even now that he could retain if he were called back in the Army."

Legal Resident Defined.

A legal resident, Senator George said, would be a person who actually and intentionally selected a residence here.

At the request of Dr. Reichelderfer the swearing-in ceremony today will be a simple one.

At the same time that Commissioner Dougherty announced the plans for inducting the new commissioners into office, he announced that next week he will take up the work of director of the Eyesight Conservation Council, with headquarters in Washington. The council is an outgrowth of wartime activities fostered by the Government and its purpose is the "promotion of the general conservation and betterment of vision, the improvement of those external conditions and circumstances of everyday life that affect and may impair eyesight," Commissioner Dougherty said.

Commissioner Taliaferro will assume the duties of vice president of the Riggs National Bank in charge of the trust department of the bank.

Stay Called Pleasant.

"My stay in the office of District Commissioner for the last three years has been, in the main, a very pleasant one," Mr. Dougherty said. "I am grateful for the opportunity to have been of some service to my city, and I hope that I have been able to do at least something toward the better and finer development of the Nation's Capital."

Mr. Dougherty was given a recess appointment by President Coolidge in August, 1926. Subsequently he was confirmed by the Senate at the same time the appointment of Commissioner Taliaferro was confirmed and their three-year terms were dated from that date, February 4, 1927.

Unless there is an unexpected upset in the organization plans of the new board of Commissioners, Dr. Reichelderfer will be president of the board and have general supervision over the financial, welfare and other municipal departments. This was expressed at the White House as the desire of President Hoover when the nominations of the two men were sent to the Senate.

Gen. Crosby will take charge of the police and fire departments. He was especially selected for this task "by the President and there is no thought that there will be any change from that plan.

Both new Commissioners have declared that they plan no immediate and sweeping changes in the municipal government. Both have said that they will want time to study at first hand the problems of administration which will confront them.

BRISTOW LIBERATED BY MEXICAN BANDITS

WIFE SWOONS AT NEWS

Mexico City, April 9 (A.P.).—The American Embassy was informed by wire from the American Consulate at Mazatlan this afternoon that J. E Bristow, Oklahoma-Texas oil man kidnaped about a month ago, was released this morning at Ahuacatlan.

Edwin Schoenrich, American Consul, reported that the information reaching Mazatlan was brief, being merely to the effect that Bristow was released this morning, presumably after the payment of ransom. The American mining man joined a group of friends and his son at Ahuacatlan, Nayarit, and expected to proceed with them to Tepic.

(Associated Press.)

The State Department was officially informed yesterday of the release of J. E. Bristow, Oklahoma oil man, by bandits at Ahuacatlan, Nayarit, Mexico.

San Angelo, Tex., April 9 (A.P.).—A three-word message, "Dad with me," today ended a month of anxiety for Mrs. J. E. Bristow, whose husband was captured and held for ransom by Mexican bandits March 10.

The message was from her son, Gordon (Obie) Bristow, former University of Oklahoma football star, who journeyed by airplane to the west coast of Mexico three weeks ago to negotiate for his father's release.

Collapses in Friend's Arms.

"Thank God! Thank God!" was all that Mrs. Bristow said when notified at her home here of her husband's safety. The elderly woman, who had given no sign of strain during the days of anxiety, then collapsed into the arms of a friend.

Later she told neighbors, "I was just sitting there, praying that he was all right. It's been so long since we have had any word that I was afraid."

The last time Mrs. Bristow saw her husband was three months ago. At that time he was anxious to return to Mexico, where he had purchased a zinc mine in Nayarit. The mine had to be staked out within a short period in order that Bristow might obtain title to the property. His friends believe he was prospecting further for lead and zinc mine locations when captured.

Graduate of Two Universities.

Bristow was a graduate of the University of Arkansas and the University of Oklahoma. He received a degree to practice medicine at the Arkansas university, but after losing a hand following an infection, he turned to law and was graduated with an LL.B. from the Oklahoma school.

His law practice was at Pryor, Okla., where he also served as county attorney. Later he moved to Ardmore and became county attorney there. He resigned this position to enter the oil business.

He was a member of the firm which brought in the discovery well of the Graham, Tex., field and helped to develop it. In addition to his wife and son, a daughter, Mrs. W. E. N Phillips, of El Dorado, Ark., had awaited word from the captive.

IN SENATE RACE

JUSTICE GALEN SEEN AS WALSH OPPONENT

Montana G.O.P. Designates Supreme Court Justice for Senate Race.

PLANS TO RUN AS WET

Great Falls, Mont., April 9.—Announcement by Associate Justice Albert J. Galen of the Montana Supreme Court that he would file for the nomination as United States senator in the coming Republican primary has created quite a furore in the State and preparations are going forward rapidly for his campaign.

Unanimously indorsed for senator by the Republican State central committee, Justice Galen's acceptance was the spark needed to set machinery in motion for the battle to defeat Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat.

Justice Galen, like Mr. Walsh, is a Catholic, but is a wet whereas the present senator is a dry. The issue in Montana is clearly "wet and dry," with the State having recently voted wet in a referendum.

Brother of Senator's Widow.

The man chosen by the Republican central committee to seek nomination in the coming primary is a brother of Mrs. Thomas H. Carter, widow of the former Montana senator, who also was at one time Republican national committee chairman.

Born on a ranch near Three Forks, Mont., on Jan. 16, 1876, Justice Galen studied at Manhattan College, New York; University of Notre Dame and University of Michigan.

He was admitted to the Montana bar in 1897 and served as attorney general of the State for two terms, 1905 to 1913.

Service in World War.

Justice Galen was chairman of the selective service board of Division One in Montana in 1917; was commissioned major judge advocate on January 5, 1918, and was judge advocate of the Eighth Division at Camp Freemont, Calif., from January to August, 1918.

From August, 1918, to June 1919, he served as judge advocate general of the A. E. F. in Siberia. He was commissioned lieutenant colonel in the Officers Reserve Corps following his honorable discharge on July 25, 1919.

He was elected associate justice of the Montana Supreme Court in 1921, serving until 1927, when he was re-elected to serve until 1933.

McMullen, of the Army Air Corps, on their record-breaking flight from New York to Buenos Aires and return. A number of the more important newspapers of the country were carried on this flight.

The flight was sponsored by the Foreign Advertising and Service Bureau, of New York, and the time on the trip was 5 days and five hours.

METHODIST BOARD IS HIT BY TINKHAM

Corrupt Practices Are Laid to Two Church Groups in Testimony.

CURRAN IS SUBPENAED

(Associated Press.)

An appeal to "unmask the indefensible political activities" of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals and the Federal Council of Churches was made yesterday before the Senate lobby committee by Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts.

Speaking in a conversational tone, Representative Tinkham charged that the two organizations by political activities have "set aside entirely" the principle of separation of church and state. The remarks of the heavily bearded representative were attentively received.

"I believe that this committee can render no greater public service," he said, "than to do its part toward a public exposure of the practices of these organizations, in violation of the principle of the separation of church and state, so that their church constituencies, as well as the public at large may be informed and so condemn such practices."

Charges Corrupt Practices.

After charging the Methodist board with violating the Federal corrupt practices act by failure to report expenditures for political purposes, Representative Tinkham was excused until today. Then he will give the committee his evidence against the Federal Council of Churches.

Chairman Caraway, of the committee, announced that both organizations would be given an opportunity to reply to Representative Tinkham after he completes his testimony. He said they had expressed a desire to appear if Representative Tinkham made any charges they thought should be answered.

Meanwhile, the committee subpoenaed the records of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and summoned Henry H. Curran, its president, to appear next Tuesday.

In taking this action, Senator Caraway said a committee investigator, who had gone to New York, had been denied permission to obtain the records, which made a subpoena necessary.

Mr. Curran denied Tuesday night that permission had been refused, but indicated that personal records would have to be subpoenaed. He said yesterday he would appear Tuesday.

Seeks to Learn Methods.

The committee will attempt to ascertain the methods employed by the association in opposing the prohibition law and the amount of money expended. John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has testified he contributed $65,000.

Representative Tinkham charged that the Methodist board had engaged in political activities in the 1928 presidential election and had failed to file a report of its expenditures with the clerk of the House of Representatives, as required by law.

He read a statement attributed to Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the organization, which said:

"We have no apology to make to any one because we used all the energy at our command in bringing about the election of Herbert Hoover as President and Charles Curtis as Vice President."

Representative Tinkham also presented to the committee a copy of a report made by Deets Pickett, research secretary of the board, which said the board "circulated enormous quantities of Al Smith's record, a detailed account of the governor's attitude toward the prohibition law and liquor restriction since his early days of political activity."

He said he had called this to the attention of the Department of Justice, but no action had been taken.

Maj. Curran to Reply To Lobby Subpena

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—Informed by the Associated Press that he had been summoned to appear before the Senate lobby committee in Washington next Tuesday with records of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Maj. Henry H. Curran, president of the association, today said: 'I'll be there."

In a statement issued yesterday, Maj. Curran denied charges made by Senator Robinson, of Indiana, that he had refused to turn over records of the association to the lobby committee, but indicated that the committee could obtain his personal files only by subpoena. Maj. Curran declared that the committee already has most of the association's records.

DEFENDS WOMEN

Harris & Ewing.

MISS MABEL VAN DYKE,
of the Inter-American Commission of Women, who spoke yesterday over WOL on the nationality question at the Conference on Codification of International Law.

WITHDRAWAL ASKED OF U. S. DELEGATION

Republican Women of New York See Hoover on Hague Question.

FIGHT NATIONAL CODE

Withdrawal of United States delegates at The Hague unless the Conference on Codification of International Law agrees to postpone the convention on nationality until a later conference was requested of President Hoover yesterday by a delegation of Republican women from New York State.

The request was made, the delegation said, because of discriminatory clauses already adopted in committee with a final vote to be taken at the plenary session this week.

Mrs Jane Norman Smith, of New York City, one of the delegation's spokeswomen, told Mr. Hoover: "Women of the entire world are in peril in case the League of Nations draft on the nationality of women be passed by the conference on the codification of international law now in session in The Hague. Cables which we have received indicate that there is every likelihood of the passage of a code on nationality which will provide one law for men and another for women. The women are united in their opposition to such a code. There is need for immediate action.

"We ask that you instruct the United States plenipotentiary to get up on the floor of the conference and demand a postponement of the question of nationality. This has already been done by the conference on sections relating to territorial waters. The subject requires further study. If the conference refuses a postponement, we ask for the withdrawal of our delegates."

The same questions discussed by the delegation before the President was outlined in a radio speech over WOL yesterday afternoon by Miss Mabel Van Dyke, of the Inter-American Commission of Women, in which she deplored "the secrecy and haste" marking negotiations at The Hague.

Air Mail Aviator Warns of Blaze

Circles Above Farmhouse on Fire Until His Motor's Roar Awakens People.

Greenville, Pa., April 9 (A.P.).—An air mail pilot aroused sleeping members of a family whose house was afire two miles east of Clarks Mills early today and was credited with saving their lives. The pilot, Harry Little, eastbound from Cleveland to New York, circled over the farmhouse with the plane motor roaring out its warning.

The pilot, flying on the same route last Thursday, awakened a family at Dubois when their dwelling was afire, but two persons were burned to death despite his efforts.

The fire near Clarks Mills destroyed the home of Carl Billig. Awakened by the airplane motor, Billig, his wife and two children fled through windows. Billig was burned slightly. A small amount of clothing was all that was saved from the flames. Billig estimated the loss at $10,000.

Lieut. Muse was born in Cedar Glades, Ark., August 24, 1904. He served as private, private (first class), corporal, sergeant and first sergeant, Companies E and F, Third Engineers, from December 22, 1922, to June 30, 1925; appointed a cadet, Military Academy, July 1, 1925; commissioned second lieutenant, Quartermaster Corps, June 13, 1929; assigned to Air Corps September 12, 1929. (Associated Press.)

The sale of Hog Island to the city of Philadelphia for $3,000,000 was authorized yesterday by the Shipping Board.

The contract provides for development of the property as a marine-air-rail terminal.

Terms of the sale require down payment of $450,000 and a guarantee that $500,000 will be expended at once to grade lands to be used as an airport. For ten years, 3 per cent a year will be paid on the unpaid balance of the principal as ground rental and for the next ten years the rental will be 6 per cent.

HEFLIN SAYS RASKOB WORKS TO BEAT HIM

Demands That Democratic Chief Resign Post and Hurls Defiance.

SEES CATHOLIC SPECTER

(Associated Press.)

Demanding that John J. Raskob resign as chairman of the Democratic national committee, Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, said in the Senate yesterday that the party had "come to a miserable position" when its chairman donated money to elect wet Republicans to Congress.

Senator Heflin said not more than five Democratic senators and fifteen Democratic members of the House, outside of the Tammany group, could be found who would say they thought Mr. Raskob should not resign.

Before Senator Heflin spoke, Senator Simmons (Democrat), North Carolina, said Mr Raskob wanted a wet Congress as well as a wet President. He said he had nothing to do with summoning Mr. Raskob before the Senate lobby committee.

Mr. Raskob, who testified last Friday, said he had contributed $65,000 to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and that one of its purposes was to elect members of Congress in favor of repeal or modification of the prohibition law. He is a director of the association.

Both Senators Heflin and Simmons are up for reelection this year. They refused to support their party nominee, Alfred E. Smith, for President in 1928.

Senator Simmons on Monday told the Senate that North Carolina Democrats "repudiate" the action of Mr. Raskob "in contributing to the funds to be used to elect wet Republicans over dry Democrats while he still holds the titular position of national chairman of our party."

Senator Heflin charged yesterday that Mr. Raskob was working against him in Alabama and against Senator Simmons in North Carolina and asserted:

"I'll defy them. I'll whip them in my State either in a Democratic primary or out of it."

The Alabaman has been barred from the State Democratic primary on account of his failure to support Gov. Smith. The decision has been appealed to the Alabama Supreme Court.

"Mr. Raskob has gone into my State," Senator Heflin shouted, "and has influenced some of the members of the State committee of Alabama, but it won't work. The Democrats of my State are rebelling."

He said the "Roman Catholic-Tammany-Raskob influence was too plain."

Head-On Collision Fatal to Youth

G. M. Fisher, on Motorcycle, Hit by Car on Defense Highway.

In a head-on collision on the Defense Highway near Bowie, Md., George M. Fisher, 17 years old, of Kensington, Md., was fatally injured yesterday afternoon.

Fisher was riding a motorcycle when it was in collision with a car operated by Joseph S. Fralick of 3010 Wisconsin avenue northwest. Fisher was hurled from his wheel by the impact landing in the road on his head. He was taken to Casualty Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Fralick was taken to the Ninth Precinct Station where he was held for Maryland authorities. Riding in Fralick's machine was John Nichols, said to be employed at the Government's Bureau of Engraving.

First-Degree Murder Verdict Found by Jury

Cordoza Bell, colored, was convicted by a District Supreme Court jury late yesterday afternoon on a first-degree murder charge in connection with the death of his alleged former affinity, Alice Metz, also colored. The jury was out a few minutes more than one hour.

Assistant United States Attorney James F. Hughes brought out through testimony that Bell had shot the woman while she was in a taxicab office on N street northwest near Sixth street. A shot gun was used, according to the testimony. The defense was based on contentions that the shooting was an accident. The verdict automatically carries with it the death penalty.

Coat Slashed in Store By Clothing Customer

When Benjamin Goldstein, 42 years old, proprietor of a clothing store at 437 Seventh street northwest, refused to let a customer take away a suit after he made a $5 down payment on it, the customer slashed the coat, front and on a sleeve, with a penknife and fled.

Mr. Goldstein described his assailant as a young Negro to First Precinct police. The youth left the $5 deposit in his haste after the attack.

JONES LAW CHANGE ACTION IS DEFERRED

House Committee, Deadlocked on Stobbs Measure, Delays Decision.

MITCHELL FILES BRIEF

(Associated Press.)

Deadlocked on the Stobbs bill to amend the Jones law to limit penalties for first and casual dry law offenders, the House judiciary committee yesterday deferred action until next Wednesday.

While the committee was seeking to agree, Attorney General Mitchell, who opposed the measure, urged the Supreme Court to hold that a person ordering liquor shipped to him is guilty of conspiracy to violate the dry laws.

The Attorney General filed a brief with the Supreme Court in a Government appeal attacking the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals that Alfred E. Norris a New York banker, was not guilty of conspiracy to violate the dry law in ordering liquor shipped to him from Philadelphia.

The Government brief charged that Norris became a conspirator through his cognizance of illegal transportation of liquor by a prior agreement. The contention was made that if a purchaser in New York could order liquor from a bootlegger in Philadelphia without being subjected to penalties of conspiracy to violate the dry laws, such a ruling by the court would contribute to the defeat of prohibition enforcement.

Although of divided opinion, the House judiciary committee had planned to decide yesterday the fate of the law enforcement commission's bills to broaden the power of United States commissioners to conduct jury-less trials and to authorize State officers to seize automobiles transporting liquor in violation of the Federal statute. Neither these nor the commission's measure to define slight and casual offenses to permit district attorneys to try offenders on a felony charge after trial before a commissioner were reached.

Commutation Denied Doomed Torch Killer

Trenton, N. J., April 9 (A.P.).—Commutation of the death sentence of Henry C. Close, bigamist, known as Henry Colin Campbell, pseudo-physician and slayer of Mrs. Mildred Mowry, of Greensburg, Pa., was denied today by the Court of Pardons. The court is a tribunal of last resort in the State.

Francis A. Gordon, counsel for the condemned man, said Close "is an elderly man, now 61 years old, who is sick in mind and body," and that the crime was "due to a mental state of confusion caused by worry, bodily disease and the use of drugs." Close fired a bullet into the brain of Mrs. Mowry and set her body afire near Chanford February 23, 1929. He married the woman bigamously for her savings of $1,000.

Edith Brookhart Called In Auto-Crash Hearing

Miss Edith Brookhart, daughter of Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, Iowa Republican, who was injured Tuesday in an automobile collision at Fourth street and Maine avenue southwest, had recovered sufficiently to appear in Traffic Court yesterday as a witness against Gordon Clark Stanbro, 33 years old, who is charged with reckless driving as a result of the accident.

Miss Brookhart, however, was not called on to testify, Stanbro pleading not guilty and demanding a trial by jury.

He was released on the same $300 bond he made immediately after the accident. Miss Brookhart, who was driving her automobile, was painfully bruised and cut when the two machines crashed.

GOVERNMENT PLANS OIL DECISION APPEAL

Hoover Conservation Policy Hit by Ruling to Allow Prospecting.

MANY CASES PENDING

Faced with disruption of the administration's oil conservation policy as expounded last year by President Hoover, through a decision rendered yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court holding that the Secretary of the Interior is not authorized to withhold permits to prospect for oil on public lands, the Government already has noted its intention to take the question to a higher court.

This was indicated yesterday afternoon when attorneys for the Department of the Interior filed formal notice that appeals to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals would be taken in each of the four cases covered by the District Supreme Court's decision.

The opinion covering the decision was handed down earlier in the day by Associate Justice Jennings Bailey. The justice immediately issued writs of mandamus requiring Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur to reinstate the applications involved in the four cases and to consider them according to the law. Notation of the appeals, however, automatically stays the effectiveness of the writs.

Authorization Not Clear.

Roy G. Barton, of Clovis, N. Mex.; Richard D. Vedder, H. H. Simpson and A. E. Perris, all of Los Angeles, Calif., were the petitioners in whose favor Justice Bailey decided.

The chief point raised in the decision was whether the President's oil conservation policy has ever been reduced to a formal order. In this connection, the justice pointed out:

"It is by no means clear that the President has authorized the Secretary of the Interior to make the withdrawal. The latter (the Secretary) basis his authority upon newspaper reports of a statement made by the President, and does not set up any direct order of the President to himself, either orally or in writing."

All the petitioners charged that the cancellation or withholding of permits to prospect for oil and gas on public lands was peremptory and without cause and was indicative of a leaning on the part of the administration to larger companies who were in position to furnish expensive geological surveys, which were no part of the prospecting agreement. They also attacked the President's oil conservation policy as illegal.

Many Cases Pending.

Scores of cases involving the refusal of the Secretary to issue permits because of the President's announced policy are pending in the court. The cases in which Justice Bailey rendered his decision were argued several weeks ago. More recently Acting Chief Justice Frederick L. Siddons has heard arguments on similar cases. As yet he has rendered no decision.

The opinion rendered by Justice Bailey goes into detail concerning the act of Congress of February 25, 1920, and he rules that it does not give the President or the Secretary of the Interior the authority which the latter claimed in withholding and canceling permits to prospect. The act, the court held, was designed to promote the prospecting for oil, gas and other mineral deposits on public lands "not theretofore known to be productive of minerals of this character."

Justice Bailey declared that "any authority for the action of the Secretary of the Interior must be found in the act of 1910, which fixed the power of the Executive to withdraw any part of the public domain from settlement," but he rules that in that connection it is "sufficient to say that the action of the Secretary does not constitute a withdrawal under that act. It can not be held to be such a withdrawal, for it does not appear to be of a temporary nature; the lands withdrawn are not withdrawn from either settlement, location, sale or entry; the purpose of the withdrawal is not for any of the purposes specified in the act; these purposes are not specified in the order of withdrawal, and the withdrawal was not reported to Congress in accordance with the act."

Du Pont Powder Plant Blast Kills Employe

Keokuk, Iowa, April 9 (A.P.).—John Heddon, the only employe on duty, was killed in an explosion of a glaze mill at the Du Pont de Nemours black power plant early today.

W. J. Cahalan, superintendent of the plant, said he is unable to estimate the damage immediately. The mill, one of the largest in the plant, was 100 feet long. Between 6,000 and 7,000 pounds of powder were destroyed. The glaze mill is used to put the shiny finish on black powder as the final process in manufacture.

Eight Prisoners Escape From Prison in Texas

Huntsville, Tex., April 9 (A.P.).—Prying their way through a floor of their solitary quarters, eight prisoners escaped today from the Eastham prison farm, 20 miles northwest of here on the Trinity River.

The men were believed to have escaped to Trinity in an automobile stolen at Weldon and to have burglarized two stores there. The prisoners who escaped were serving sentences ranging from 2 years to 25 years for burglary and robbery.

Premature Old Age Clew Reported in New Vitamin G

Growing of Heavier Cotton That Can Compete With Trees in Supplying World's Cellulose Also Forecast at American Chemical Society.

Atlanta, Ga., April 9 (A.P.).—A clew to premature old age, found in the newest vitamin, G, was reported to the health section of the American Chemical Society today, while growing of heavier cotton that can compete with trees in supplying the world's cellulose was forecast at a general session.

Only about one year old in the recognized family of diet principles, Vitamin G was introduced to the chemist as possessor of special controls over growth. These newly found qualities were described by Prof. H. C. Sherman, of Columbia University, in whose chemical laboratory they are coming to light upon rat subjects.

In these animals the vitamin is directly connected with growth. Lack of it, said Dr. Sherman, may retard growth, stop it, or, in extreme cases, cause death. In some rats the shortage caused premature old age. Loss of hair is one of its most commonplace danger signals. Its lack is suspected as a cause of pellagra, and Dr. Sherman said it "is presumably identical with the pellagra preventive diet discovered by Goldberger."

"The growth requirements of rates," he said, "presumably apply to other mammals also. Vitamin G must play a prominent part in any adequately comprehensive conception of food values from now on."

Still another member of the vitamin family is suspected to be hiding behind G. Dr. Sherman called it the "new factor," stating that it too, is important for growth, and that evidences of its presence have been detected by several other laboratories in addition to Columbia.

This new factor is abundant in milk and presumably in meat. Vitamin G is abundant in milk and leaves, such as spinach, kale and cabbage. It appears moderately, Dr. Sherman said, in meat and eggs.

Forecasts of cotton's future were made by Dr. H. E. Howe, of Washington, editor of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, who told how "Chemistry Comes South." He spoke to an audience many of whom a short time previously had eaten the "meat substitute" made from cotton seed by David Desson, of Montclair, N. J.

"Present tendencies," said Dr Howe, "would indicate a time when cotton may be grown for weight rather than for length of fiber, and its cost of production decreased with the aid of machinery to the point where it will compete successfully with cellulose from wood.

FLY SHIP OR CRASH, PLAN OF WILLIAMS

Wanted at Least to Start Schneider Cup Race, He Informs Senators.

TELLS WHY HE QUIT NAVY

How he planned to make a start in the Schneider Cup races off the English coast last fall even though tests en route to the starting line proved his Mercury racer would crash in the attempt was told yesterday by Lieut. Alford J. Williams, racing pilot, before a Senate committee.

Lieut. Williams said he pleaded with naval authorities for the opportunity to take the risk rather than admit to the world that his ship, the only American entry, would not fly.

"I wanted to go to the races and make a start," Lieut. Williams said. "If I found on the way that the ship would not fly, I had the opportunity to crack it up in a start—and in the back of my mind was the thought that I would do that instead of admitting that the ship would not fly."

The racing pilot said he resigned from the Navy because he felt obliged to carry through experimentation with high speed ships, which would have been interrupted if he had obeyed an order to go to sea. He told the committee that he believed until long after the races that his ship might fly.

He said that although he had found the ship to be 460 pounds overweight when he took it to Annapolis for tests, he had believed that he could make it take the air. He conferred with high Navy officials, he said and urged them to permit him to take it abroad. They refused. Later, he added, he learned that the plane would have been wrecked had he started. Tests showed that the craft was 880 pounds overweight instead of 460.

The committee called David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary for aeronautics, to testify today. Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, the chairman, said he would ask Ingalls for the Navy's side of the story of Lieut. Williams' resignation and that he would go into conditions surrounding Navy development of high speed planes.

CHAPTER XIX.

MAKING HIS FIRST MOVIE.

In the choice of a story it was necessary to have one that would bring the seven boys into the picture and give them a logical reason for being there, but yet we wanted to avoid the hackneyed night club, back stage and college campus ideas. Nearly all of our sound pictures today deal with one of these three themes in order to bring music into the plot. Therefore, barred from the dramatic complications of these three angles we had to choose a very simple story.

My part, as I conceived it, was that of a shy, embarrassed boy who was in a group of orchestra boys who considered themselves superior to him; a boy whose high idealistic principles caused him to be conscience stricken throughout the entire picture due to the deception which he was practicing. Furthermore, being in a daze of puppy love from the moment I met the heroine of the story, I was continually in hot water. There was little opportunity on my part for very much animation or life, and hardly a chance to smile. What we commonly term "personality" is made up of just those things. The part was practically "personalityless," but it gave me a real excuse for everything I did, especially the singing of my songs, which, after all, was perhaps the most important thing in the making of the picture.

Selects Four Songs From 200.

Before we left for the coast I listened daily to eight or ten songs, and finally from a group of nearly 200 I selected the four songs which are in the picture. It was necessary that I do this in my dressing room at the Brooklyn Paramount Theater at which we were playing. It was in the hot summer time and I came off the stage very tired from the heat and stage work, but between every show it was necessary that I hear these songs over and over again in order to make up my mind.

I do not believe absolutely in first reactions, rather do I believe that it is necessary to hear a melody several times in order to pass judgment, and it is really best to hear the melody at intervals of several days, and then if a tune does not come back and haunt the mind it usually has little merit. I rated the songs like themes in school, A, B plus, B, and so forth.

The story was still very vague when we left for the coast, so I carried eight songs marked A with us, hoping that at least four would fit in the picture. Whatever their opinion of the picture as a whole, the critics have usually complimented us on the spotting of the songs and their rendition, and the fact that all four are selling excellently, and one, "A Little Kiss Each Morning," is the outstanding hit today, makes me feel very happy. One of the songs, "If You Were the Only Girl in the World," is a tune about twelve years old but had failed so miserably as a fox trot that its publishers had soured on it. I tried to convince them that it was a hit song if played as a slow waltz. This idea, too, has proved itself since the picture came out.

Trip Brought Relaxation.

Our trip came as a wonderful relaxation, and to some of the boys it was a belated honeymoon, as all of them brought their wives. The bass player and I are the only single ones. I took my best sweetheart, my dear mother, and my father. Feeling that he had worked long enough in the drug store, having been behind the counter twelve and fourteen hours a day for twenty years, I wrote my father to sell the store and come West with us on this glorious trip.

We have relatives in Pasadena, and father and mother were very happy visiting, watching us make the picture and attending the social functions with me which Hollywood and Los Angles showered upon us.

From the time we left the Pennsylvania station with the good-bys of fans, newspapermen, publishers and others ringing in our ears, it was one constant reception in every town of any size we stopped at. They even woke me in the middle of the night to pose for the newspaper camera men of the various towns we went through, while a radio delegation or a representative of the theaters that sponsored our picture greeted us.

At Chicago I was tendered a delightful breakfast with the press in attendance.

But the biggest surprise of all came as we neared Los Angeles when, a few miles out, 50 representatives of the press and screen magazines climbed aboard the train. After dinner and refreshments I became the target for their interviews. But I had become accustomed to the questions and it was a pleasure to answer them.

Then we drew into Los Angeles to find a tremendous delegation waiting for us—movie camera men with bright lights, fifteen girls from the studio and a big crowd of radio fans and curious onlookers. The sheriff of Los Angeles was also there with letters of welcome from both the Governor of California and the Mayor of Los Angeles.

The studio girls, who form the dancing chorus of such productions as "Rio Rieta," surrounded me, making a general wreck of me as they pushed and pulled me about among them. Then I was presented with a big saxophone of wood and a large gold key.

After a formal ceremony, pictures were taken of me with my parents, and of the sheriff and myself, and microphone recordings of our response to the greetings were made. We were then escorted to a Rolls-Royce and, followed by a long line of cars carrying my boys and various officials, started for Hollywood, the sirens of four motorcycle cops securing the right of way for our procession the entire distance. This last gave my mother the greatest thrill she ever had, and I can still hear her, hysterically half laughing, half crying. It was really wonderful.

Aaronson Completes Welcome.

At the Hotel Roosevelt in Hollywood we were greeted by Irving Aaronson and his Commanders, playing my own "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover," and our welcome was complete.

As the last part of the trip across the desert had been almost unbearable and we were all feeling very tired, we retired at once.

My faith in the production head and scenario writer was justified, as the story of the picture was simple enough and yet of sufficient interest to make it a fine vehicle for our work.

I was most fortunate in having Marshall Neilan, as director of my first motion picture; he is not alone a great director, but a very human individual with a great understanding of my songs and a keen insight into the art of recording them, being a fine musician himself. His crew of lighting experts (who can make or mar the features of the players), the sound recorders, the cameramen, the make-up man, who, after some study, finally evolved my best make-up, all helped to solve the difficulties of picture making that I had dreaded most of all.

Such notables as Marie Dressler, Sally Blane, Charles Sellon and others of wide and varied experience, who were in the cast, did much toward making the picture a success. In fact, the honors are entirely Marie Dressler's. Everything in and about the studio was perfect, every one gave his cooperation, we did our best, and if it seems not to please our great film public it will be just that it was not to be.

Given Many Receptions.

We were wonderfully received in Hollywood, being the recipient of receptions at Breakfast Club, Masquers, Montmartre and many other places, but our greatest reception was in the blossom room of the Roosevelt Hotel. It was a Tuesday evening, and the room was filled to overflowing with the greatest collection of notables and stars of the movie world I have ever seen under one roof.

Many of these were famous when I used to crank films in the booth of the little Star Theater, and the feeling that went over me as I saw them there honoring me with their presence made me very happy indeed.

On the eve of our departure for New York I was happy to give a banquet in the Cocoanut Grove of the Ambassador, and every one who had participated in the making of our picture, from the greatest to the humblest "grip" who carried the lamps and helped move everything, was there. It was a wonderful evening; Ted Lewis was playing there, everybody was happy and the place was jammed. Of course there were speeches, and we left with a wonderful feeling in our hearts for California and Hollywood.

Radio Audience Waiting.

With faces turned to New York, we set out for our routine of continuous work again; but all the time I was on the coast I received pleading letters from those who missed our radio programs, those who were confined to sick rooms and who really looked for our return with longing. I felt that I owed an allegiance to them and looked forward to playing for them on the air once again.

For a time we feared that our picture had been destroyed in the vaults of the company where they made the reproductions of the original. But it was saved and only small parts destroyed. At any rate, I will never forget its premiere and the wonderful thrill of pleasure that I received when, after what seemed an interminable burst of applause, I stepped out on the stage to say a few words and express my appreciation to RKO and every one who had helped us to make it.

Perhaps the greatest honor conferred upon me was the wonderful way in which my home town turned out en masse to see the picture. The mayor, Kiwanians, Rotarians and American Legion all united in declaring the day on which the picture was first shown a municipal holiday. A long procession of automobiles and street cars went from Westbrook to Portland, over the same route that I used to bicycle over with the two-reel comedy film, to do homage to a local son in his first talking picture.

In most places the picture was well received. It was not intended to be elaborate, but a simple and logical entrance for me into the movies. In my second picture I hope to show that I am capable of the things that have come to be expected of motion picture stars.

GREEN GABLES FIGHT CLAIMS SECOND MAN

Elmer J. House, Victim of Year-Old Battle, Dies in Philadelphia.

WAS MATERIAL WITNESS

An echo of the famous free-for-all battle at the Green Gables roadhouse, near Suitland, Md., in March, 1929, in which one man was fatally wounded and several others were seriously hurt, was heard last night when Inspector William S. Shelby learned from Philadelphia police that Elmer J. House had died in the National Stomach Hospital there on April 1 from a bullet wound received in the fight.

House, who was known by the local authorities as Joseph Houser, had spent three months in the Emergency Hospital as a material witness in connection with the case.

The fight at the Green Gables occurred March 19. Wesley Poutra, of the 1600 block of S street northwest, was mortally wounded. Mickey Dan, of Philadelphia, whom police suspected of having fired the fatal shots, according to Inspector Shelby, is believed to have been "bumped off" later in Philadelphia in a shooting affray.

Ruth Bradley, known as "Hot Shot Ruth," who is alleged to have been present at the time of the shooting, according to Inspector Shelby, committed suicide in Philadelphia last January.

The other person involved in the free-for-all, police say, was Louis Behrens, who suffered a scalp laceration when he was struck on the head by a blunt instrument.

COURT OPPOSITION GAINS BY ELECTION

in any State where the issue is presented."

Senator Robinson of Indiana, Republican, said:

"Just another proof that the American people are against the League of Nations and its legal adviser, the world court and all entangling alliances with Europe. I am confident that the Senate will never ratify the socalled Root formula."

Senator Copeland of New York, Democrat, said:

"It is very clear that the sentiment of the people of the United States is against the Root-Hurst formula. The disgust of the people with the efforts to ratify the fifth reservation has turned thousands of citizens, who were heretofore for American adherence, against the court in toto.

"The result in Illinois is proof conclusive that the sentiment of the people of the United States is against entangling alliances."

Senator Frazier of North Dakota, Republican, said:

"Mrs. McCormick's nomination is a plain warning that the American people are today set against going into the league, the league court or other foreign entanglements. I am of the opinion that the result will make court advocates think twice before they espouse the issue at the coming primary elections."

Senator Trammell, of Florida, Democrat, said:

"I do not believe that the world court proposition was so improved by the so-called Root-Hurst formula as to make it acceptable to the American people. Personally, I am opposed to it. I believe the court was largely the controlling factor in the Illinois primary."

Senator Trammell voted for the world court but has since offered a resolution to rescind the Senate's action.

Senator Pittman of Nevada, Democrat, said:

"The court was an issue in Illinois because there was no other major point of difference between Senator Deneen and Mrs McCormick. I do not think the court will be a national issue between the parties."

STEEL MERGER VOTE COUNT IS DELAYED

to address the gathering in event of the merger's success.

Attorneys for the opposition also indicated they were in readiness to file suit, declaring the merger illegal if its success was announced. They had requested that the office of the clerk of common pleas court remain open. Their suit, it was believed, would be based upon the meeting last night in which the stockholders cast their vote. The attorneys contend that the vote was "railroaded through" over the protest of several stockholders.

Judge C. S. Turnbaugh, special common pleas judge, granted opposition attorneys tonight a supplementary injunction amending the earlier temporary injunction allowed Myron C. Wick, jr., Sheet & Tube stockholder.

The supplementary injunction amends the temporary injunction allowed today by including with the 5,038 shares of Otis & Co. owned Sheet & Tube stock all proxies transferred by record holders after March 22. This is expected to stop a large number of proxies from being counted in favor of the merger if the injunction is made permanent by Judge Turnbaugh. Mr. Wick had alleged in filing for the first temporary injunction today that he was a stockholder and as such had an interest in all shares, and wished to contest the voting of the 51,038 Otis & Co. shares by former record holders as being against law.

MISSING BOY

ROBERT COHEN.

Police to Search For Missing Youth

Boy, After Being Scolded by Father, Fails to Return Home.

Washington and Arlington County police have been asked to search for Robert Cohen, 12-year-old student of Gordon Junior High School, who has been missing since Tuesday afternoon.

Albert Cohen, the boy's father, met him Tuesday afternoon at Wisconsin avenue and M street northwest, and scolded him for some pranks he had committed earlier in the day at his home in Lyon Park, Va.

Mr. Cohen took the boy to a bus station near the Key Bridge. He directed him to return home. No clews have been obtained of his whereabouts although an extensive search has been made.

He is described as wearing gray knickers, gray cap, white blouse, blue sweater, brown shoes and plaid socks. He had light brown hair and a light complexion.

GRUNDY URGES QUIZ INTO PRIMARY FUNDS

William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, and Frank L. Smith, of Illinois.

Senator Grundy delivered a prepared speech before the committee in executive session.

Chairman Shortridge called Senator Grundy to order before the committee for making his speech, but the Pennsylvanian insisted upon exercising his right as a senator and completed his remarks.

In his statement read before the elections committee, Senator Grundy directed an attack upon W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and Republican national committeeman for Pennsylvania, who is supporting Secretary Davis.

Grundy asserted "the most astounding political situation" since railroads were divorced "from their domination of State governments and legislatures exists in Pennsylvania today."

"When Mr. Atterbury, in his dual role of railroad president and Republican national committeeman," Senator Grundy continued, "employs these offices, one to serve the other and both to serve the common purpose of controlling and directing a corrupt and disgraced political machine, for the hoped-for purpose of naming a United States senator, a Governor of Pennsylvania, and members of the State superior and supreme courts, thereby not only fastening the tentacles of railroad domination upon the Commonwealth, its public service commission and its courts, but likewise attempting to extend that questionable and highly dangerous influence into the United States Senate, I suggest the time has arrived for a most thorough and official inquiry into that dual activity and the methods by which it is being carried out."

Chairman Shortridge called Senator Grundy to task for 'abusing the courtesy of the committee" and suggested it "not the place to make a political speech," but Grundy persisted.

The Pennsylvanian also said that Councilman Charles B. Hall and Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham of Philadelphia were beneficiaries of contracts "let upon the cost-plus basis" by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

"I am here as your friend, to do anything that I can to help you," Dr. Alderman continued, "but I do not like such a demonstration as you have staged here tonight. Put on your hats and go back to the university, which is your home."

The president's remarks were cheered and the crowd promptly dispersed.

College Topics, the newspaper published thrice a week by the students, contained in its issue today an editorial suggesting that undergraduates boycott the movie houses unless prices are reduced.

Late tonight Lieut. Otey M. Wood, of the police department, stated that none of the students had been arrested.

D. A. R. DEDICATES TABLET OF MADISON

Exercises at Montpelier in Honor of Fourth President Witnessed by Throng.

FORMER SLAVE IS GUARD

Special to The Washington Post.

Gordonsville, Va., April 9.—Impressive exercises attended by approximately 500 persons marked the unveiling today at Montpelier of a tablet erected by the William Byrd Chapter D. A. R. in memory of James Madison, fourth President of the United States, and his wife "Dolly." The exercises were followed by the formal opening to the public of the little brick walled cemetery wherein are buried former President Madison, his wife and other members of the Madison family.

The Rev. Douglas Neff rector of St. Thomas Church, Orange, opened the ceremonies with an invocation. Justice George L. Browning introduced Attorney General John R. Saunders, who made the dedicatory address, and Mrs. Nathaniel Beaman, of Norfolk, State regent D. A. R., made the address of welcome. Preceding and following the addresses the Piremen's Band of Orange played a number of patriotic airs and the choir of old St. Thomas' Church, assisted by choirs of other churches of Orange, united in singing "America."

The tablet, of bronze, set on a granite base, has raised lettering on an indented surface, which gives the effect of a frame and is easily decipherable at a distance. It was unveiled by two Madison descendants, dressed in colonial costume, Master James Madison Macon IV, of Richmond, and Miss Harriet Scott, of Orange, daughter of Mrs. Frank G. Scott and granddaughter of the late W. W. Scott, Orange County historian and former State law librarian. The tablet is located on the highway, a short distance from the cemetery, and bears the following inscription: "Near this spot are buried James Madison, father of the Constitution, President of the United States; and his wife, Dolly."

Each of the speakers voiced appreciation to Mrs. Thomas H. Somerville, present owner of the historic estate, of her gift of the cemetery to the Daughters of the American Revolution, thus adding it to Virginia's historic shrines.

William Adams, 85-year-old Negro, twice sold from the steps of the mansion, who has been engaged by the chapter as caretaker, and who occupies a small residence which Mrs. Somerville has had erected for his use, stood at the gate to the cemetery and directed visitors to the graves of his beloved masters.

VICTOR IN PRIMARY RETURNS TO CAPITAL

Illinois electors were opposed to the court.

Former Senator Lewis opposed the entrance of the United States in the League of Nations. He voted against the Volstead act twice when he was in the Senate during the Wilson administration.

In the primary Mrs. McCormick faced the man who defeated her late husband, former Senator Medill McCormick, in the senatorial primary six years ago. In the general election she will again be facing a former opponent of her husband, for James Hamilton Lewis was defeated by Medill McCormick by 50,000 votes when he ran for reelection to the Senate in 1918.

While Mrs. McCormick was stepping temporarily out of the political battlefield to pick up her duties in Washington as representative at large from Illinois, the William Hale Thompson City Hall machine, which trailed back into Cook County domination on the McCormick victory wave, was rejoicing at its rejuvenation—and looking to 1931 possibilities.

The victory not only brought together the scattered pieces of the machine, but it also sent down to defeat the man—Senator Deneen—who scattered the pieces two years ago.

Mayor Thompson walked smiling into city council chambers today with some of his old vigor and declared:

"Truth, crushed to earth, will rise again!"

PAPER TO DEFEND INDICTED EDITORS

Two Accused of Libeling Montgomery Officials Out on Bond.

NO VENUE CHANGE SEEN

Following a meeting of the board of directors of the Montgomery Independent, Rockville newspaper, whose three former managing editors and present managing editor were indicted on charges of libel Tuesday by the Montgomery County grand jury, E. Barrett Prettyman, president, announced that the board will stand behind the editors.

"We will not ask for a change of venue," he said, "but we will ask for a jury trial. We will not move to quash all of the indictments, but, in order to expdite the trials, we will move to quash some of them. The directors are unanimously behind all editors employed since they took over management of the paper." This statement apparently excepts Morris A. Beale, editor and publisher of the paper prior to the purchase by the present owners.

Walter S. Casey, the present editor, and Harrison B. French, former editor, have surrendered and given bond, while Beale and Walter W. Liggett, well-known writer and former editor, have not yet been served with the bench warrants which were issued for them. The four men are charged with libel in connection with statements published in the paper which charged mishandling of county affairs by county officials and Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic leader. The grand jury charged that the county commissioners, Maj. Lee and Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, had been libeled by the published statements.

Prettyman said that the newspaper's lawyers would not be able to prepare their defense for at least a month and that the court will be asked to grant them that much time for defense.

Prettyman said that the directors are very glad the indictments were returned because the whole situation can now be aired in open court. They are confident of acquittal, he declared. He asked that the citizens of the county reserve judgment until all of the evidence, not only that which has been presented to the grand jury but additional evidence which will be brought in, has been aired.

A petition attacking the legality of the grand jury was filed after Maj. Lee and the county commissioners asked the grand jury to investigate the county affairs, but was dismissed by Judge Robert B. Peter, who held that the proper time to attack the grand jury was after indictment had been returned.

Copies of the nine indictments against the editors were taken yesterday by the attorneys for the defense. These will be studied before definite action is taken.

Charles Cook, colored, was indicted on a charge of assault with intent to kill by the grand jury. He is alleged to have slashed County Policeman Joseph Nolte with a knife while the policeman and Sergt. Guy L. Jones, of the Silver Spring substation were taking him to the substation on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Officer Nolte was considered in a serious condition for several days at the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring, but he has recovered sufficiently to return to his home at Silver Spring.

Mrs. Mary E. Snure, of Washington, a minor, yesterday filed through, John W. Fenton, jr., her father as next friend, a petition for absolute divorce from John Snure, jr., of Montgomery County. Through Attorney Thomas M. Anderson, of Rockville, she alleges desertion. The couple was married September 20, 1926, and has no children.

Danville Mayor's Veto Likely to Be Overridden

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., April 9.—The City Council tomorrow night faces the possibility of setting a precedent by overriding the veto which Mayor Wooding placed on a recently enacted ordinance authorizing the chief of police to have any person who may be in jail fingerprinted and photographed.

Never before has the mayor's veto been questioned during the 35 years he has been executive and the fate of the ordinance remains in doubt.

Couple Accuse Themselves On Double Bigamy Charge

Upper Marlboro Sheriff Is Puzzled Over Case of Youth and Girl Who Claim They Married Twice Without Benefit of Divorce.

Two hearts that beat as one twice too often were two too much for Sheriff Charles S. Early of Prince Georges County yesterday. Notified that a young couple was being held at the Southwestern Police Station in Baltimore on a charge of bigamy, he sent for them.

When the couple arrived at the sheriff's office in Upper Marlboro, they gave their names as Eugene H. Griffin, 20 years old, and Ruth Murphy Griffin, 18, both of Baltimore. The sheriff then asked who the accusers were. "We are," the couple answered. "But you can't accuse yourself," the astonished sheriff gasped. "Well, we do," they answered.

The sheriff finally decided, after a conference with State's Attorney J. Frank Parran, to charge the couple with investigation and release them on bond while an effort is made to locate their first mates.

According to the story pieced together by the sheriff, the young people each had been married before, but had not lived with them, remaining at the homes of their parents. Later, htey met each other and decided to get married. Having been separated from their first partners for a lengthy time, they did not consider themselves married, but hurried to Upper Marlboro, where they obtained a marriage license and were married June 4, 1929.

After the second ceremony they returned to the home of their parents who are not aware of their marital adventures, or at least weren't yesterday afternoon. Both have just recovered from operations for appendicitis they told the sheriff, and they decided that they had better clear their consciences by confessing. They thereupon went to the police station where they told their story to the desk sergeant and finally managed to convince him that they were not trying to kid him.

If the parties of the first marriage can not be found to prefer charges, or if they refuse to testify on constitutional grounds, the couple can not be charged, the sheriff believes, but must have a divorce and an annulment to solve their troubles.

"Any way, it's the strangest case that Mr. Parran and I have run across in our official careers," he said. And the sheriff and State's Attorney Parran have been in official life for a long, long time.

Special to The Washington Post.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., April 8.—The jury trying Jacob R. Devilbiss, 25, of Morgan County, charged with the slaying of his cmopanion and fellow miner, Theodore Wreckman, was given the case in Circuit Court here this afternoon at 4:30. Judge Rodgers kept court in session.

Devilbiss was his only witness on the stand, occupying the morning session. He pleaded self-defense, declaring he and Wreckman quarreled while driving toward his sister's home at Magnolia. At a point on a lonely road he said he and Wreckman left the car and came to blows. He knew Wreckman as a powerful man and was afraid of him.

He said he had seen Wreckman once whip four men single-handed, and he knew he was an experienced boxer.

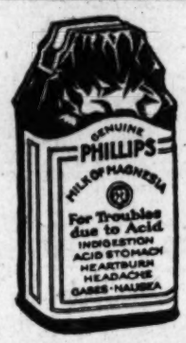
Rare Stamp Sent Pupils At Dark Hollow School

(Associated Press.)

The boys and grils of President Hoover's mountain school at Dark Hollow, Virginia—to whom letters are a parity—are to be given a start as stamp collectors.

Believing that children who collect stamps are more proficient in history, geography and Government, Philip H. Ward, jr., of Philadelphia, sent several thousand unused foreign stamps to the Postoffice Department here. At his request, Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover yesterday dispatched them to Miss Christine Vest, teacher at the school.



Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

HIGHER CLOCK DUTY FIXED BY CONFEREES

Tariff Increase on Zinc Ores and Bentwood Furniture Also Agreed To.

OTHER LEVIES DELAYED

(Associated Press.)

Higher tariffs on watches and clocks, bent-wood furniture and zinc ores were agreed upon by the congressional conferees on the tariff bill yesterday as they completed work on the less controversial sections of the metals and wood schedules.

The disputed sugar levies are next in order for the adjusters of the manifold tariff differences between the Senate and House. As pledges have been given that the House go on record on these rates before final conference decision is reached, however, they will be deferred, and tobacco and agriculture taken up instead.

Differences over proposed duties on silver, logs, lumber and shingles also were left for future decision. The House conference group has promised to let the House vote on the latter two, and indications are that no decision will be made on silver until that body has balloted on the item.

The entire sections embracing watches and clocks, the most technical in the entire bill, were rewritten by the conferees. The changes were described by Senator Smoot (Republican), of Utah, as half way between the present rates approved by the Senate and the increased levies voted by the House.

They also were described as being more or less in line with the duties and phraseology originally reported to the Senate by its finance committee.

SUPERVISORS' ROAD POLICY INDORSED

Fairfax County Chamber Is in Favor of Methods; Schools Discussed.

MASS MEETING CALLED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 919-J-1.

The road-building policy of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors was indorsed yesterday at the meeting of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce at Franconia. George F. Harrison of Herndon, who sponsored the motion, stated that, in view of the injunction suit that had been filed to restrain the supervisors and county engineer from doing work in subdivisions and for private individuals with the county forces and equipment when county funds for road work were not available, he believed most of the tax payers favor the continuation of this policy.

It not only made it possible to have better roads but keeps the county forces intact during the period the county funds are unavailable, he said.

President Edmund H. Allen reported that on July 1, the Federal authorities will take over the maintenance of approximately 8 miles of county and district roads in the Fort Humphreys military reservation.

An announcement was made by Mason Hirst, of Annandale, that there will be a mass meeting in the Annandale school next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock for the citizens of Falls Church, Mount Vernon and Lee districts to consider the ways and means of financing a road from Annandale to Pohick Church. This meeting, which had been originally set for April 15, was changed not to conflict with the joint meeting of the Mount Vernon and Pioneer Grange at Masonville, April 15.

E. Nevitt, chairman of the committee that is working on the elimination of the dangerous points on the Accotink and Telegraph roads, reported that County Engineer F. Novelle Larkin is making an effort to improve conditions on the Accotink road by cutting down the banks and filling the gullies, and that a petition will soon be presented to the board of supervisors asking them to change the present right of way so that one dangerous curve will be eliminated.

Conditions in the county schools, particularly in Mount Vernon, Lee and Centerville districts, was discussed at length. George Smith, of Franconia, presented figures which purported to show that Mount Vernon District is raising more than $5.000 a year in taxes than is spent in that district for schools. He stated that district money should be spent where it is raised and that any surplus, together with the balance carried forward by the old district school board, should be placed in a sinking fund for new buildings. The citizens of the Franconia neighborhood recently petitioned the school board to abolish the old two-room frame schoolhouse and replace it with a modern consolidated school.

F. S. McCandlish, of Fairfax, a member of the county school board, pointed out that the problem facing the board in the southern districts of the county is to find a location for a consolidated school where enough children can be assembled in one place to warrant the construction of a modern school building. He also pointed out that the northern districts have obtained modern schools by district bond issues, and that the only way the southern districts can have new buildings immediately is by a bond flotation.

Herbert Williams, of Woodside, a member of the school board from Providence district, who is leading the campaign for the adoption of a county-wide modern school building program, made a plea for support. He compared the expenditure for schools in the county with what is being done in the adjoining counties within the metropolitan area of Washington. Every one of the counties named by him is yearly spending twice the amount for school purposes and is carrying a bonded indebtedness more than six times that of Fairfax. He stated that Fairfax County is lagging far behind its neighbors by not investing in schools.

It was stated that no increase in taxation is possible for the next year, but that the county must take immediate steps to formulate a progressive program and that the citizens must be willing to go in debt to obtain these advantages. It was said that 25 per cent of the county's white children are not attending school regularly and that the State compulsory educational law should be enforced. The need of additional funds for schools and for improved quality teaching, as well as new buildings was stressed. The supervisors, who recently cut next year's school levy from 95 to 90 cents, were severely criticized by some as having pursued poor economy. The value of improved roads so that schools might be consolidated was also stressed.

The School and Community League at Bailey's Cross Roads will meet this evening at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be addressed by George B. Robey, of Fairfax, who will speak on the State-wide work of the community leagues.

Wilbert T. Woodson, divisional superintendent of schools, is sending out notices to all the teachers whose certificates expire in June. As soon as the teachers have completed the necessary work for the renewal of their certificates they are to file the necessary papers, together with expiring certificates, with him so they may be indorsed and forwarded to the State department of education in Richmond.

Beginning this evening, the Rev. W. H. Grey will conduct a series of revival meetings in the Southern Methodist Church at Lincolnia.

The April meeting of the Mount Vernon Circle of King's Daughters will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Smith in Washington.

The regular monthly meeting of the Potters Hill School and Community League will be held tomorrow night in the school house at Potters Hill.

The 4-H Club at Clifton will meet this morning. Miss Sara E. Thomas, home department agent, will give a demonstration on the making of small cakes and cookies.

The Ladies Aid Society of Brown's Chapel will present a play tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Colvin Run School.

Fight on Evidence Halts Death Trial

Defense Seeks to Exclude Alleged Confession in Girl's Killing.

Salem, Va., April 9 (A.P.).—The question of whether or not Giles Harris, deputy sheriff of Floyd County, would be permitted to testify concerning alleged incriminating statements made to him by Buren Harman, caused a temporary delay this afternoon in the latter's trial on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Freeda Bolt, 18-year-old high school student.

Judge Thornton L. Keister, who is presiding over the trial in Roanoke County Circuit Court here, is expected to rule on the admissibility of the evidence when court reconvenes tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. A defense motion to exclude any testimony relating to the alleged confession of the accused was offered "in chambers" at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon.

Deputy Harris is the man to whom Harman, while a prisoner in the Floyd County Jail, is alleged to have made the statement which led to discovery of Freeda Bolt's strangled body at a lonely spot off the Bent Mountain pike, in Roanoke County. This statement is understood to have been made on Wednesday, December 18, following the girl's disappearance the previous Thursday and Harman's arrest as a suspect on Sunday.

WOMEN PLAN RACE FOR TOWN COUNCIL

Three Candidates in Field for Capitol Heights Mayoralty Post.

BOMB HEARING IS DUE

It is possible that after the election at Capitol Heights Monday, May 5, two women will be on the town council. Mrs. Daisy Cressman and Mrs. Irene Connor are said to be seriously considering making the race and their official announcement is expected to be a matter of only a few days.

Robert Ennis, law graduate, who gained considerable publicity as a pugilist under the name of Bobby Yeomans, is a canidate for mayor.

In addition to the mayor, a town treasurer is to be elected and six seats in the council are to be filled. All officers will be chosen for a term of two years.

In addition to Ennis, Thomas J. Luckett, the incumbent, is expected to be a candidate to succeed himself. Selig Posin, town road supervisor, is also an aspirant for the mayoralty. Clinton G. Light, treasurer, will be a candidate to succeed himself, and so far no opposition to him has developed.

Judge Joseph V. Mattingly, of the Prince Georges County Circuit Court at Marlboro, has signed an order of incorporation, paving the way for the merger of the First National Bank of Hyattsville and the Prince Georges County Bank. The new bank will be known as the Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co.

The Prince Georges County grand jury, now in session at Marlboro, today will begin hearing witnesses in the Seat Pleasant bombing case. Lawrence Leroy Brady, accused by the police of causing the death of his sister-in-law, Naomi Hall Brady, 18 years old, is now held in jail.

Defense attorneys have announced that they will not ask a change of venue, in case of an indictment, nor seek a delay in the trial.

In addition to Naomi Hall Brady, two others were killed in the Carmody road explosion last New Year's. Mrs. Brady's young sister and a baby brother were the other victims.

The county commissioners have received $1,590 from the county police court, through fines assessed and collected for the month of March.

The commissioners have agreed to fill in and furnish dynamite for the construction of a road from Crabbes Gate to Glenndale. The commissioners' assistance is contingent upon affected property owners clearing off the right-of-way.

Hagerstown Plant Nets Profit of $120,162.51

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., April 9.—Hagerstown's municipal electric light plant returned net profits of $120,162.51 for the last year, according to a report made by Mayor Reuben Musey today. It was the first year of the operation of a new plant, which cost nearly $1,000,000, two-thirds of which was paid for out of profits from a former plant.

Mayor Musey announced that he would ask for passage of a bill at the next legislature, providing that profits from the plant can be used in other city departments. Under the law now, all profits must revert to the light department.

When you've been S. O. L. in the S. O. S. (sure outa luck in the Service of Supply) for months; when you've hastened to get there first and joined the Army Ambulance Corps and hoped to be in there, isn't it a grand and glorious feeling to be granted a leave with permission to visit Paris for three days. That was the "break" Henry and I got about two weeks after the armistice. So we smoothed our O. D.'s as best we could and wrapped the old puttees with meticulous care. We ran the gauntlet of the T. O. and the M. P.'s at the nearest Gare, and were soon on the platform awaiting the train for that gay ol' Paree. We, as bucks, were only entitled to use the 3er classe coaches, and these looked very crude and uncomfortable with their plain board benches for seats, and the first-class coaches were so much more enticing. Such were our impressions as the train rumbled in. We snooped into the troiseme classe coach, and, not liking the odor, skipped up front and found a premier classe compartment vacant, and soon were at ease therein. I looked out the window of the door and saw a train official coming toward us, gesticulating wildly and making weird sounds, which fact I conveyed to Henry. Henry always was resourceful, and taking a quick look for himself, told me to lay out flat on the cushioned seat. I obeyed, and he draped a blue and white bandana over my countenance. When the official came up and stood on the step, gesticulating and gargling "soldat" and "troiseme classe" and, other things, Henry used his best French and said very quietly, "My comrade is ill; he has the smallpox." Whereupon the official quickly slammed the door and hurried away. Soon the train started and we were Paris bound—but that's another story.

Worked It Off

At the close of hostilities in 1918 the unit with which I was serving billeted in Mousay, France. Shortly afterward we began our march into Germany for duty with the Army of Occupation.

When we had covered about half the distance to Junkerath, our destination, one of the men of my company was taken ill with a high fever. He reported to the battalion medical officer, who tagged him for the hospital. Instead of getting into the ambulance, as ordered, this man returned to his company and asked permission to put his pack and rifle on one of the supply wagons so he could continue with his outfit. This request was granted and instead of going to the hospital he remained with his company and finished the last half of the march with a temperature running at times as high as 103 degrees. Weather conditions were very bad, with snow and sleet constantly, and rough, gravel highways to travel. This man literally outmarched or marched out the fever.

This was only one of many examples of the undaunted courage of the American soldier.

J. B. RUSSELL,
Front Line Post 1401, V. F. W.

We Were There

It was on December 17 when we reached Brest, and then our troubles began. On that memorable morning we marched for about four miles to Camp Pontanezea, the camp to which the Stars and Stripes of Paris had just devoted a feature article: "Twenty miles of cement sidewalks, beautiful roads; in short, a marvel of American ingenuity and efficiency." Imagine our surprise when we found ourselves wallowing through mud and water ankle deep, stretching for miles in every direction. This was not a camp, but a swamp, alive with 40,000 or 50,000 unfortunates covered with mud and soaked to the skin; for, allow me to say, it rained almost continuously in Brest from December 17 to the date of our sailing, January 10. We looked in vain for some barracks, but no such good fortune awaited us. Instead we beheld a tented city, and soon found ourselves assigned to tents without stoves or floors, each tent accommodating six men.

It was pathetic to see the men wading through water knee deep in effort to reach the kitchens, where from 6,000 to 8,000 men were obliged to stand in line for two hours in the pouring rain before each meal. Never will I forget that first meal: Cold corned beef, one potato, one slice of bread and no coffee. I looked in vain for the toilet accommodations; evidently these are not deemed of sufficient importance to worry about. It was evident to us all that the "Battle of Brest" would be by far the greatest trial that we had been called upon to face. Only the thought that it was a matter of but two or three days enabled us to make the best of it. As a result of constant exposure and the abominable living conditions, scores of men were taken sick and the rest merely existed in the fast dying hope that Providence would some day furnish a ship which would deliver us from this hellhole. For 23 days we endured hardships which only those who visited Brest are in a position to appreciate.

On board the "Critics," westward bound, one of our artists summarized the situation by sketching on the walls of the ship the outlines of a coffin with the laconic inscription, "Brest, Rest."

No further comment is necessary.

MAINTENANCE SUIT FILED BY MRS. MOTT

Action Follows Failure of Deputy to Make Service in Divorce Plea.

CRUELTY IS ALLEGED

Unable to have the papers served on her husband at his home at Edgemoor, Md., after she had filed suit for limited divorce in Montgomery County, Mrs. Daisey Pollitt Mott yesterday filed suit for separate maintenance on Thomas T. Mott in the District Supreme Court and obtained service on him at his place of business.

A Montgomery County deputy sheriff attempted to notify Mr. Mott of the suit at his Maryland home, but failed to complete service. Hence the second suit was filed.

Mrs. Mott states in her brief, filed in the District court, that her husband has an income of $30,000 a year and owns a considerable amount of stocks and bonds, two automobiles, several fine riding horses and an interest in several race horses. Despite this alleged affluence she charges that several months ago, in a fit of anger, he withdrew her allowance.

The defendant is systematically cruel to his wife, according to the brief. As a consequence, the wife asserts, her health has been impaired.

Mrs. Mott also seeks custody of their 8-year-old son, Thomas T. Mott, jr. They were married March 3, 1921. The plaintiff is represented by T. Morris Wampler and Joseph C. Turco, attorneys.

The Post erroneously stated, in reporting the first suit, that Mrs. Mott was awarded temporary alimony of $75 a month.

House Committee Sees Restoration

Work of Rockefeller at Colonial Williamsburg Is Inspected.

Williamsburg, Va., April 9 (A.P.).—The work, sponsored by John D. Rockefeller, jr., to restore colonial Williamsburg, first capital of Virginia, was seen today by the public lands committee of the national House of Representatives as its members continued an inspection tour of the area proposed under the Cramton bill to be included in a national monument.

The congressional party first visited the college library, where its interest was particularly aroused on seeing a board bill of Thomas Jefferson which ran two years and one month. Old Bruton Parish Church; the oldest Protestant church in America, which has been continuously in use since it was built in 1710, was visited next.

The congressional party continued to Yorktown for luncheon and this afternoon visited the Revolutionary battle grounds and scenes of Cornwallis' surrender before going to Old Point Comfort for dinner tonight and thence by boat to Washington.

Hagerstown, Md., April 9.—The body of Mrs. Hester Thorpe, 70, was found in Lake Royer, on the Maryland National Guard reservation near here today. Hundreds, including Boy Scouts from here and Waynesboro, had scoured the mountains since Saturday for the woman, who disappeared from the State Sanitorium at Sabillasville, where she was employed in the diet department.

The body was found today after eight feet of water had been drained from the 350,000-gallon lake. Relatives say she was despondent because of ill health and had indicated that she intended to leave and stay away. A number of persons had been baptised Sunday at almost the same spot where the body was found.

Modern Bakers are Magicians with Flour, Eggs, Butter, Milk and Sugar

GROCERS everywhere have delicious cookies, crackers and cakes in inviting packages that preserve their oven-freshness.

IF IT were not for those dainty cookies, wafers, sweet crackers and cakes made by the great baking companies of this country and sold at grocery stores everywhere—what would ladies do at their teas and bridge parties—what would we do for desserts?

Alluring indeed are the creations of these bakers. And the marvel of it is that they come to us with all their oven-fresh goodness. What a tribute to the careful way they are made, packed and delivered.

There is a place in every balanced diet for these inviting inexpensive cookies and cakes. They round out the meal and make everybody satisfied and happy. For variation, serve them with stewed or fresh fruit or ice cream.

Too many of our meals are lacking in enjoyment because sugar has been left out. Try a dash of sugar in the essential foods, such as vegetables, fruit and cereals, and see how much better they taste. Doctors and dietitians heartily recommend this use of sugar as a flavor. The Sugar Institute.

RUTH McCORMICK.

Ruth Hanna McCormick's sweeping victory over Charles S. Deneen in the Illinois senatorial primary is sufficient to send a chill along the spine of every Republican senator who supports the so-called world court. William B. McKinley was defeated for renomination because he had committed himself to the world court, and now Senator Deneen is beaten for the same reason. In Illinois any candidate for the United States Senate signs his death-warrant when he favors the adhesion of the United States to the so-called world court. There is reason to believe that the Republicans of other States are equally determined to defeat senators who support the court.

Mrs. McCormick conducted her campaign with remarkable insight and practical skill. Although the world court issue is in suspense in the Senate, she contrived to force it to the front in Illinois, and Senator Deneen found it necessary to defend his stand on that question. There was no prohibition controversy between them, as both are classed as dry.

Former Senator James Hamilton Lewis has been nominated for the Senate by the Democrats of Illinois. His contest with Mrs. McCormick will not revolve around the world court issue, as both of them are opposed to the protocol. Mr. Lewis is on the wet side of the prohibition question, and doubtless he will try to make prohibition the leading issue in the campaign. Illinois is supposed to be predominantly wet.

But Illinois is overwhelmingly Republican. Harding received 886,000 votes more than Cox in 1920. Coolidge was 876,000 ahead of Davis in 1924. Hoover was 455,000 ahead of Smith in 1928, in spite of Smith's wetness. The wet Republicans of Illinois are hardly likely to desert their party in 1930 in such numbers as to defeat Mrs. McCormick, in view of the probability that she will be as expert a politician in the campaign as she has proved herself to be before the primary contest. Senator Lewis is acknowledged to be a resourceful campaigner. He will take advantage of all adverse conditions on the Republican side. If the people are determined to make a change, on account of business slackness, tariff disappointments or other reasons, the McCormick ticket may go down with all the rest; but it remains to be proved that Democratic predictions of victory are anything more than the usual midseason dreams. Business conditions are improving, and the tariff will be disposed of before the campaign really begins.

Mr. Lewis was previously offered the Democratic nomination and declined. His consent to run this year indicates that he hopes to take advantage of the apparent split in the Republican ranks caused by the acrimonious campaigns of Senator Deneen and Mrs. McCormick. Bitter feelings have been aroused, and the astute Democrat no doubt plans on capturing a considerable part of Senator Deneen's following. He was fortunate enough to be nominated without opposition.

Notwithstanding this, Mrs. McCormick has a strong hold on the rural vote and the support of the reorganized Chicago machine. Her majority in the primary shows that she is the enthusiastic choice of the Republican party. The natural desire of many people to see an able woman in the Senate will also tend to balance the scales in her favor.

Mrs. McCormick has demonstrated that political acumen is not reserved for the male sex. She made a straightforward fight for the nomination without appealing for support on the ground that women are entitled to representation. If she wins, it will be on her own merit. If she should lose, she would nevertheless be credited with the most remarkable campaign ever conducted by a woman.

NEW COMMISSIONERS.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby and Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer have been confirmed by the Senate as Commissioners of the District of Columbia. The local government is thus assured of a capable administration.

The Senate concurred with the President in the view that the appointment of Maj. Gen. Crosby is not an infraction of the law requiring a selection from civil life. Although Gen. Crosby is a retired officer, he holds virtually the same civil status as any other citizen of the District of Columbia. In view of his fine qualifications and conspicuous ability it was wise to disregard the narrow technicality that would bar him from service as a Commissioner.

Dr. Reichelderfer is recognized as exceptionally fitted for the office of Commissioner. The two new officials, together with the Engineer Commissioner, are in a position to carry into effect the general views of the President touching the better enforcement of law in this District. Gen. Crosby, having charge of the police and fire departments, can bring about reforms that will improve those services and push forward the better class of material to be found in both departments.

RITCHIE RUNS.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie tosses his hat into the Maryland gubernatorial ring. "The people of Maryland have honored me in very full measure," he says in a formal statement, "and I would have no right to ask the public for another term until sentiment on the question, particularly in my own party, had had very full opportunity to crystallize one way or the other." The announcement came close on the heels of the withdrawal of David G. McIntosh from the race. It means that the governor, who is now rounding out his third consecutive term, has received assurance that his supporters can defeat the fourth-term bugaboo that is expected to raise its head.

Maryland's affairs have been well managed under Gov. Ritchie. The State is prosperous. Its highway system stands second to none. Its State police force is a model of efficiency. In spite of the fact that Gov. Ritchie has held office for an extraordinary period, and there are bound to be Democrats who believe that another's turn has come, it would seem to be the part of wisdom for Maryland Democrats to renominate this capable executive.

From the national standpoint, interest in the Maryland gubernatorial contest promises to center in the prohibition controversy and in the effect it may have on the 1932 presidential campaign. Gov. Ritchie is perhaps the most wringing wet of all the State executives. He has preached the Maryland doctrine of States' rights throughout the land, challenging the constitutional right of the Federal Government to say to the people of his State whether they shall be wet or dry. Gov. Ritchie has been such an outstanding protagonist of the wet cause that it would seem the natural thing for the Republicans to stake their chances for victory on a bone-dry candidate. If the Maryland contest is between a wet Democrat and a dry Republican it will be looked upon as a significant test of public sentiment.

If Gov. Ritchie is nominated and elected, he will be in a strong position in the national convention of 1932. In the last convention his name was mentioned frequently during the deadlock that resulted from the opposition to the nomination of Al Smith. In 1932, if he is then serving his fourth consecutive term as Governor of Maryland, Albert C. Ritchie will be a factor to be reckoned with.

CANADA'S BID FOR TOURISTS.

The government amendment to the Canadian export act to deny clearance to vessels carrying liquor to the United States has met the expected opposition in the Canadian Senate. The opposition raises the cry that the government is playing politics, that it has allowed itself to be influenced by Washington, and that it has permitted itself to be bludgeoned by the Dominion dry element. But perhaps the real opposition is disclosed in the speech of Senator Willoughby. Large amounts of money are invested in distilleries and breweries. Since it is doubtful that an act of Parliament can stop smuggling, the Senate is entitled to know the facts as to how the trade is growing, how much money is invested in it, what revenues are derived from it, &c. Senator Willoughby moved that a special commission be created to study the effect of the bill on "Canada's national and economical life and on international relations." Government forces, however, were able to defeat the motion.

Last year the liquor traffic with the United States netted the distillers and brewers of Canada an estimated $25,000,000 and enriched the government by another $14,000,000. Trade returns of recent years show actual exports to the United States to be as follows: Beer—1925, 2,970,000 gallons; 1926, 3,749,000 gallons; 1927, 4,223,000 gallons; 1928, 3,799,000 gallons; 1929, 4,092,000 gallons. Whisky—1925, 415,000 gallons; 1926, 794,000 gallons; 1927, 1,000,000 gallons; 1928, 1,128,000 gallons; 1929, 1,126,000 gallons. In 1922 there were 69 breweries and 10 distilleries in Canada. Today there are 86 breweries and 27 distilleries, the majority and the largest being located in close proximity to the international boundary line. At present there is held in Canadian distilleries 36,000,000 gallons of hard liquor valued at $40,000,000. The annual consumption of domestic distilled liquors in Canada amounts to about 2,500,000 gallons, and the exports, through legalized channels, to the United States have amounted to something less than 2,000,000 gallons a year. There is on hand in Canada, therefore, enough liquor to meet requirements for more than eight years. Superficially, the prohibition of export to the United States seems to threaten hard times for the Canadian liquor industry.

But there are compensations. Last year Canada entertained 15,000,000 American tourists. If the new export regulation should check the flow of Canadian liquor to the United States Canada will be a land of even greater attractiveness to thirsty Americans. The tourist horde may be increased; certainly it will not be diminished. If 15,000,000 American tourists spend only $5 each in Canada the Dominion will be enriched annually to the tune of $75,000,000. It is a shrewd move that seeks to develop this rich source of revenue.

GOVERNMENT OIL.

A year ago President Hoover withdrew from exploitation public oil lands that had not already been prospected and leased. In the interests of oil conservation he announced that no permits for prospecting on the public domain would be granted by the Interior Department until the orgy of overproduction was at an end. This is virtually the only weapon the Government has been able to use against wasteful development of the country's oil reserves.

Justice Jennings Bailey of the District Supreme Court has now decided that the Secretary of the Interior had no authority to take such action. The court granted a writ of mandamus against Secretary Wilbur, directing him to reinstate two applications of prospectors and proceed with them according to law. It is held that the discretionary clause in the law gives the Secretary authority to refuse to issue permits for various reasons, but that it does not permit him to suspend operation of the law. Unless this decision is superseded by the higher courts, its effect will be to nullify the President's conservation policy.

It is estimated that approximately one-tenth of the oil in the United States is on Government land. Prior to the executive order suspending development of these fields, about 6,000 permits for prospecting in them were issued annually. Nearly 550 leases for production of oil were granted in 1927. Government lands yielded 32,000,000 barrels and Indian lands 51,000,000 barrels of petroleum in 1928. When this is dumped on a market already oversupplied it has a depressing effect on the whole industry.

Withdrawal of the public lands from exploitation was considered the first logical step in the administration's program of conservation. Restriction of output from privately-owned fields is not within the province of the Government. Concerted limitation of production does not square with the anti-trust laws. If the Government is to be prohibited from preserving its own oil fields the last bar against reckless and wasteful production will be down.

Congress can remedy the situation by amending the leasing act of 1920 to conform to the administration's conservation program. When the President's policy was first announced it aroused opposition among some States that are anxious to exploit oil lands within their borders for immediate gains, but in general the attitude of Congress was sympathetic to the President's views. Prompt action to sustain his conservation policy would head off a new scramble for permits and a consequent fresh orgy of wildcatting.

Looks as if the next disarmament conference ought to be in Illinois.

SAVING THE POTOMAC

From the New York Times.

It was said of certain men of old that they had eyes, yet saw not. The utility companies and their engineers who are opposing the Cramton bill to preserve the gorge of the Potomac at Washington are laying themselves open to that rebuke. Here is a project which has the support of every responsible group interested in preserving natural scenery and adding to the park areas which form the proper playground of the people. It is designed to exploit for public rather than for private purposes this "region of crags and cataracts" which a kindly Providence has set down almost at the gate of the National Capital. Thousands now enjoy it; tens of thousands will enjoy it in the years to come when it has been made a park and joined with the other scenic and historic attractions of the region by the George Washington Memorial Parkway along the river. Only the public utilities are opposed to the bill, raising against it the old cry of "economic waste."

In this case that argument is peculiarly specious. The engineers first figured out that the waste would amount to $48,000,000, representing mainly the doubtful savings in the regional electric light bill resulting from the use of water power. As the support of the bill became more vigorous, they sharpened their pencils and announced that the loss would be at least $100,000,000. Anxious to reverse the course of nature and turn diamonds into coal, they calmly proceed upon the assumption that the park the Federal commission would create there would in itself involve no economic gain. As well leave the scenery out of Niagara, or the parkways out of Westchester.

In Monday's Times appeared a dispatch from Washington recording the greatest traffic jam in the history of the city. What brought 75,000 automobiles and ten excursion trains to the Capital on a rainy Sunday in April? Congress? It was not in session. The President? He was off fishing on the Rapidan. Mount Vernon? It is closed on Sunday. An "industrialized valley," like the one the engineers waxed so eloquent about in their attack on the Cramton bill before the Senate committee? It is not yet in existence. "What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed, shaken in the wind?" Not quite—a mile or two of cherry trees in bloom along the Potomac by the Lincoln Memorial.

Let the engineers learn to figure such imponderables before they presume to give out statements about "economic waste" in the valley of the Potomac. What makes their contentions all the more absurd is that the rights of the utilities are fully protected. Congress having explicitly reserved the right to authorize whatever navigation, flood-control or power projects the future may render desirable. All that the Cramton bill does is to put scenery first.

FIVE GOLDENROD YEARS.

"Give me five more years and the United States will have a rubber crop that can be utilized in less than 12 months' time," says Thomas A. Edison. It is a significant statement because it is one of the few definite predictions that have been offered concerning the possibility of securing rubber from plants grown in the temperate zone. Coming from another man, it might be dismissed as an evidence of a boastful disposition, or one overinclined to optimism. As offered by Mr. Edison, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger, there is reason to believe that the future will prove it to be a statement of fact.

The inventor adds that he is working on machinery to extract rubber from goldenrod. When the machinery is ready, goldenrod will be planted on a large scale. But goldenrod raised for the purpose of producing rubber will not be one of the country's stable crops, if present understanding of the possibilities is correct. The product to be obtained from it is described as emergency rubber. If the description fits the case, the goldenrod farm in Georgia will not ordinarily be a competitor of the rubber plantation in the Malaysia.

But once given the farms who shall say that their owners will not bring rubber into tariff debates? The time may come when Congress will hear that the infant goldenrod industry is in need of protection against the tropical product. Stranger things have happened. Immediate interest, however, centers in the definite statement of the inventor that he will make rubber from goldenrod in five years. What may thereafter happen in a goldenrod era is another matter.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

COLLECTING A LIVING.

He found this life an irksome task
And grumbled as he went along,
It seemed unjust that men should ask
That he keep pace with all the throng.
He felt he had the right to bask
At ease and live for mirth and song.

He scoffed at law and all restraint
And strangely got it in his head
That men are fools who work with paint
Or steel or stone to earn their bread.
"Life owes the sinner and the saint
A living here," he often said.
Untidy was the house he kept,
Within the lawn the weeds were thick,
No roses round the window crept,
No ivy hid the fading brick,
For life a floor has never swept
And never trimmed a candle wick.

Who settles back content to take
The little living life bestows,
And will not work for beauty's sake
Will never raise one garden rose.
Life will not one improvement make
Or give more comfort than it owes.

The Skilled Rider Doesn't Always Win for Destiny Picks His Mount.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

FATALISM is a dangerous doctrine for people who are lazy or vicious and use it only as an alibi.

"It isn't necessary to work," one will say, "for nothing can help my case if I am doomed to fail, and no effort on my part is necessary if it is my fate to succeed."

And another, thrusting a knife in an enemy, will clear his conscience by saying: "The fault isn't mine. I am merely a helpless tool in the hands of Destiny."

Both might be speaking the truth if they never had heard of fatalism; but knowing its possibilities an an alibi, they have used it unfairly and thus interfered with its normal functioning.

Fatalism, in other words, is a paradox.

It is sound doctrine for those who never have heard of it, but mere self-deceit for those who use it to justify themselves.

What is to be will be, unless a dishonest thinker, willing to fool himself, uses the doctrine to excuse deeds he never would have dared without it.

The doctrine of free will is sound, and yet the very ability to believe in free will is foreordained in the same sense that the oak is foreordained when the acorn is planted.

When you see shamed and heart-broken parents weeping because their daughter has run away with a married man they despise, you can look back through the years and discover causes that make the tragedy seem logical and inevitable.

The girl was permitted to have her own way in all matters; acceptance of her obvious lies encouraged her to be deceitful; her indifference to ethical standards was inherited from one or both parents.

Reasoning from effect to cause is simple.

And it should be equally simple, given parents whose blood relatives are uniformly vicious and worthless, and given a child free of restraint or intelligent guidance, to reason from causes to final effect and foresee the tragedy long before it comes.

In such cases the tragedy is foreordained as certainly as the moisture that rises from the earth is ordained to fall again.

Thus every act in our lives would seem foreordained if we could trace the causes that led to it—not the immediate causes, but the endless series, one inevitably following another, from the day of our birth.

Will power can overcome natural tendencies, but Destiny must provide the will power.

We play the game as best we can; but Destiny stacks the cards, and we can't know until the end whether she stacked them for or against us.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

H Street Should Be Widened From Third to Fourteenth.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: H street northwest, from Third to Fourteenth street, is a one-way street for westbound traffic only. It is the main thoroughfare from the Union Station to the heart of the city, and through to Georgetown, and is the only thoroughfare serving these sections of the city that is not obstructed with a carline.

The heaviest traffic along this street is from Third street west to Seventh street, and if the street is widened as proposed in the House bill, and made a two-way street from Seventh street west to its intersection with Pennsylvania avenue and is left a one-way street for westbound traffic only from Third street to Seventh street, it will result in a tremendous traffic congestion at Seventh street, productive of serious inconvenience to motorists, increased danger to pedestrians, and greater liability to collisions and other accidents.

The pending appropriation bill for the District of Columbia contains a provision for the appropriation of $103,000 for the widening of this street west of Seventh street, for an additional $87,000 the street can be widened to Third street where it intersects Massachusetts avenue. It will be far more economical to have the whole work done at one time than to carry out the present idea of dividing the work. If the widening from Third street to Seventh street is delayed until next year or a later date; the cost for this portion of the work will be exceedingly greater than if it is done in conjunction with the widening from Seventh street west.

Does Prohibition Make Mollycoddles of Baseball Players? Old Fan Deplores the Loss of Stamina.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The slap-dash disputation between wets and drys as to the good and bad results of prohibition gets me. In reference to our national game, however, I feel inclined to side with the wets.

The baseball heroes of the beerful pre-Volstead days were seldom missing from the line-up, as any old-time fan will tell you, while the fans of these piping times of prohibition are often disappointed by the absence of some ailing star.

Going away back to the days when there was a flourishing bar next door to the box office or under the grandstand itself, who ever heard of Charley Comiskey, or old Pop Anson or Dan Brouthers laying off to have his arm rubbed or his tonsils extracted?

Today, while I eagerly await the crack of the bat telling me that spring is really here, the news from the training camps reads like a clinical record. The Mike Martins all over the country are busy putting trick knees in shape, rubbing sore salary wings, and dispensing antifat mixtures to corpulent pitchers. And, indeed, until the season opens and a good warm spell thaws them out, you might imagine that our baseball heroes are a lot of pampered weaklings.

Consider the list of such old-time stars as Buck Ewing, Mike Kelley, Silver Flint, Billy Sunday, big Ed Walsh, Hughey Jennings, Ty Cobb, Kid Elberfeld, Clark Griffith, Hans Wagner, Muggsy McGraw. They never needed chiropractors in the good old wet days.

Distortion of Education by Modernists Who Would Inject Propaganda Into Schools and Colleges.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The recent protest in your letter column in regard to professors who seek "academic freedom" in order to spread "modernist" propaganda suggests to me that maybe the scientific methods of teaching we hear so much about are too readily accepted by the public.

Improvements in our educational system are possible and much to be desired. But they should not be too hastily considered and adopted.

Is there not danger that academic idealism, in "the mad pride of intellectuality," may get too far away from the wholesome simplicity of the past?

There are but two primary objects to be considered in the education of youth. At least I think so. These objects are (1) to inculcate knowledge; (2) to develop in the student a love of knowledge and ability to use it. And of these objects the second is far the more important. For dry facts have little value unless there is utilization of knowledge.

Incidentally, the development of character is of importance, and anything that will promote the cultural spirit should be welcome. But the ephemeral fads and academic propaganda which would make free with long established social codes should be held in check in our schools and universities.

OLD TEACHER.

Don't Bar Windows to Deter Suicides. It Would Trap People in Case of Fire.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The letter in The Post of April 8, which suggested that all windows in buildings be barred to prevent people from jumping out of them to commit suicide, contains two flaws. First, it is against the District fire regulations to place bars in windows of dwellings, because in case of fire in a building with the windows barred persons trapped in rooms could not escape through the windows. Second, if a person is obsessed with the idea of suicide by leaping from a building he will carry out his idea whether or not the windows are barred. There is nothing to prevent him from going to the roof of the building and making the leap, which would endanger the lives of the people below to a greater extent than if he leaped out of a lower window.

When people leap to death they do not intend to endanger the lives of other people, and tragedies of this kind very seldom happen. The placing of bars on all windows will not remedy this situation, but is liable to endanger the lives of many persons in case of a serious fire.

EXPLORER RETURNS WITH RARE PLANTS

Dr. Joseph F. Rock, Leader of Expedition to Tibetan Lands, Is Home.

VALUABLE DATA GAINED

Dr. Joseph F. Rock, famous plant explorer, leader of the National Geographic Society's 1927-1930 expedition to unexplored areas of the China-Tibetan borderland, has just returned to Washington with a noteworthy collection of plant and zoological specimens, and remarkable photographs of lofty, snow-covered mountains, which have been the subjects of much geographic speculation.

Dr. Rock is the man who braved tigers and wild elephants to locate the trees which yield chaulmoogra oil, used in the treatment of leprosy. He found aboriginal tribes in west China practicing pre-Buddhist religious rites, and obtained for the Library of Congress a complete set of the priceless Tibetan classics from the Buddhist monastery at Choni before it was destroyed last year.

On his last expedition Dr. Rock devoted his first year to exploration of the majestic Konkaling snow peaks northwest of the semi-independent Liam kingdom of Nuli in the Chinese province of Szechwan.

These peaks had not previously been visited by any foreigner. They are situated in the territory infested by Tibetan bandits, and the menace of these bandits has made the area too perilous for exploration. The expedition was conducted with the aid of the Muli king who had friendly relations with the head bandit of this lofty stronghold.

Among the mass of valuable scientific data, and photographs of high geographic interest brought back by Dr. Rock, are about 20,000 sheets of plants he collected. Many of these are rhododendrons not previously collected.

While he was in the field he shipped back seeds of 173 species of rhododendron not previously introduced in America; in addition, many other ornamental plants, both herbaceous and wooded.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

SENATOR SIMMONS, of North Carolina, took occasion in the Senate yesterday to categorically deny that he had joined with Senator Robinson, of Indiana, in the latter's attempt to obscure the Democrats' issue against Mr. Huston by attacking the Democratic chairman, Mr. Raskob. The North Carolina senator said he had not had one word with Senator Robinson on the subject.

Senator Heflin, of Alabama, followed with his usual complimentary remarks. And the two of them made it a point to take another crack at Mr. Raskob.

• • • •

SENATOR ROBINSON'S sole purpose in calling Mr. Raskob before the lobby committee was to stir up dissension in the Democratic ranks. He had every reason to believe that Senators Simmons and Senator Heflin would respond. Had they not done so Senator Robinson's effort would have been a dud.

But the very day after Mr. Raskob appeared before the lobby committee Senator Simmons arose in his seat and read a carefully prepared statement calling for Mr. Raskob's resignation as chairman of the Democratic national committee.

If this is not playing ball with Senator Robinson then it is hard to understand the political signs.

• • • •

THERE are any number of other Southern Democrats who are pained every time Mr. Raskob's name is mentioned. It is doubtful if any one of them would ever go through another campaign with him. But they keep their opinions and discomfort to themselves. The mentioning of Mr. Raskob's name is always political. The demand for his resignation is enough, of course.

It is difficult to conceive that Senator Robinson's summoning of him before the lobby committee had any economic purpose or was intended to alleviate the sufferings of mankind one bit, and neither is it possible to see any such motive in Senator Simmons' well-timed attack.

It appeared to be quite clear that the minds of Senators Robinson, Simmons and Heflin were running in the same channel, with different motives, of course, but all bent upon reviving the Raskob issue.

SENATE QUIZ ON POSTOFFICE LEASE NOW SEEMS CERTAIN

of rental and fighting the matter in court since 1928, but Senator Blaine charges that the Kolp firm has similar leases all over the country.

Ramifications of the case are indicated by the fact that senators, Mr. Blaine for one and Senator Glenn, of Illinois, for another, have received letters from bankers saying that a lot of innocent investors may be hurt.

Senator Fess attacked Senator Blaine yesterday for making "insinuations" in his speech of Tuesday against Postmaster General Brown. Mr. Blaine had said that an investigation would probably show some of the bonds of the huge combine in Mr. Brown's bank in Toledo. The Postmaster General exhibited a letter from the president of his bank saying none of St. Paul bonds was in the bank. Mr. Blaine said he had not intended any insinuation, but was simply trying to show how widespread were the bonds, not of the St. Paul case alone, but of the combine, which Mr. Blaine declared he has reason to believe has 60 or 65 leases.

Negligence Is Charged.

When Mr. Fess tried to press him to withdraw all of his remarks against the present Postmaster General, Mr. Blaine insisted that both Postmaster General Brown and Attorney General Mitchell had been "culpably negligent."

Neither had given him any cooperation in his investigation of the case, he declared.

The story is that Representative Maas, of St. Paul, got hold of the papers in t' case accidentally from the Department of Justice, and not being able to get anywhere with his expose in the House, turned the matter over to Mr. Blaine. The Wisconsin senator charges that the departme t has been trying to get them back; so he got possession of them by using his authority as a member of the Caraway lobby committee to subpoena them from Mr. Maas.

"Knowledge of Fraud" Charged.

"There has been guilty knowledge of fraud," he charged, "and the Postoffice Department is culpably negligent in the performance of its duty."

"There has apparently been a design to suppress and hush this thing up," he shouted. "There has not been cooperation between members of Congress and the Attorney General and the Attorney General stands responsible for that."

Postmaster General Brown, in his statement, said:

"I have never seen nor had access to the file during my term of office. • • • The only connection I have had with the controversy has been to direct an investigation to ascertain whether, in view of the charges made, that the building is unsound, postoffice employes could safely work therein.

Statement by Brown.

"Since March, 1929," he explained, "the Department of Justice has at all times had the matter in hand and has been taking appropriate steps to terminate the lease."

When Senator Fess said that the St. Paul lease had originated in Burleson's administration, Senator Connally, of Texas, jumped into the fray, asking if Mr. Fess intended "to lay the blame" on Mr. Burleson. Mr. Fess replied that he did not intend to blame any one as he was not prepared to say there had been any wrongdoing on the part of any one.

Mr. Connally declared Mr. Burleson had simply negotiated a preliminary contract which Will Hays later executed.

Hays' Name Is Mentioned.

"There was no compulsion for Hays to accept the contract if anything wrong had been done by Burleson," he said. "If there was anything wrong it was the duty of Hays and the then administration to repudiate what Burleson had done."

Mr. Blaine interrupted to say that the building did not comply with the contract entered into by Mr. Burleson.

Mr. Blaine's resolution calls for an inquiry by a special committee. A vote was deferred yesterday, but there is no question that an investigation will be ordered. In the meantime there are rumors flying all over the lot.

FIVE-POWER FARCE ENDED BY FACTIONS

FRENCH BLOCK FORMULA

to discuss League of Nations security obligations.

Meeting in Deadlock.

In view of these statements, Mr. MacDonald did not think it useful to give Ambassador Bordonaro the Franco-British security formula and the meeting thus ended in complete deadlock.

It is understood that the three-power pact now being discussed will include two special clauses, designed to meet the Japanese claim for 70 per cent in big cruisers and the British demand for protection against the French building program. One clause will state that the contracting powers after the expiration of the treaty, will be free to put forward claims for new ratios, and the other will provide for the right to build in addition to treaty figures upon giving adequate notice to the other two powers.

The latter clause excites some alarm among Americans, who fear its possible effect upon the Senate. In American quarters it was suggested that for two or three years Great Britain, in any case, will not build beyond the Rapidan figures and that perhaps France will not build as much as she says she will. It is clear an attempt will be made to insure the treaty's ratification at Washington by making the Rapidan figures inviolate for at least two years.

Carrier Dispute Settled.

The aircraft carrier dispute was settled by committee No. 1 today. Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and Admiral Pratt carried the other powers with them in gaining recognition as aircraft carriers of vessels of less than 10,000 tons carrying guns no larger than 6 inches, thus permitting the United States to transfer to this category surplus small cruiser tonnage and circumventing the British desire to limit aircraft carriers below the level the United States wished.

(Under the terms of the Washington Treaty of 1921-22, aircraft carriers of less than 10,000 tons are unlimited, but total tonnages in this category are assigned to each of the signatories. The United States and Great Britain are limited to 135,000 tons each of this class of vessel, irrespective of the size of individual ships; Japan to 81,000 tons, and Italy and France to 60,000 tons each. Ed.)

The Japanese-American discussion today resulted in Japan withdrawing her request to be allowed to transfer some of her destroyer tonnage into submarines. The amount she originally asked the right to transfer was 20,000 tons.

Grants Replacement Right.

The United States granted Japan the right to replace ten 6-inch-gun cruisers and ten destroyers during the life of the treaty before those ships become over age, and also Japan will be permitted to replace about ten submarines, so as to keep her dockyards in activity until 1936.

The one remaining outstanding minor point between the two countries, which will be taken up tomorrow, is the Japanese desire to replace training ships, when too old to use, by cruisers from the active list which are not obsolete. These transferred cruisers could then be replaced by new cruisers. The United States holds that Japan should replace old training ships only by other ships which have become obsolete and that the latter should be rendered unserviceable for fighting before being turned into training ships. This little disagreement has been argued for weeks, the British backing the United States.

Oregon Trail's Centenary Enlists Prairie Schooners

St. Louis Today to Revive Start of Trek With Picturesque Pageant; Senator Hawes to Broadcast Address for Banquet Tonight.

St. Louis, April 9 (A.P.).—Creaking wheels of ten covered wagons were oiled today and leather jackets, squirrel caps and other articles reminiscent of pioneer days were borrowed from historical societies and relic collectors for the reenactment tomorrow of the departure of the first wagon train over the Oregon trail.

When 81 hardy frontiersmen left the Mississippi River bank at St. Louis for the unexplored West, April 10, 100 years ago, they blazed a trail, the fame of which never has faded. Tomorrow the start of that first trek will be revived and a reproduction of the first expedition will set out from near the river front and rumble Westward.

As the cavalcade assembles at the old St. Louis courthouse at 2:30 p. m., ready to start over the trail, a pageant will reproduce the scene of 100 years ago. Half a hundred persons, most of them women dressed in costume, will bid members of the party goodby. Cattle and an ox will add to the picture.

The reconstructed wagon train composed of 81 men in typical pioneer dress, part of them riding in the covered wagons and in two old-time buggies and others riding horses and mules, will travel five miles through the streets of St. Louis and then halt at Forest Park.

The expedition will carry a message of greeting from Gov. H. S. Caulfield of Missouri to Gov. A. W. Norbald of Oregon. When the wagon train disperses a motor car will speed the message to Lambert Field, and a mail plane will carry it on to Salem, Oreg., covering a distance in hours that it took the wagon train weeks to travel.

As colorful as the pageant depicting the departure of the expedition will be the pioneer dinner at a hotel here Thursday evening. Four hundred and fifty persons, part of them dressed in frontier day costumes, are expected to attend. The banquet room will be transformed into a trading post. Furs and relics will be hung on the walls, tables are to be of rough wood and the menus will be printed on mole skins. The dinner, the principal dish of which is venison, will be served by waiters in costumes of the period.

Descendants of early settlers, members of historical and patriotic groups are to be present. None of the governors of the eight States along the Oregon trail was able to accept an invitation to the dinner.

Dr. Howard R. Driggs, of Columbia University, president of the National Oregon Trail Association, will speak at the dinner, while a radio speech by Senator Harry B Hawes, of Missouri, broadcast from Washington, D. C., over the blue network of the National Broadcasting Co., will be heard by the diners at 8 p. m. Senator Charles McNary, of Oregon, will introduce Senator Hawes. Old-time music and Indian songs will be other features of the program.

Following the dinner Boy Scouts will present a pageant, "The Spirit of the Oregon Trail," in which nearly 150 characters will portray historical events.

Tomorrow's celebration marks the beginning of "the covered wagon centennial," sponsored by the Oregon Trail Association and approved by President Hoover who has set aside the period from April 10 to December 29 for its observance. Celebrations will be held in other cities along the trail this summer and fall.

GANDHI'S REBELLION IN INDIA GAINS SPEED

Another Son Is Arrested, but Leader Himself Is Still at Liberty.

GOVERNOR DELAYS TRIP

Bombay, April 9 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi's movement in defiance of the British government's salt law continued today to spread rapidly in various districts and another of his sons—Davi Das Gandhi—was arrested and charged with sedition.

The Nationalist leader himself remained free from police molestation and obviously surprised at the official indifference toward him personally. Observers who were close to him said he also was disappointed.

Gandhi today visited the village of Bhimrad, where he was greeted by a chorus of women singing revolutionary songs. The part played by women in the campaign is increasing, particularly in the Gujerat, a northern region of the Bombay presidency. It has also been noted that a woman orator and poet, Mme. Sarojini Naidu has been named by the mahatma to become his second in command in case the present occupant of that post, Abbas Tyabji, is arrested.

Gandhi told the people of Bhimrad that he was glad to find them in festive mood. He hoped that they would remain in that state of mind, even though some of them might later be wounded or even killed.

The governor of Bombay has postponed his annual trip to his hot weather headquarters at Mahabaleshwar in order to remain in close touch with possible developments in this section of British India.

A report from Madras said that 90 volunteers, members of the Young Independent Party and the League of Youth, have joined the civil resistance movement and intend to make salt at Madras city. They are headed by Mr. Prakasam, a former member of the legislative assembly.

they affixed, in time, the proper visa—an ordinary one.

Accompanying Mrs. Borah was Mrs. Jerome Day, whose husband is an official of the Hercules Silver Mine in Idaho. They expect to spend the spring in southern France and England.

Interviewed by reporters, Mrs. Borah was asked if Senator Borah was as outspoken at home as in the Senate. She laughed and said:

"Oh, no! He is very quiet at home. He is tired out and told me before I took a train for New York that ten minutes after Congres adjourns he is going back to Boise and get some rest. The trouble with Mr. Borah is that he works too hard. He has fairly worn himself out. He takes his pleasures sadly."

Mrs. Borah added that Senator Borah is standing for reelection in November, and that for this reason he does not entertain any idea of joining her abroad, but wishes to be back in Idaho.

amendment and return liquor control to the States. "He added that prohibition could never succeed because it did not appeal to the public conscience.

Mrs. Sabin, who resigned as the New York member of the Republican national committee because she was opposed to the dry law, said that relief from an "intolerable situation" could not be obtained until the personnel of the Congress was changed.

Senator Tydings said that the eighteenth amendment would inevitably be repealed because the public would not continue to accept the lawlessness, hypocrisy and demoralization that the statute had engendered.

As toastmaster, Representative Mary T. Norton sandwiched in several broadsides against the dry law, which she described as the "greatest mistake that this country has ever committed."

"American women are rapidly joining the men in demanding that this unenforceable law be taken from the Constitution," she added. "I hesitate to think of what will happen to our Government if the statute is maintained."

More than a dozen members of Congress and many women prominently identified with Washington society were present. Officers of the women's organization, which boasts a local membership of more than 1,000, are Miss Belle Gurnee, chairman; Representative Norton, vice chairman; Mrs. William B. Mason, secretary, and Mrs. John F. Dryden, secretary. The Crusaders were represented at the meeting by Nathaniel Holmes, commander; James J. Wadsworth and Charles Sabin, jr., national officials, and John F. Dryden, treasurer.

Three More Held In Arson Racket

Trio Nabbed in Cleveland Linked With $4,000,000 Plot in Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 9 (A.P.).—Three persons were arrested in Cleveland today, local police said, in connection with Buffalo's $4,000,000 arson racket, raising the number of those under arrest to six. The officers declined to reveal the names of those arrested today.

The arrests in Cleveland were said to have resulted from a search being carried on in that city for the occupant of a flat in Auburn avenue which was dynamited and burned. The occupant disappeared a short time before the fire, police said, and had been traced to Cleveland.

Detective Sergeant Simon J. Callinan, of the arson squad, was to go to Cleveland late tonight to question those arrested in that city.

French Count, Noted Aviator, Will Visit City

M. de la Veaux, Chief of F. A. I., Is Due Here Today.

WASHINGTON, ever welcoming favorite sons of other countries and of other States, will today receive a notable visitor, Count de la Veaux, president of the Federation Aeronautiques Internationale, whose 15,000-mile flight over South America, the United States and Canada is commanding international attention. Count de la Veaux, who flew from France to Africa to continue his journey to South America by boat, is in this country on a tour of inspection of numerous aviation centers, in the interests of the F. A. I., which is the world governing body for all air races, meets and record attempts.

Count de la Veaux is in this country for the first time since 1904 when he was first becoming interested in aviation after making a record for himself in 1898 as a famous baloonist.

Coming directly to Washington from Cleveland and from Dayton, Ohio, where he visited briefly with Orville Wright, the count will be met at Hoover Field at noon by the Military Attache of the French Embassy for Aeronautics, Maj. Georges Thenault, and Mr. Adolph K. Barta, president of the Aero Club of Washington.

While in Washington Count de la Veaux will be entertained unofficially by distinguished people. The French Ambassador and Mme. Claudel, will entertain at dinner this evening in his honor and tomorrow the Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation, Mr. F. Trubee Davison, will give a luncheon for him at the Metropolitan Club. Tomorrow evening Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham will entertain at dinner in honor of the visitor. Senator Bingham is the president of the National Aeronautics Association which is the American branch of the F. A. I.

A true knight of the air the count's brilliant record in the realm of aeronautics reads like a tale of boundless adventure. Lawyer, traveler, ethnographer, author and servant to his country as Minister of Public Instruction he adds to his laurels the role of balloonist and aviator.

It was in 1898 that he made his first ascension in a balloon with the world-famed M. Castillon de Saint-Victor. Thereafter he devoted himself to the science of aeronautics, making the world's record for distance with the trip from Paris to Korostychew, Russia, in 35 hours. For this feat the count was awarded the Grand Prix de l'Aeronautique.

Numerous flights followed the memorable one to the wastes of Russia. Continuous and diligent application to the science of aviation resulted in various awards until Count de la Veaux found his name topping all others in the French service.

His next stop will be in Boston.

Jefferson's Home Offers Welcome to Patriotic Horde

Mountain-Top Residence at Charlottesville Extends Greeting to Throng of Pilgrims From Farthest Corner of Nation; Career Is Traced.

By THEODORE FRED KUPER,
National Director, Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation.

A constantly growing line of patriotic pilgrims wends its way from every State and city to historic Virginia and climbs to the mountain top overlooking Charlottesville, where Thomas Jefferson built his beloved Monticello.

The mansion and all the buildings have waited for almost a century to be accepted by the Nation which Thomas Jefferson helped to establish, but at last it is being preserved as a patriotic shrine with the hope that the work of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation will help to keep alive the fundamental ideals of our country, of which Thomas Jefferson was the outstanding champion.

Thomas Jefferson was born on April 13, 1743, in Charlottesville, Va., which was then considered the far western frontier of the thirteen original Colonies. The little house where he was born was known as Shadewell. It was at the foot of the mountain which belonged to Thomas Jefferson's father, Peter Jefferson. When Thomas Jefferson was a boy he spent many days on top of this mountain. His dear chum, Dabney Carr, always went along with him. One day Dabney said that the place was so beautiful that when he died he wished to be buried right on top of this mountain, underneath the wonderful oak tree, just where they used to read and play. Jefferson said he felt the same way. They shook hands and they promised each other to keep that agreement.

Many years later Dabney Carr died. Jefferson was away from Charlottesville and no one knew of this boyhood agreement, so Dabney Carr was buried in the little village cemetery. However, when Jefferson returned to Charlottesville, he arranged to have the remains of his boyhood chum taken from the old cemetery and buried beneath the oak tree on the mountain—Jefferson was true to his boyhood promise. Visitors to the cemetery at Monticello will see the stone over Dabney Carr's grave, with the beautiful inscription which Jefferson wrote in memory of his dear friend. Next to that grave is the granite shaft which marks the spot where Jefferson himself lies buried.

Dreamed of Home on Mountain.

One day Tom said to Dabney that he hoped and dreamed that some day he would build his home on top of the mountain. Jefferson was his own architect. Many consider him the Father of American Architecture.

When the top of the mountain was leveled, Jefferson planned a big lawn in the center of a square. In the southwest corner of this square he started to build a little brick building. It was here that on New Year's day in 1772 he arrived in a blizzard, bringing his bride to Monticello. It was too late to awaken the servants and too cold to attempt to heat the main house, so they spent their honeymoon in this lovely little building, which we now call Honeymoon lodge.

His bride was the young, lovely widow, Martha Wayles Skelton. Their marriage was one of the most beautiful romances of that day. Their married life was very short, though, for she died ten years later. Jefferson mourned her all the rest of his life, and was both mother and father to their children.

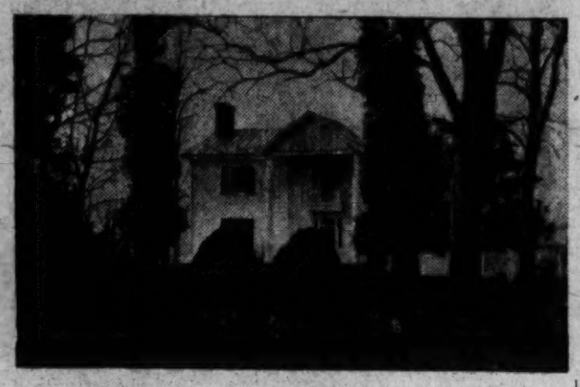
THOMAS JEFFERSON.

If one passes around the mansion to exactly the opposite side, one will not see the dome which makes the westerly side look so stately. However, the mansion has no rear or ugly side. The easterly front has its own distinguishing charm. While in harmony with the rest of the design, it speaks more of Thomas Jefferson, the private citizen.

It was from this entrance that Thomas Jefferson, 152 years ago, started for Philadelphia in the one-horse gig, in which he rode to the famous session of the Continental Congress for which he wrote the Declaration of Independence. What is left of Jefferson's gig may be seen by those who come to Monticello.

Open Throughout Year.

Monticello is open to visitors week days and Sundays throughout the year. Official guides welcome visitors and take them through the rooms and explain everything. Up these very steps the British, led by Tarleton, rushed with their horses. They sought to capture Gov. Jefferson and send him back to England, a prisoner, to pay the penalty for writing the Declaration of Independence.



Dedication of

"ASH LAWN"

"Ash Lawn," former Home of James Monroe, Fifth President of the United States, Author of the Monroe Doctrine, Governor of Virginia.

DEDICATION AT 10 A. M.

THE HOME OF JAMES MONROE

By M. LESTER ROEDER

WHERE hands were not reluctant to break the soil, but equally versatile at arms when duty commanded, and at rocking the cradle of liberty when the Colonies were striving to break the fetters of foreign rule, there, in old Virginia, another magic circle has been described to preserve for this generation and those which will follow a permanent landmark on the road of struggle which our Nation traversed from the date of its inception to its present position as a power in the world. It is the home of the author of the Monroe Doctrine and the fifth President of the United States—James Monroe.

On February 1, 1830, the clerk of the famous county of Albemarle in Virginia, delivered to E. A. Goodwyn an original deed uttered by Monroe, conveying the latter's home, known as "Ash Lawn."

Just one hundred years later, February 1, 1930, a similar deed was delivered to Jay Winston Johns, of Pittsburgh, who had chanced to discover that the estate was for sale, as it is said to have been on several previous occasions. Mr. Johns saw the opportunity of rescuing the fine old place and of making it available as a national shrine for the benefit of all citizens of the country.

Consisting of 600 acres of meadow and hill, this beautiful site lies within 5 miles of Charlottesville, a city of charm and fame, penetrated by two main highways and two railroads, making it easily accessible to both North and South. There the Monticello Hotel offers its distinct hospitality to the visitor who desires to tarry a day and to walk along the paths where trod so many illustrious sons now sleeping in the soil they helped to free.

Rich in historic memory, Charlottesville is one of the few rapidly vanishing places in America where industry has not disturbed the restfulness which lurks in the shadows of almost sacred institutions. There one will have pointed out to him a structure of special pride—the old courthouse where practiced Jefferson, and where Patrick Henry enunciated phrases on behalf of human liberty that became forever indelibly printed on the pages of the history of the human race. Nearby is located the University of Virginia, founded by Jefferson on the principle of religious and intellectual freedom.

At this university, begun by the protagonists in so many of the world's affairs, may be seen the room once occupied by Edgar Allan Poe and the room of another whose genius lay in a vastly different sphere but who played his unforgettable role in the destinies of men—Woodrow Wilson.

Across the valley occupied by the city itself stands Monticello, the colonial mansion which Jefferson fashioned out of his boyhood dreams and finally constructed on a wooded mountain that slopes down to the peaceful vale that was his farm. And there on the spot he loved, lies in eternal sleep the immortal Jefferson.

MR. AND MRS. JAY WINSTON JOHNS who are restoring Ash Lawn, the home of James Monroe, with a view of making it a national shrine.

By going a little farther to the east, he who fortune permits to visit these scenes comes upon "Ash Lawn," and within a short distance by motor, the old home of Madison, "the father of our Constitution."

Perhaps the most outstanding natural aspect which greets the eye as one approaches "Ash Lawn" is the mighty Norwegian pine which Monroe brought to America and had transplanted on his estate while his homestead was in the process of erection. This exotic tree stands exactly in the center of an oval-shaped garden of French motif and, with its surroundings, has exacted the admiration of European and American landscape connoisseurs.

At this delightful old homestead Monroe spent 26 years, constituting the period of his early manhood in which he prepared himself for a future that was to influence the trend of this and other nations. The mounting block where, torn between the conflicting emotions of duty and affection for the home he had grown to love, he got on his favorite horse and rode to Washington to take the oath of office as President, still remains.

So it is such historic treasures as these that lie wrapped in the heart of the Old Dominion, inviting a visit on the part of every person in the United States. And Southern hospitality, which still rules Virginia manners, bids you a gracious welcome and a pleasant stay.

Jefferson's University Entrancing to Visitors

Beautiful Buildings and Historic Points on Its Campus.

As early as 1779 Thomas Jefferson had presented to the Virginia assembly his plans for public education, which included a university, but these plans not materializing immediately, Jefferson devoted the year of 1814 largely to the work of founding a university in accord with his own ideals. By act of the State Legislature in 1819 the institution was finally established and it was first opened to students in 1825.

EDWIN A. ALDERMAN, president, University of Virginia.

During the Civil War, despite a heavy loss of students, the university continued to function, and with increasing success following the end of hostilities. In 1895 the Rotunda, Annex and some adjacent buildings were destroyed by fire but afterwards rebuilt exactly. Since that time several other important buildings have been added.

The original buildings of the university are purely classic in style and more recent construction has been made to harmonize in design. At the present time $1,500,000 is being expended in building a new group of medical buildings.

JOHN L. NEWCOMB, assistant to the president, University of Virginia.

The grounds and dormitories are replete with historical significance and here may be seen the rooms occupied by Edgar Allan Poe, Woodrow Wilson and other notables, while in attendance at the university. A cordial welcome is extended to all visitors by the trustees and faculty of the university and among the features of unusual interest that may be seen are the ranges, the lawn, the rotunda and the famous Jefferson statue. The old original buildings have been characterized by Fiske Kimball as "the greatest surviving masterpiece of the classical revival in America, the most magnificent architectural creation of its day on this side of the Atlantic."

BUSINESS THRIVING IN CHARLOTTESVILLE

Industry Also Active in This Educational Center of Virginia.

HAS RICH ENVIRONMENT

By VERBON E. KEMP
(Executive Secretary, Chamber of Commerce).

The City of Charlottesville merges the traditional with the modern, retaining the best of each. Balancing its many historic, health and educational attractions is a business and industrial activity of considerable note.

Located in the heart of Virginia and accessible to all points by rail and improved highways, Charlottesville is an important distribution point for the central Virginia territory. It is also a world market for the famous Albemarle County fruit production. It houses eight major industries whose products are distributed throughout the entire country.

A unique institution in Charlottesville is the 64-year-old woolen mill which employs nearly 200 workmen and produces military cloth exclusively. Its entire output is contracted for by the United States Government, military schools and railway companies.

ROSCOE S. ADAMS, President, Charlottesville Chamber of Commerce.

Two large silk mills produce the finest grades of silks, crepes and satins, valued at $4,000,000 annually.

The only plant for the manufacture of Rockinchair underwear for men is located at Charlottesville. Here also is the oldest and largest law book publishing house in the South.

Feed and flour mills, creameries, bottling plants, ice factories, brick-kilns, sash, door and office equipment plants and cold storage warehouses complete the list of the city's industries.

Much of this industrial development has taken place during the past ten years. It is no wonder that the latest city directory lists 16,167 names, although the 1920 census only showed 11,500. In addition, an average of 2,300 students are in attendance throughout the entire year at the University of Virginia.

Wholesale distributors have a trade territory which embraces ten counties and extends, in some cases, in West Virginia. The immediate distribution area has a population of 140,000, a farm production valued at $20,000,000 and bank resources of $30,000,000.

WALDO A. BACON, Manager, Monticello Hotel.

As a residential center, Charlottesville is also blessed with many advantages. "Climate" has been overworked as a civic attraction, but it is a fact that our spring lolls in the lap of summer so long that she is getting herself talked about. Our residential communities are marked by spaciousnes and studied architecture. Three grammar schools, one high school, St. Anne's Episcopal School for Girls and a newly projected preparatory school for boys, adequately provide for secondary educational needs. Fourteen well equipped churches representing nine denominations serve the community.

Surrounding Charlottesville are a large number of historic old Virginia estates operated and maintained in the genuine Southern style. They are devoted to the breeding of fine horses and cattle and are the centers for the old-time sporting features of fox hunting and steeplechasing. One of these famous residences, Farming-

Woman Sues for $5,000 For Alleged Injuries

Claiming that she was permanently injured on February 12 last, when an automobile operated by Miss Margaret Bouve is alleged to have been backed into her as she stood awaiting a street car a few feet from the curb on Connecticut avenue northwest near L street, Elizabeth Zanner, of 1800 K street northwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court, seeking to recover $5,000 damages. Miss Bouve's father, Clement L. Bouve, of the United States General and Special Claims Commission, United States and Mexico, with offices in the Investment Building, is named as defendant in the action.

The plaintiff alleges that Miss Bouve neglected to warn her that the automobile was being backed. Other alleged negligence also is charged. Attorney John D. Fitzgerald appears for the plaintiff.

ton, which was designed by Thomas Jefferson, has been converted into a country club and equipped for all outdoor sports. Its golf course is rapidly achieving a national reputation. It is the center of the community's social life and a show place for discriminating visitors.

Of particular note are the parks and the statuary groups which adorn the city.

The business district of Charlottesville is unique for a city of its size. It is located along a main street 1¼ miles in length which connects the university with "downtown." Main street is graced by well-equipped and modern stores which handle every class and variety of merchandise. Here visitors may make their purchases in large department stores or the smaller specialty shops, find competent druggists, florists and stationers, be efficiently served by garages, automobile supply and service stations; all up to date in everything pertaining to style, quality and service. These retailers, led by aggressive independent merchants, serve a trade territory of 500 square miles and a population of 40,000 people who market crops, live stock, poultry and lumber products valued at $4,500,000 annually.

Two national bank and trust companies with combined assets of over $15,000,000 and clearings of $85,000,000 annually adequately serve the financial needs of the community. Two modern motion picture houses equipped with the latest sound reproducers present varied and choice entertainment programs. One daily newspaper with a circulation of 4,000 keeps the community well posted on local, national and international affairs.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

WHERE are at present several radio officials on duty in the Officers Reserve Corps in Washington, ne most prominent of these is Lieut. l. David Sarnoff, president of the dio Corporation of America. An- her is Maj. Richard H. Ranger, of w York, who has gained interna- nal fame in his development of nding photographs by radio. Also Capt. Owen Culbertson, of the C. A., New York, serving in the alry at Front Royal, Va.

While New York and Chicago might fer in the reallocation provision re- rted to be included in the new mmunications bill, it is understood at Washington would be accorded re radio facilities than now al- ed. This would be brought about ough the District of Columbia be- afforded the same basic repre- tation given each State.

WHE country never witnessed a more vigorous radio campaign than that of the Illinois pri- ies. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick metimes broadcast two and three es a day. In Senator Charles S. neen, not so much of an orator, . McCormick didn't have as for- ble opponent over the radio as urbane Jim Ham Lewis, the Dem- atic candidate, past master of tory, will likely prove. im Ham will not be able to get pink whiskers across to the radio lience or the magnificent gesture weeping off his hat as he bows low the ladies. Nevertheless, he will ke up for this with his honeyed ases. There will be plenty of entertain- nt for radio listeners when these veteran campaigners face the rophone in the fall campaign.

enator Harry B. Hawes, of Mis- ri, will speak from here to those dinner in St. Louis commemorat- inauguration of Oregon Trail tennial celebration at 9 o'clock tonight (WRC); a ten-minute talk will be made by Alan J. Gould, of the Associated Press, on pennant possi- bilities in the big leagues, at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening (WJZ); and a dedicatory broadcast will be heard direct from the new Club Leviathan, located on the B deck of the big liner at its pier in the North River tomorrow night at 11 o'clock (WRC).

ONE of the most unusual and longest broadcasts ever heard here will be the three-hour Passion Service from Bethlehem Chapel, in Washington Cathedral, Good Friday from 12 noon until 3 p. m., depicting the crucifixion of Christ.

A problem which confronted the broadcasters was how to fill in the periods of silence, which are devoted to quiet prayer and meditation, until Bishop Freeman, in conjunction with Edgar Priest, choirmaster, suggested that during these silences for the benefit of those not in the chapel, music of a devotional and meditative type be sung by the choir.

The Good Friday service may be picked up by Washington listeners through WMAL and other stations of the Columbia network, over which it will be transmitted to the entire country.

EXPLAINING the object of his "Buy and Build in Washington Night," Joseph D. Kaufman (Ra- dio Joe) declared in his weekly broad- cast over Station WMAL last night:

"The sooner the Washington people start spending their money in Wash- ington, giving Washington enterprises the 'break,' the sooner we will be where we ought to be."

Confirmation that the General Elec- tric is to go on the market with a line of radio receivers of its own this fall has been received from William T. Meenam, of the G. E. news bureau at Schenectady. The new models will have their initial showing at the At- lantic City radio show in June.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Did you ever see anything quite so unusual as this green woolen ensemble with its red and green checked jacket and trimming? (Courtesy of Premet, Paris.)

Paris, April 9.

HAVE you taken heed of the new lingerie? One sort of doesn't—we go along with what we have until all of a sudden we need some new lingerie—then we sort of look vaguely around and maybe pick out this or that, or have something copied that we are fond of—that is, we used to do that. You can't do it any more, 'cause lingerie has changed so decidedly that you just can't help feeling old-fashioned underneath if your underthings aren't right.

It's mostly a matter of silhouette. Naturally, the new silhouette in dresses, with its high waistline and very snug hips, forbids any business in lingerie. Your underthings have to be form-fitting and have the same waistline as well.

And then, as far as nightgowns, costume slips and negligees are concerned, they must be longer—nightgowns, indeed, more often than not, even trail the floor, especially in the back. And elaborate! How elaborate they are! Their lace trimming must be handmade and put on by hand, and not just in border effects, either, but in designs.

It can probably be summed up in that one word we hear so often these days, "elegant." Certainly elegant and elaborate is this season's lingerie.

• • • •

For the telephone, behind a favorite vase, to lend a little atmosphere to a bare corner—screens of different sizes! And they make splendid gifts, too—how many people have asked me for a suggestion for a novel and useful gift for the little stranger—there it is. The nursery screen made of pale blue linoleum, with modernistic waves!

I tell you how to make it in this week's leaflet. Better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope for it right away—because some day you may wish you had if you don't.

• • • •

I didn't see it myself, and it's taken me about two hours to get the description out of the beautiful Russian artist of the Premet ensemble that I sketched for you today. Not that it was so difficult to describe, but I remembered to ask her about it only in fits and starts. The fits were over trying to figure out how a lovely lady can be a great artiste and go to a reception the same night with hands 50,000,000 Frenchmen would want to kiss.

Well, if you've read this far, you know why it took me two hours to get the description.

"Are you really interested in describing the ensemble?" Swatto voice from La Chic Secretaire.

"Yes, I am but . . ."

• • • •

Dear Friends—Now that Dare is fired and going back to her drawing, I will try to describe today's ensemble for you. If it weren't worth describing, I'd just let you worry about it, but then it is. Being rather unusual—green wool, with a green-and-red-checked top to the jacket effect, which, however, you don't really remove. Instead, you tie on a delightful little cape of the green, which quite covers, as you can see, the checkered part and makes a suit of the affair.

Sincerlously,
LA CHIC SECRETAIRE.

• • • •

And then there's the weekly Dare fashion letter, which you shouldn't miss. It can be found in The Washington Post each Sunday.

It seemed a foolish thing to do
To catch this Goofus Kangaroo—
For while he naturally is mild
He gets real rude when he is riled,
And putting him within this cage
Has really put him in a rage!

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped enveloped is supplied.

PLEASE tell me why the leaves on my pandanus are all drying up and turning yellow on the ends. I keep it in a sunny window and water it every other day. My dracena is acting the same way. Please examine the inclosed drawing and tell me the meaning of the unusual shoot which I have attempted to draw. MRS. P. P. A.

Perhaps the plant is suffering from lack of fresh air or from want of root room. Better repot it, using a rather rich soil. A dracena requires a great deal of fresh air, moisture and a very rich soil. The central shoot, shown in your drawing, is no doubt new growth which, due to lack of sun, may have become a bit taller than the rest of the growth. You will likely soon see the end of the shoot developing some leaves. Both plants should be sprayed once each week with cold, soapy water.

On the side of my garden is a hedge of bush honeysuckle and syringa. I have tried all sorts of annuals and perennials on the west side of this hedge. I have used all sorts of commercial fertilizers and mulches on this plot, but I can not coax anything to grow. What would you suggest? I have several bushes of snowberry which last season I sprayed with Bordeaux mixture, but even so the berries turned dark and shriveled. Would you advise me to use this spray in the early spring before the leaves have opened?

MRS. M. R. G.

Why not plant Japanese spurge on the western side of your hedge. This is one of the best ground-cover plants. Annuals and perennials frequently refuse to live where there are roots of strong-growing shrubbery. Spray your snowberry bushes as early in the spring as possible.

Please send me the name of a firm listing crotons.

MRS. LAWRENCE E. H.

I am sorry, but it is impossible to give names or addresses of firms in this column. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope I shall be glad to give the names of several firms listing crotons.

Please let me know of a few potted plants for window decoration. I do not care whether they are blooming plants or merely foliage varieties, just so they are decorative. MRS. L. S.

Your question is hard to answer, as you do not state the location of your windows. Keep in mind that flowering plants require sun and that only foliage plants will do well in sunless windows. Begonias, primroses, geraniums, hyacinths, cyclamen, impatience, tulips, narcissus and calceolaria all do well in light, sunny windows. For north windows there is nothing better than English ivy, ferns or tradescanthia.

From geraniums in a window box last fall I cut a dozen nice shoots or sprigs, with two or more nodes on each. These I buried in a sand box in the cellar. Since then I have watered them every two weeks, now their terminal leaves are begnning to develop. Must I continue to keep these cuttings in the sand until time to transplant them into their permanent quarters in the window box? If they are to remain in the sand must they have more water or sun? When is the best time to transplant a Jerusalem cherry plant into the open. Are these plants propagated from seeds or cuttings? JAMES McN.

Better pot your geranium cuttings in small pots of rich soil at this time, keeping them in a warm, sunny place until time to transplant them to permanent quarters in your window box. Jerusalem cherry plants are propagated from seed or cuttings. Taking off cuttings is the easiest method. Set the plant in the open as soon as the weather permits. Any time after May 15 will do.

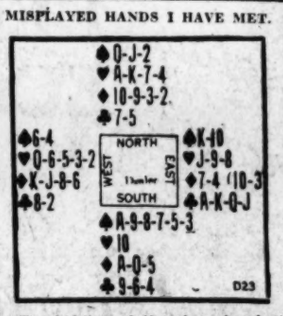
WORK ON BRIDGE

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



The bidding of the above hand at Auction Bridge would be: South one Spade, and after two passes East would bid two Clubs. South would pass, but North would bid two Spades; and if East, spurred on by his honor-count, should venture three Clubs, South would bid three Spades.

At Contract the bidding would be: South one Spade, West pass, North two Spades, East three Clubs, South three Spades, West pass, North—a reasonably close call between a pass and four Spades. North's declaration would be a bit doubtful because he has only a little more than the strength needed for the count of 13 shown by his jump. North's Spades count 3 for the Queen and 1 for the Jack accompanied by a higher honor, his Hearts count 10, and his Club doubleton 1; therefore he has 2 more than the minimum and 2 less than is needed for a jump from one to three, but with South rebidding—showing more than a minimum one-bid—North would be justified in taking the game-gamble, with full appreciation that the outcome may show the bid to be a loser.

When the hand was played, North bid four Spades and West led the Eight of Clubs—the top of the doubleton of his partner's suit; East, after winning two Clubs tricks, led a Diamond up to dummy's weakness South played the Queen, West won with the King and, appreciating the danger of a Diamond return, led a Heart. North won, led a second Heart, giving South a Diamond discard, and then led the Queen of Spades. East's King was captured and dummy ruffed South's losing Club, so game was made, the adversaries taking only two Clubs and one Diamond.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

If West had held three Clubs he would not have played the Deuce on the second Club trick; he would have "played down," keeping the Deuce until the third round. Consequently, when leading to trick 3, East could be sure that West had no more Clubs and that South had the remaining outstanding Club; he also could be sure that West's trumps were useless except for forcing a high trump from North. To trick 3 East should have led his Trey of Clubs, forcing West unnecessarily so as to make North play an honor. With either the Queen or the Jack of Spades out of dummy, East is sure of a Spade trick This makes three tricks; and, if West can take a trick in Diamonds or Hearts, game will be saved by this cold pick-up of a trump trick.

GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS.

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's great Contract and Auction booklet entitled "THE PLAYING PROBLEMS." Bridgers who receiveu copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

"PLAYING PROBLEMS" presents eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer in complete detail.

"PLAYING PROBLEMS," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high-priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce or prepared mustard.
3 cups grated cheese.
2 egg yolks.

Boil the elbow macaroni for 9 minutes in 4 quarts rapidly boiling water, to which 1 tablespoon salt has been added. Drain. In a double boiler melt the butter, add flour, hot milk, salt, paprika and Worcestershire and cook till the mixture thickens. Then add the cheese, stirring constantly until melted. Pour a little of this mixture over the well-beaten egg yolks, blending thoroughly, and then pour back into the rarebit, stirring well until the egg is cooked. Arrange the macaroni on toast or crackers, pour the rarebit over it and serve piping hot. Wide egg noodles may be substituted for the elbows.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"ARIES."

IF April 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p m., and from 6 p. m. to 7 p m.

Obey your hunches on this date for they will be warnings. Unusual experiences are predicted—an inharmonious time with those about you. Occult manifestations and considerable interest taken in psychic matters.

Children born on this April 10 will rise through their mental gifts They will have a flare for figures and business and will be long-headed They will be rather materially minded and will hanker after the "flesh pots." They will experience great mutations of fortune.

Your self-confidence and independent manner are your most visible traits, and they are both a benefit and a handicap to you. Because of your "push" and your courage, you are bound to climb. You are a born "winner." Failures, hard knocks and rebuffs will never break your indomnitable spirit—you always come up smiling. You are a very positive person and a strong-minded one. You do not form hasty opinions, but you are steadfast in your convictions and you stick to your viewpoint, whether it is popular to do so or not.

You seldom have a chance to lean—those with your temperament seldom do. People are afraid to proffer you assistance for fear you will resent their action. You are not offered sympathy, for fear of huring your pride. If you be a woman, you would like to be protected, loved, and even "babied," as much as any other woman. You often envy your weaker sisters, and their sheltered and easy lives. You often feel misunderstood, and "alone." The softness of your nature is hidden by your stronger traits, but you have very deep feelings, and a heart that hides its bruises. It is very seldom that you lose your poise, or that you allow yourself to indulge in self-pity. You will always keep morning in your heart, no matter how many birthdays you celebrate.

George Arliss, actor.
Fanny Davenport, actress.

Can You Do Your Housework?

If you are not as well as you want to be, if you are weak, nervous or rundown, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. Take at least three bottles. It will tone up your whole system and help you to eat better, sleep better and feel better.

Mrs. Marie Vriesenga, 2002 Lexington Ave., New York, New York.

"My work is keeping a rooming house in New York. I was weak and tired and didn't seem to feel well at all. Some friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it four times a day. It has helped me very much. I feel better in all ways now."

Ask Your Friends

Mrs. Paulina Pascuzzi, 316 Tremont Ave., East Orange, New Jersey

"I never had any appetite and I could not sleep well, and I was irregular and often suffered from headaches because of my age. I read a booklet left at my door, and so I took eight bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have also taken the Herb Medicine. I feel stronger in every way now. I have gained weight and am not nearly so nervous and can do my housework without getting too tired."

Edna Sluraff, 1129 DalySt., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

"I was completely rundown from nursing. I took four bottles of your medicine with very good results. I have been a nurse for twenty years without losing a patient, I am proud to say. I will continue to recommend any of the Lydia E. Pinkham products at any time and you may use my name."

BROKER BARES SUMS AT EXTORTION TRIAL

Says Amster Granted Woman's Demands, in Spite of Advice Not To.

ALLEGES GUN THREAT

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—Louis Whicher, a gray-haired broker, today testified in General Sessions Court that against his advice Nathan L. Amster paid to Olga Eide Edwards, on trial for extortion, large sums of money during the last four years of an association, that, for Amster, at least, had ceased to be pleasurable.

Whicher, described on the stand by Mr. Amster earlier in the day as his "buffer," said that from 1926 to the time of Miss Edwards' arrest on Mr. Amster's complaint last fall he paid the money which Mr. Amster gave her, and he identified several checks submitted in evidence by the State.

"I advised him against paying her," Mr. Whicher testified. "I gave him a lot of advice that he never paid any attention to."

He also told the judge and jury that in December, 1926, he hired a private detective to trail Miss Edwards, because Mr. Amster was afraid she was going to shoot him.

"He was scared to death," Mr. Whicher said, "and asked me to do what I could, so I engaged the services of a detective agency."

"Isn't it a fact," asked James D. C. Murray, Miss Edwards' attorney, "that he was afraid she would bring the child to New York for his wife to see?"

"No," Mr. Whicher replied, "he really believed she would shoot him."

Several times in his apartment and in Amster's office in his presence, Whicher said, Miss Edwards charged that Amster was the father of her son, Lee, now 6 years old.

Last August, he said, Miss Edwards appeared at Amster's office and demanded $5,000 in cash and a monthly income of $1,000, declaring she could not get along on $500 a month, the income of a $100,000 trust fund which Amster says he established under fear that she would annoy his wife and family, to care for her and the child.

"I'm going to get this money or I'm going to make trouble," Whicher said she declared. "I'll tell the newspapers. I'll have our pictures published together. I'll take our child to his wife and if that doesn't work I'll shoot him."

Against his advice, Whicher said, Amster paid her $900 that day and more than $500 the following day.

Keep Free from FAT in excess; it's easy now

Modern science has found that excess fat is largely due to an under-active gland. Starve as you will, exercise as you will, you are bound to fail unless you correct the cause.

That gland largely controls nutrition. When it is weak, too much food goes to fat, too little to fuel and energy. So modern physicians, in treating obesity, supply the gland substance which is scant.

That is the method employed in Marmola prescription tablets, prepared by a famous medical laboratory. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Anybody, in any circle, can see what a change has come. Excess fat is disappearing fast. New youth and beauty, new health and vitality, are conspicuous everywhere.

If you are abnormal in your weight, a certain gland is abnormal. Try Marmola. Feed the factor lacking. Watch the pounds go, the new vitality return. You will be amazed and delighted. But the formula in each box of Marmola will tell you the reason. To people who know, there is no excuse today for obesity. Start to remedy that ill condition now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

Behind the Screens

—With NELSON B. BELL—

SINCE a large proportion of its membership is derived from the personnel of the motion picture theater orchestras of the Capital, it may be permissible to observe here that if Washington really wishes to boast a symphony orchestra of its own and neglects to foster the enterprise now know as The National Symphony Orchestra, it might as well give up the ghost and stop prating about disappointed ambitions.

It was emphatically demonstrated at the third and final concert of this earnest group of artists, under the baton of Hans Kindler, in Constitution Hall Tuesday afternoon, that here indeed is the nucleus of a splendid playing body. The program, to be sure, was far from symphonic in the true sense, but, nevertheless, was sufficiently diversified and sufficiently intricate to make plain the capabilities of the 80-odd musicians who have given their concerts under almost insuperable handicaps and at the price of considerable individual sacrifice. Their work was amazingly good and apparently only a few of the niceties of ensemble effort remained to be supplied.

It is a splendid augury for the support which the National Symphony might reasonably expect through a full season that Tuesday's large and appreciative audience greeted Conductor Kindler and his men with an almost continuous ovation—which, incidentally, was by no means undeserved. I do not recall from long years of service in the theater a more enthusiastic or more spontaneous reception than was accorded every number and every appearance of the director.

It will be to the everlasting discredit of the National Capital if so admirable a start is not carried to a gloriously triumphant conclusion with permanency assured.

A friendly note, of which more extended and more appropriate acknowledgement will be made at another time, apprises me that "Headline Ham" Beall, the distinguished Hollywood publicist, again has found hospice at the Willard whence comes the whir of many typewriters. Two items have reached me already.

"Ham's" first tip is that creation of an all-American ballet of 100 girls, representing all the States in the Union, to be chosen by senators from the respective States, is being planned by Albertina Rasch, maestra of the ballet now in Hollywood.

With each senatorial delegation choosing a girl, the number would be brought to 96, and the four additional members of the ensemble would then be chosen by popular vote in Hawaii and the Philippine Islands. While the project is still in the embryo state, it has progressed sufficiently to encompass plans for a huge introductory spectacle in the Hollywood Bowl, after which a national tour is plotted, with Mme. Rasch personally in charge.

All right, bring on your beautiful dancing girls!

Mr. Beall, who pronounces it that way, and not "Bell," states further that Washington is to be honored next month by a visit from Dimitri Tiomkin, internationally known pianist and composer. He will stop here en route to Europe from Hollywood, where he has been active in creating musical scores, dance numbers for the larger spectacles, and other adaptations essential to the modern functioning of the cinema.

In Europe, Tiomkin will endeavor to impart to the continental film producers a slightly more concrete notion of what synchronization is all about than they now seem to possess. He will also make a brief concert tour, beginning in Paris.

Tiomkin has applied for his first naturalization papers and is stopping off in this city to arrange passports and other matters pertaining to his official credentials.

All right, bring on your Tiomkins, too!

Leonard Meakin, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hardie Meakin ("Variety," Fox Theater, special correspondence for Hearst), is confined to Emergency Hospital, following an accident that befell him Tuesday afternoon. In some such manner as growing boys alone seem able to devise Leonard managed to take a 6-foot dive, striking his head with such force as to cause a slight fracture of the skull, as was subsequently determined by X-ray examination.

The lad is declared out of danger, but will be forced to remain in the hospital for a considerable period to insure his remaining so.

Mitzi Mayfair, the extraordinary young acrobatic dancer at the Fox this week, is featured in an elaborate number in the "Paramount on Parade" revue, not yet released.

Monta Bell, formerly of here but now of there, is to direct the "Skippy" feature, based on Percy Crosby's comic strip, which will be made at the Astoria, Long Island, studios of Paramount.

Andy Sharick, managing director of the Rialto Theater, has returned to Washington full of plans for the early reopening of the Ninth street house. More of this later.

I am confidentially informed that Senator Deneen's favorite theme song is not "Along Came Ruth!"

Legion Victory Post Wants Dry Law Repeal

The Victory Post, No. 4, American Legion, has gone on record with a unanimous vote as favoring the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and opposition to the Wickersham plan for law enforcement, it was learned yesterday. The vote was taken at the regular meeting Tuesday night.

The legion post, the largest in Washington, comprises 550 members.

Statue Unveiled To Railroad Head

Bronze in New York Terminal Honors Late President of Pennsylvania.

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—A bronze statue of Samuel Rea, late president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, today was unveiled in the Pennsylvania Terminal in the presence of officials of the road. The statue of Mr. Rea, who began his 57 years' connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad as a chairman and rodman on a branch line, was inscribed:

"Samuel Rea, vice president, 1899-1912; president, 1913-25, under whose able supervision this station and the extensions of the Pennsylvania Railroad into New York and New England were designed and constructed."

The presentation of the statue, on behalf of a special committee of the board of directors that gave it, was made by Effingham B. Morris, senior director of the company.

BankClerk Said toAdmit $31,600 Embezzlement

St. Louis, April 9 (A.P.).—Marvin E. Phillips, 29, an employe of the Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Bank for five years and recently made assistant cashier, was arrested today and confessed, police announced, that he had appropriated $31,600 of the bank's funds to his own use, chiefly for purposes of gambling. Phillips was taken to jail on Federal warrants charging him with embezzling the funds of a bank of the Federal Reserve System. The bank is protected by a fidelity bond of $100,000.

In a statement to police, Phillips said that during the last two years he had been taking the bank's money for his own benefit, principally in gambling, to the extent of $31,600. The amount named in the confession was verified in an audit.

Prince Leopold Makes Maiden Speech in Senate

Brussels, April 9 (A.P.).—Prince Leopold, 28-year-old heir to the Belgian throne, today made his maiden speech in the Senate of which he is an ex officio member.

The subject was reorganization of the institute of tropical medicine and the prince urged its transference from Brussels to Antwerp. He arrived at the Senate without ceremony and listened attentively to the debate following his speech.

Alleged Distiller Shot By Prohibition Agent

Wilmington, N. C., April 9 (A.P.).—Roy Gurganus, of Verona, alleged distiller, was shot and wounded seriously today by Federal Prohibition Agent S. K. Hughes, who was conducting a raid upon a still.

Hughes, who said the shooting was accidental, left immediately for Jacksonville, N. C., to surrender to the Onslow County sheriff. Gurganus was brought to a hospital here.

One Dies, Dozen Hurt As Texas Trains Crash

Alvin, Tex., April 9 (A.P.).—A dozen passengers were slightly hurt here today in a rear end collision of two Missouri Pacific passenger trains, which resulted in the death of Mack Brazier, Negro brakeman, of Houston, and dangerous injuries to Buck Raiford, engineer, of Kingsville, Tex.

Train No. 514 from Brownsville, was standing at the station when train No. 516, appearing out of a fog, crashed into the rear sleeping car of the first train.

WHEN EYES AND EARS SLOW UP.

PRESBYOPIA is a well-recognized condition of the eyes in people fifty years of age and older. In it there is a slowing up of the eye functions. The eyeball acquires some of the stiffening of age. It loses some of the elasticity of youth. The lens does not change shape readily, nor do the muscles of accommodation and their nerves act with the promptness to which we have been accustomed.

The tennis player can not see the ball the instant it leaves his opponent's racket and size up where it is headed for. The baseball fielder can not judge liners and flyers seemingly by an intuition as he did in his younger days. The golfer needs the services of a young caddy to tell him where his drives land the ball. All of this is generally known. What is not so well known is that there is a similar condition of the ears and hearing which develops at about the same time of life. The man who has it can hear pretty well when he gets set for it. When his hearing is tested he generally comes out very well. If he is a railroad man and, therefore, subject to periodical testing, he generally gets a card showing "hearing good." The use of modern electric apparatus for measuring hearing does not change the satisfactory report that this type of man is in the habit of getting. And yet, the functions of the ears "slow up" and "stiffen up" in men 40 years of age and over.

There is an unnamed condition of the ears which corresponds to presbyopia of the eyes. When a man with this condition sets himself to hear he meets the requirements. With his attention concentrated on sounds he can pick out waves over a range that is about normal. He can locate, detect and differentiate sounds about as well as he once did. But when he is not set for it the story is different. His failure to pick out sounds catch him unawares causes such a man to think himself deaf. He has a hearing test and comes away reassured. In spite of this, his daily experience tells him his hearing is not as good as it once was. The fact is that while he has no organic ear trouble, he does have a condition of the ears similar to presbyopia of the eyes, a stiffening and slowing of the muscles and joints and other parts which participate in the process of hearing.

DON'T GET SODA HABIT.

Mrs. T. H. writes: Is it harmful to take ten grains of bicarbonate soda three times a day?

REPLY.

It is unwise to take any drug habitually. This is true of soda addiction. However, ten grains three times a day is not much of a dose. Some people get that amount in breads and vegetables cooked with soda.

USE OF COD LIVER OIL.

J. R. H. writes: What would be the results of an adult taking 16 ounces of cod liver oil per day?

REPLY.

Probably the stomach would rebel. That amount of fat would throw considerable strain on the liver. The sum total of calories in a diet containing 16 ounces of cod liver oil would probably be excessive.

NATS OUTSLUG BRAVES TO WIN WILD GAME, 19-13

BRITISH SPORT INNOCENCE IS SUSPICIOUS

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 9.—The English are a serious race and, for the purposes of the sport business, theirs is what might be described by some Joe Grundy of the box office rackets as a backward state.

Their journalists, or press men, flew into a patriotic rage because one of their prize fighters lost a very poor fight in Miami and now I find in one of their sporting newspapers a couple of pages of dog race news and advertising, including entries, handicappers' selections, past performances and all such matter as is familiar enough to this country regarding thoroughbred horses, but quite unknown as to racing dogs, because decent papers exclude it.

It seems that the English, in their innocence, have a custom of conducting prize fights and dog races on the level and extending to these rackets the same idealistic sporting concept that they hold for cricket, football and their Oxford-Cambridge crew races on the Thames.

Incredulity Looks Suspicious.

This credulity is so naive that one is tempted to look upon it with suspicion, for it does not seem possible that any people who have been so successful in their diplomatic horse-trading can be as dumb as the English appear to be in matters of professional sport. In fact, when one considers that one of the most resourceful and successful manipulators in the American prize fight industry was born in England and that Fainting Philip Scott collected as much money for about seven rounds of negative prize fighting in this country as an English heavyweight may expect to amass in an entire career on his own home grounds, one is given to wonder just who is looney now, the English or the Americans.

Judging the English public by the unsophisticated matter which they accept as the word of authority in the prize fighting and dog racing trades, one might conclude that the most expert of their experts has much to learn from the most gullible of the common customers in the U. S. A.

Permitted to Infer White House Plot.

I have just read one highly indignant special article or leader, prepared by a special commissioner as the expert is called on Fleet street, in which it was seriously intimated that fainting Philip had fallen victim to a dark Yankee plot, hatched in the White House, no doubt, to prevent the passing of the heavy weight championship to Great Britain by fair means or foul, but by foul means for choice.

Like so much of the semieditorial matter appearing under news heads in the English newspapers, this revelation did not go into details so the English customers were permitted to infer that the boycott was hatched at one of Mr. Hoover's morning workouts with the medicine ball on the south lawn of the White House.

It will be useless to offer a reassuring suggestion but I seriously believe that if Mr. Hoover were asked to give the status of the heavyweight championship of the world, off-hand, at the present moment, he would say, "what heavyweight championship of what world?"

Sport Disinterest of Presidents Growing.

Recent Presidents, with the exception of Mr. Harding have achieved a tremendous disinterest in professional sport. Although Mr. Coolidge did show up at some of the Washington World Series games in his time, these obviously were just some of those public appearances which were required of him. One did notice that when the time came for the seventh-inning stretch and the other customers in his vicinity waited for the President to cue them to their feet, it was Mrs. Coolidge who arose first and plucked him by his sleeve as though to say, "come on, Pa, everybody up."

It may be argued that any president who does not know and observe the most sacred tradition of the so-called national game or who would not exert the powers of his office to prevent the passing of the heavyweight championship to Great Britain for the first time is unfit for his office, but they seem to have other matters on their mind nowadays. Similarly, I doubt that the common American customer would feel much humiliated over the transfer of the heavyweight title to England. It would be up to the Americans to support the new champion regardless of his nationality, because no other customers in the world are as well-to-do or as liberal with their money.

Refer to Racketeers As Misters.

What the English seem unable to comprehend or unwilling to admit is that the prize fighting and dog racing rackets which they patronize with such beautiful faith or such a convincing pretense of faith are strictly rackets. I can not quite credit them with the innocence which they manifest. It stands to reason that their chaps who come to this country to compete so successfully with the Americans in these rackets must

U.S.G.A. Bans Dawson at Pinehurst

Amateur Status of Tourney Medalist Under Fire.

Voigt Wins Opening Round Match With Fownes, 3 and 2.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 9 (A.P.).—The first-round match of John Dawson, jr., of Chicago, who tied C. Ross Somerville for the medal in the annual North-South open tournament, was not played today because of complications arising from the question of Dawson's amateur status.

Dawson, one of the country's outstanding amateur golfers, announced here this afternoon that he had been forbidden to continue play by the United States Golf Association.

Dawson said he was notified by W. C. Fownes, jr., of Pittsburgh, a member of the U. S. G. A. rules committee, today that he could not play his first round match this afternoon with James T. Hunter, of North Adams, Mass.

The Chicagoan, who won the Southeastern championship in Florida recently, and who tied with Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., for medalist honors in the North and South this week, professed ignorance of the reason for his ban except to say that Fownes had notified him his amateur status had been challenged.

Dawson said he had no idea who entered the protest.

Mr. Fownes could not be reached immediately for a statement.

Dawson's Status Was Questioned in 1929.

Dawson's status was questioned last year before the national amateur at Pebble Beach, Calif., but no decision, if any, reached by the U. S. G. A. rules committee, was made known. Dawson did not play in the national amateur. His connection with a Chicago sporting goods house caused his status to be questioned.

The Chicagoan entered the North and South only after the tournament committee had especially invited him to do so. His friends had advised the committee that he would not seek to enter the tourney unless invited because his status had been questioned in connection with the national amateur.

C. Ross Somerville, London, Ont., the medalist, defeated T. S. Tailor, New York, 3 and 1, in the first-round match play.

In the other first flight championship matches J. B. Ryerson, of Cooperstown, N. Y., defeated W. E. Jacobs, of South Orange, N. J., 4 and 3; Phillip Finlay, of Redlands, Calif., defeated Howard Tryon, of Elmira, N. Y., 3 and 1; George Voigt, of New York, defeated W. C. Fownes, jr., Pittsburgh, 3 and 2; J. A. Voigt started his match with W. C. Fownes, jr., by losing the first hole when he drove into a trap and carded a 5, Fownes notching a par 4. The New Yorker went out in 36 to stand 1 up. He scored a birdie 3 on the tenth to go 2 up, and went 3 up on the eleventh with his par, when Fownes took 3 from just off the green and counted a 5. Fownes regained a hole on the twelfth when Voigt took 3 putts, but went back to 3 when he took 3 putts on the thirteenth. They see-sawed to the end.

U. S. G. A. Says Dawson Is Not Entitled to Play

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—H. H. Ramsay, chairman of the rules committee of the United States Golf Association, made clear in a statement tonight that Johnny Dawson is "not entitled to play in amateur golf according to the rules of the U. S. G. A.," although the official body had no part in forbidding him to compete in the North and South tournament at Pinehurst.

COLUMBIAN INSECTS PLAY TWO.

The Columbian Insects will play a double-header Sunday, meeting the Paramount Nine at 10 a. m., and the Langdon Team at 1 p. m. Both games will be played on Diamond No. 1. Teams seeking games with the Columbians should call Manager Chick Rinaldi at North 1600.

BARRED STAR

JOHNNY DAWSON.

Man, Stricken at Bowie, Expires in Taxicab

Just before the finish of the third race Alexander E. Graham, of Okmulgee, Okla., died in a taxicab while being removed from the Bowie race track yesterday. He had been treated by the track physician and was on his way to Baltimore, where he was stopping. His death was due to a heart attack.

Columbia Routs Yale, 8-3, in League Game

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—The first official Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League season was ushered in today at Baker Field, with Columbia trouncing Yale, 8 to 3.

Under the new agreement Coaches Andy Coakley and Joe Wood watched the game from the tsands, leaving the direction of the field activities to Capts. Johnny Morrison and John Meyer, rival second basemen of Columbia and Yale, respectively.

Gar Wood Postpones His Speedboat Trials

Miami Beach, Fla., April 9 (A.P.).—Gar Wood, seeking a world record of 100 miles an hour with his speed boat Miss America VIII, announced today that he has postponed the speed trial until the latter part of the week.

A heavy wind from the east whipped across Biscayne Bay, where Wood's mile course is marked off, this morning, and it was believed that the weather conditions were responsible for the postponement.

Stage to Keep Farrell And Sarazen in U. S.

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen have decided definitely not to join the golfing invasion of Great Britain this year. The two metropolitan stars have signed vaudeville contracts, calling for appearances in Chicago and Detroit in May, thereby eliminating any prospect of a trip abroad in time for the British open championship, which begins June 16 at Hoylake.

Sarazen was runner-up to Walter Hagen in the 1928 British open, and Farrell was second to "the Haig" last year. Some time ago Hagen, now in Australia, decided not to defend the British crown he has captured four times altogether.

Despite these defections, the American contingent will present a strong threat with Horton Smith and Leo Diegel, the professional stars, in addition to Bobby Jones, captain of the Walker Cup Golf Team, and present holder of the American open title. Jones won the British open in 1926 and 1927. Several of his amateur teammates also are likely to play in the open.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

What suggestions can you make that would help in gaining accuracy in putting?

JOHNNY FARRELL,

Winner of Eastern, Metropolitan, Wheeling, Massachusetts, Philadelphia, Chicago and Pennsylvania Open Championships, 1927; La Gorce Open, 1928; Tied for Bahamas Open, 1928; National Open, 1928.

There are three suggestions that I would make for the golfer who would improve his putting.

1. Stand close to the ball, with 75 per cent of your weight on your left foot. Most people stand too far from the ball in putting, thereby losing control.

2. Do not grip the club too tightly. It stiffens your muscles and prevents relaxation.

3. Practice swinging the putter slowly and smoothly. Do not jab at the ball as though you were in a hurry to get the stroke over with.

SEEKS UNLIMITED FOES.

C. U. Defeats Delaware by Rally, 11-9

Walsh's Hit in Pinch and Error Climax Stand in Eighth.

Fanjul's Relief Hurling Enables Cards to Stay in Game.

By JACK ESPEY.

AL FANJUL, they said, had to lay aside the ball and bat last year because his heart misbehaved. And they said that some of the 1929 Catholic University players should have joined him because they didn't have any heart. The campus heard the report that they "quit" when facing heavy odds.

Yesterday afternoon in Brookland Stadium all of the Cardinals' tickers were under control and going strong. Fanjul's included, and what had looked like a one-sided walkaway for the Delaware University Nine turned out to be Catholic's fourth victory of the season by a score of 11 to 9. This protected a defeatless record that includes a 6-6 tie with Lafayette.

Al, or Alfonso, as his parents named him down home in Havana, Cuba, aided greatly in pulling the game out of the fire with a clever performance as a relief pitcher, while his teammates stuck to their guns, or rather, kept swinging their bats against the offerings of Rube Hall, Delaware hurler, until the tide turned amid a four-run rally in the eighth inning.

Cardinals Wage Uphill Fight.

It was one of the sweetest baseball triumphs the Brookland institute has enjoyed in several years. From the discouraging state of being six runs behind, the Cardinals worked their way uphill, slowly but steadily, at last reaching the crest just when their rooters had given up hope.

The ball game was loose from a critic's viewpoint, but was pulsating, nevertheless, from start to finish.

Fanjul relieved Ed Frankovic in the box in the third inning after Delaware had amassed seven runs, and yielded but two runs and five hits the rest of the way. He struck out five and walked two, while in three innings he disposed of the side in one-two-three order.

Frankovic, going to left field after his mound failure, helped to square himself by punching out a triple with the bases loaded in the sixth inning. He scored the tying run in the eighth.

Pinch Hit and Error Decide Game.

The climatic eighth rally was featured by Joe Walsh's pinch hit, which scored two runs, and by an error of Johnny Roman, Delaware shortstop, who booted DeMello's grounder with the bases filled and one out. The error alloved Oliver and Walsh to romp home with the tenth and eleventh runs. Then Fanjul sent the visitors back to the bench as fast as they faced him in the ninth.

Catholic collected sixteen hits, including three triples and a double, for its best batting performance of the season. Peifer and Blasi each made three safeties.

Schmeling U. S.-Bound Within a Fortnight

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling will leave Germany for the United States, either April 18 or 23, and resume training May 1 for his fifteen-round heavyweight match June 12, at the Yankee Stadium, with Jack Sharkey. This was the gist of information reported today by Schmeling's American manager, Joe Jacobs, who arrived on the Bremen.

Jacobs indicated the German boxer might train at Stroudsburg, Pa., where Gene Tunney conditioned himself for his first fight with Jack Dempsey.

Schmeling twisted an ankle several months ago in jumping off a stage during a motion picture rehearsal, but no trace of this injury remains, Jacobs said.

Hits by O'Doul and Friberg Win, 4-3; Yanks Score.

PHILADELPHIA, April 9 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Nationals evened the home series with the champion Athletics today by winning, 4 to 3, before 2,500 shivering spectators.

The Phillies broke a 3-to-3 tie in the eighth inning off the knuckle ball delivery of Ed Rommell. O'Doul hit a single into center, his third of the day. Friberg followed with a shot to the same spot and O'Doul came home with the winning marker when Hurst singled over short.

Nashville, Tenn., April 9 (A.P.).—With Babe Ruth in the line-up, but a substitute running bases for him, because of the Babe's "Charley horse," the Yankees trimmed the Nashville Volunteers, of the Southern Association, 8 to 3, today. Ruth walked three times, struck out once and grounded out once.

Bill Dickey, youthful catcher, stole the big boy's thunder temporarily with a pair of homers.

Grimes Goes to Braves; Bucs Get Jones and Cash

Boston, April 9 (A.P.).—The trading of Burleigh Grimes, Pittsburgh pitcher, who has been a holdout all spring, to the Boston Braves for Percy Lee Jones, a left-handed pitcher, and a "large cash consideration" was announced here tonight by Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston National League Club.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 9 (A.P.).—Burleigh Grimes, veteran spitball pitcher, who was traded to the Boston Nationals today for Percy Jones, a left-handed hurler, came to the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1928 from the New York Giants and this year was a holdout. It was his second connection with the local club, he having been secured by Brooklyn from Pittsburgh in 1918. He was with Brooklyn until 1926, when he was sent to the Giants.

Grimes was born at Clear Lake, Wis., August 18, 1893, and started his professional career in 1913. In the minors he played with Chattanooga, Richmond and Birmingham, among other outfits.

NAT HURLERS SHOWING POWER

Brown, Burke, Hadley and Marberry Seen Winning Group.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

NORFOLK, Va., April 9.—Although the Nationals have been outhitting their opponents regularly, this situation is not due to a particularly strong punch, despite today's slugfest with the Braves, but results from the fact that the Washington pitchers generally, appear to be ready to give the team consistently good mound-work through the season to come.

Not in many moons has the staff looked so good. Although Fred Marberry was pummeled by the Braves here this afternoon, he has shown himself to be in tiptop shape to oppose the other Boston club, the Red Sox, in the opener at Washington Monday, while Irving Hadley indicated yesterday, when he turned in a 3-hit performance, that he likely will give Heinie Wagner's men more trouble in Tuesday's inaugural at the Hub.

Ad Liska looked particularly impressive in his last start against the Barons until the ninth inning, finding the full-game assignment just a little too far for him to travel then, but he has been working like a Trojan since and may be depended upon to do much better his next time out, which will be against the Orioles in Baltimore Friday.

RULE A

The other righthander who has shown that he will win his share of games is Myles Thomas, with the rookies, Carlos Moore and Don Savidge, and the veteran, "Sad Sam" Jones, still to be considered.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

NORFOLK, Va., April 9.—A splurge of hitting that rocked the Virginia-Tidewater section was displayed this afternoon in the fourth game of the series between the Nationals and Boston Braves. Hits and runs were made in bunches, like bananas, with the Nats outlasting their opponents and winning out, 19 to 13 to score their seventh straight victory.

All told, 40 hits were made, with the Nationals getting 22, 4 of which were homers off the bats of Buddy Myer, Goose Goslin, Carlos Moore and Muddy Ruel. Extra-base blows were the rule rather than the exception, with the scorers frazzled recording all the stick action before the end was reached. Two homers were credited the Braves, Outfielder Jimmy Welsh getting both.

Fielding Is Ragged With 6 Errors.

Aside from the terrific hitting, which also means poor pitching on the part of Fred Marberry and Carlos Moore, for the Nats, and of Jim Cooney and Bob Smith, for the Braves, there was little to the game. No catches out of the ordnary were made, while six which should have been caught were muffed, the National Leaguers being charged with four errors to two for the Nats.

The Nationals broke the ice in the third, when they molded a marker from Loepp's opening double and Rice's single. When Goslin walked, it looked as though a big inning was

British Use Steel-Shafted Clubs And Even 4's Fail to Qualify

LONDON, April 9 (A.P.).—With steel shafted golf clubs made honest weapons for British competition for the first time, every professional carried at least one in his bag at the annual Roehampton Invitation Pro's Tournament today.

They used these and other clubs to such effect over the short course in the London suburbs that distance and par were annihilated and some competitors with even fours for 36 holes failed to qualify for match play tomorrow.

Reginald Whitcombe, youngest of the trio of golfing brothers and the only one of them to qualify, left the field with 137, finishing with a record-breaking 64.

Gus Faulkner, called "One Putt Gus" because he took only one putt on nine greens, had previously smashed the course record with a score of 65, but his triumph was short-lived as Whitcombe came in soon after with 64.

Henry Cotton, recently returned from a visit to South America, shared the runner-up position with W. T. Twine, each scoring 138.

Archie Compston required 145 strokes and failed to qualify as did the veterans, Alex Herd, J. H. Taylor and Harry Vardon.

The Roehampton Spring show attracts the old-timers, for they can conquer the short fairways of the course, which measures less than 6,000 yards.

JOE MARRONE III ROMPS HOME IN BOWIE FEATURE

Favorite, 2-1, Easily Leads Cog Air

Algol Outruns Toki by Half Length in Fourth.

Choices Fail in Early Races But Capture Last Four.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE public choices came back strong after taking a beating in the first three races at Bowie yesterday and swept the last four events on the program with Algol taking the fourth, Joe Marrone III winning the fifth, Fairy Maiden capturing the sixth, and Bill Seth scoring in the seventh.

Mrs. T. R. Queen's silks were carried to victory at the first asking by Joe Marrone III in the Parkway, the Glen Cairn horse beating Cog Air by three lengths, running the mile and a sixteenth in 1:47 and giving Jockey A. Robertson a double, the Whitney rider having the mount on the winner. Ormonbird was third, five lengths back of the second horse. The winner, the favorite, paid $6.00.

The Dixiana Farm's Voltear passed Cog Air after the second turn with Grey Coat, making his initial start this year, and winner over Blue Larkspur last year in New York, a close third. Grey Coat went to the front rounding the far turn and appeared to have the race at his mercy but he tired and coming into the stretch Robertson brought Joe Marrone III to the front and he went on to an easy victory, but Cog Air made a game finish, finding his second wind.

The largest crowd since Saturday was at the Prince Georges course and the weather and the track had become ideal for racing, in contrast to the cold and windy day of yesterday. The card in some respects was an off-color offering but the contests proved exciting and the racing was formful.

Algol Much the Best In Fourth.

The fourth race at 6 furlongs was mostly a duel between Algol, the eventual winner, and Toki, which had set the pace to the sixteenth. First Mission was third and Judge Bartlett fourth. Algol was much the best and well handled by W. Cannon.

The 5-year-old son of The Porter and Surplice, liked the fast track better than he did the mud a few days ago when Judge Bartlett defeated him. In his last race he was beaten by Cog Air, but today he was held off the pace instead of setting it and had enough in reserve to overcome Toki's lead at the sixteenth and win by half a length. The time for the 6 furlongs was 1:12. The winner paid $4.90. There was little time wasted at the barrier and Toki, as usual, was first away, but Algol was always kept in striking distance until ready to move into the lead.

Frances St. L. Beats Maiden Field.

Fifteen maidens, 3-year-olds and up, paraded in the first race, with My Scoop, Evanston, Broker, Dalilia, Trapland and Lucille M. grouped in the field. J. F. McGovern's Frances St. L., under a good ride by A. Robertson, leading jockey at this track, drew out to win by two lengths, and was leading most of the way. Richard Pending's Gnome Boy, by a final rush in the stretch, got the place, half a length in front of Negodale, third, a head in front of Trapland, fourth.

The winner paid the liberal return of $24.30 and ran the seven furlongs in 1:26 1-5. The track was very fast. Benda, the favorite, ran poorly. Gnome Boy was the second choice and paid $6 to place.

Chemin Des Dames Unseats 2 Riders.

The fifteen maiden 2-year-olds in the second race lingered several minutes at the barrier. Rosevolt bolted for a furlong or so, then R. Renick was thrown by Chemin des Dames and the filly was brought back to the paddock for another rider, J. Serio being substituted. Renick suffered an injury to his head. Serio was promptly unseated on the arrival at the brarier by the Sanford filly. Chemin des Dames was then blindfolded and taken out of the race.

Woods Garth furnished the winner in Miss Dinwiddie, Ellsworth up, which led all the way to win by a length. Brandon Dare was second and a head back Fervid was fourth. The time was 0:48 4-5. Miss Dinwiddie was in the field group with Hold Hard and Chemin des Dames which was withdrawn. The field paid $56.70.

Belmona Never Headed In Third Event.

A. Brent's Belmona, bay mare by King James, won the third race by a head, running a mile and a furlong in 1:57. Chattahoochee was second, after leading all the way. Signola was third, a head in front of Fair Bill, fourth. The winner paid $8.20.

The field was evenly matched. Carlisle on Belmona held the mare in restraint until he set her down in the stretch. At the sixteenth he swept past Chattahoochee just in time to win. Chattahoochee has not been out of the money in all her races at Bowie, but, like Laurie, seems to lose out in the last jump.

William Maher's Fairy Maiden, favorite in the sixth, took the purse away from Clear Sky, with Bocaratone running third. The winner paid $3.90.

The seventh race was won by Bill Seth, paying $5.90 for every $2 mutuel ducat. Mountain Grass took second money from Bill Baughn. The time was 1:57 2-5.

in the making, but Rice was trapped between second and third as Myer took a third strike. This threat seemed to arouse the Braves, who had gone hitless for two frames, and they retaliated with a three-run rally, the big blow of which was Welsh's homer over the center field wall with two on.

Myer's Home Run Scores Two.

Maranville started the trouble for Marberry by doubling to center and advanced a base on Spohrer's scratch single. After Cooney had popped to Bluege, Welsh then connected squarely with a fast one and drove the sphere all the way out of the lot, putting the Beaneaters two up.

This lead did not stand up long, however, for Myer duplicated Welsh's drive under almost identical conditions in the fifth, scoring both Rice and Goslin, who had walked, and the Nationals then continued their drive long enough to coin two more runs. The ingredients used in the making of these were Cronin's double, Hayes' single, and a lusty two-base blow by Ruel. Before this frame ended, however, the Braves again were right on the Nationals heels for, after Maranville doubled Welsh poled his second homer in as many innings, this time driving the apple over the fence in right. Singles by Richbourg and Moore came later in the inning, but they were not used for scoring purposes.

Cooney Hammered in Seventh.

When Marberry gave way to Moore at the end of the Nationals' sixth, the American Leaguers had added three more runs to their total, these coming as a result of Loepp's single and theft, a walk, Cronin's double, and Bluege's single. Moore held the Braves in check in their half, fanning Welsh, much to the fans' delight, to end the round.

Cooney took plenty of punishment in the Nationals' "lucky frame." Four more runs were scored on the same number of extra-base blows, Moore and Goslin cracking out homers and Loepp and Rice doubling. To all intents and purposes, this rally decided the ball game, although both teams added to their total before the end. Ruel contributing the Nationals' fourth home run when he poled one over the center field wall in the seventh with two men on the sacks.

NAT PITCHING STAFF IS SHOWING POWER

apprenticeship, as both have pitched brilliant ball to date. Burke's new cross-fire delivery has added to his effectiveness, while Brown, who always has had plenty of stuff, finally appears to have gained control and it also might be mentioned that he is taking his work more seriously this spring than ever before. Garland Braxton, like Jones, has been told not to hurry, but he declares that he is just about ready, and his record shows just how good he is when he is ready.

The Nats always have had a good fielding team and, if the pitchers live up to their promises, only an added punch at bat would be needed to make the team first-flight finishers.

As to developing power with the bat, the Nationals have been handicapped for the past week in view of the fact that they have been touring and the pregame time is so limited that the players are able to derive little benefit from the daily drills. This condition will exist until April 22, when the Nationals open a long home stay, except for Saturday, Sunday and Monday, when the boys likely will be called out for morning workouts at the Griffith Stadium.

The Nats and the Braves are scheduled to leave here early this evening for Richmond, where they will complete their series with a contest tomorrow afternoon. Acting Manager Joe Judge states that Garland Braxton and either Sam Jones or Lloyd Brown will divide the Nats' mound assignment with Jones not getting the call unless the weather is reasonably warm.

Shortstop Joe Cronin has adopted a new stance at the plate which, he believes, will make him a much better batter. At the tee the "San Francisco Keed" turns slightly toward third while he holds the willow much in the manner of the veteran Heinie Groh. While the new stance makes Joe look slightly awkward while hitting, he has meted out considerable punishment to opposing pitchers in recent games.

For the time being, at least, Manager Johnson has definitely decided to alternate Sam West and George Loepp in center, with the latte: getting the call against enemy southpaw pitching. Johnson has not entirely discarded Emile Barnes, stating just before he left for Washington from Winston-Salem last night that he had suggested to Capt. Judge that the Alabama redhead be given relief shifts if opportunities offer.

BRITISH INNOCENCE IN SPORTS SUSPICIOUS

have had some very thorough preliminary training in chiseling and conniving at home. In their newspapers, the matchmakers, fight managers and dog race racketeers are referred to as Mister, whereas the same types in America are known as Butch and Gyp and this tone of respectfulness possibly cloaks the true nature of the boys.

Certainly the Englishman in the dog racket is no les alert than an American to the charming mathematical possibilities of an unsupervised pari-mutuel traffic. History has proved that the English are by no means dumb. Neither does the Englishman go through life in the dog racket without learning that a dog which is about to go to the post as a favorite in a race can be slapped in the face two or three times as he is being shoved into the starting box and thus made to sulk or quit. All dogmen in this country realize that a slapped dog becomes annoyed and will take all the time he can about returning to the hands of the man who slapped his face.

The English must have learned this by now, considering that they were racing dogs a long time before the racket was taken u pas a racket for racketeers in this country. If there is to be any basis for mutual understanding in the prize-fighting racket, somebdy will have to turn square first. But from the evidence at hand it is hard to decide whether the Americans ought to turn honest or the English ought to carry the chisel openly instead of concealing it in their sleeves.

HARVARD 8-2 VICTOR OVER MARINES

McHale Halts Sluggers; Mays Stars on Defense.

Special to The Washington Post.

RICHMOND, Va., April 9.—The Harvard University Varsity Baseball Team, after being turned back by William and Mary at Williamsburg yesterday, took revenge on the U. S. Marines here today by defeating them 8-2. McHale, for the Crimson Nine, went all the way and pitched excellent ball, being backed up in great style by the university infield, Mays, at second, handling nine chances without a slip, some of them of a very difficult nature.

The Marines tried three twirlers, all three being scored upon, Smith being relieved at end of sixth for pinch hitter. Harvard scored in the first when Mays was hit by a pitched ball. He stole the middle cushion. Nugent walked, and when Mays was out at third on an overthrow of second, Nugent scored on a double by McGath.

Marines Rally to Tie Score.

The Marines came back and evened things up in their half, Hyman being hit by pitched ball. Almond walked, and both runners moved up on an out; and when Nugent, the Crimson shortstop fell going after a fly, Almond scored.

Both teams were blanked in the second; but in the third our oldest university, due to some weird baseball by the Marines and three infield hits, scored six times, putting the game out of the reach of the Marines. The least said of this inning the better. The Marines erred five times. All was quiet along the Potomac until the last frame, when each team scored one tally. McHale walked, Mays bunted safely, Nugent sacrificed, and McGath singled, scoring McHale for the Marines in their final stand.

MARYLAND, HELD TO 4 HITS, BEATEN BY DUKE, 5-2

Jenkins Holds Old Liners At Bay

Phipps Yields 2-Run Lead in 3d; Cronin Gets 2 Safeties.

Victory Brings Duke's Streak to 14 in Two Seasons.

Special to The Washington Post.

DURHAM, N. C., April 9.—While Ernie Jenkins, southpaw ace of the Duke staff, held Maryland batters to four safe bingles, Duke University's baseball team hit George Phipps hard to take their fifth consecutive victory of the season, 5 to 2.

Jenkins had the Old Liners from the start. For three innings no man reached first base. He struck out eleven of the opposing batsmen, gave no bases on balls and got a double and a single in four times at bat.

Paul Crovin, left fielder of the Old Liners, was the only Maryland boy to hit Jenkins twice. His first hit was a line drive to Farley, Duke third baseman, but it was too hot to handle. Two of the hits of Jenkins resulted from outfield flies lost in the sun.

Duke Opens Scoring In Fourth.

Duke opened the scoring in the fourth on Dean's hit, a base on balls to Werber and a two-bagger by Kistler. The Old Liners knotted the score in the fifth, when Farley erred, Sterling's weak grounder, Warren let a ball pass, Kistler dropped a throw to first and Tansil singled for Maryland's only clean hit of the day. The Devils added one in the sixth, when Jenkins doubled and Deane singled. Hits by Kistler, Murray and Farley gave Duke another in the seventh and a double and a single in the eighth gave the Devils the final score.

The game was Duke's fourteenth win in the South over a period of two years. It was their fifth consecutive win of the season. Coach Jack Coombs, former Athletic pitcher, has not lost a game in the South since he came to Duke.

North Carolina Nine Journeys North Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Chapel Hill, N. C., April 9.—The Tristate League championship Tarheel Nine will leave Chapel Hill tomorrow night on its annual Northern tour, which will send the Carolina team against five strong Conference foes in six days and make or mar Tarheel chances for another Tristate title.

The Carolinians will play five games through Virginia and Maryland. The first will be with Maryland at College Park Friday afternoon. Engagements will follow with Virginia Saturday, Washington and Lee Monday, V. M. I. Tuesday and V. P. I. Wednesday.

Five games in six days make a hard schedule for any college club, and the test will be even harder for the Tarheels due to lack of veteran pitchers. Frank Fleming and Auburn Wright can be counted on as veterans, but Coach Jim Ashmore will probably have to use his rookies, Longest, Hinton and Edwards, in at least three of the five games.

All the games will count in the Tristate League standings, in which the Tarheels maintained a perfect record last year, and also in the standings of the Southern Conference.

The Tarheel infield and outfield forces are in good shape, so that Coach Ashmore will be able to command the services of his best men. If the pitchers come through things should go well.

V. M. I. Nine Trounces Davidson College, 5-1

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., April 9.—V. M. I. ran their string of wins to five here this afternoon by defeating Davidson College by the score of 5 to 1 in a close game. The game developed into a pitchers' battle up to the sixth inning, when the Keydets went on a scoring spree to chalk up three runs on two singles, a double and a couple of errors by the visitors. Cutchin doubled to left center, Saunders reached first, being hit by the pitcher and Blocker was safe on an error. Cutchin was out, attempting to steal home, but Waite scored Saunders on a single. Grow reached first on an error and Laughorn scored Grow and Waite on a long single to center.

Davidson scored their lone run in the third, on a triple by Parrish and a neatly pulled squeeze play. Waite, Gillespie and Williams got two bingles each, both of Gillespie's being long doubles. Williams pulled himself out of a tight place in the sixth, after the first two men had reached third and second with no one out.

Hoff connected three hits on five trips to the plate, and made one of Episcopal's two extra-base hits, a double. CUMBERLAND IS LOST TO CENTRAL Second Baseman Dislocates Collar Bone in Practice.

FRANK CUMBERLAND, hard-hitting second baseman of the Central High School Nine, suffered a dislocated collar bone when he tripped and fell while running into home plate in practice yesterday, and fear is held that he may be lost to the team for the remainder of the season.

Dashing for home, Cumberland's spike caught in the dirt and caused him to fall heavily.

Although apparently uninjured as he arose, Cumberland complained to Coach Ty Rauber five minutes later and was sent to the Garfield Hospital for examination. There it was stated that he had probably suffered a dislocated collar bone, although no definite line will be given on the injury until an X-ray is taken today.

While Cumberland is likely to get back into action within six weeks, it is likely that he will miss the entire interhigh series, which starts on April 29.

Cumberland's loss is doubly severe to the Blue and White Team, inasmuch as he was the only veteran player left in the regular infield. Capt. George Brandt, the only other player to return as a regular from last year, will be ineligible until May 2, leaving Cumberland as the only '29 player in the inner works.

Sunday School Five In Playoff Tonight

The Mount Vernon and Calvary M. E. Fives, tied at the end of the regular Sunday School Basket Ball League season with 19 victories and 3 defeats, will meet in a single play-off game for the title tonight at the men's Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium, starting at 8 o'clock. A Calvary victory and a Mount Vernon defeat in the last night of play tied the rivals.

George Mason Defeats Woodward Nine, 5-3

A late rally by the George Mason High School overcame a lead of the Woodward School and gave the Virginians a 5-3 victory over the local lads yesterday at the Monument Grounds. Woodward got off to a 3-1 lead, but George Mason tied the score in the fifth and, aided by two errors, added a pair of runs in the sixth.

Gardner, winning pitcher, hurled brilliant ball, striking out twelve batters. Woodward will play again Friday, meeting the Hyattsville High Nine on the latter's field.

Bankers Tennis League Elects Shanks President

Officers who are to preside during the fourth season of the Bankers Tennis League were elected at a meeting last night. Those chosen were E. Shanks, president; H. Seay, secretary, and R. Mullen, treasurer. The league plans to start about the first of May and two singles and one doubles will constitute a match with each team meeting the other once.

At the same time, a discussion was held as to the feasibility of joining the Middle Atlantic Tennis Association through the Washington Tennis Association. The plan met with the favorable approval of the team representatives and it is believed that the motion will be passed at the next meeting next Wednesday night. Any banks wishing to join the league are asked to get in touch with H. Seay, at the Liberty National Bank, prior to next Wednesday.

1930 Marine Football Schedule Announced

Back to the railroads and the rambling ways of former Marine elevens is the program lined up for the 1930 football team of the U. S. Marine Corps. According to present plans, made by Maj. David Brewster, officer in charge of athletics, the Leatherneck gridiron team wil play eleven games from Massachusetts to Virginia and from New Jersey to Ohio.

Washington will be the scene of at least three of these games, one, with Western Maryland on October 31, being listed as a night game to be staged under electric lights. The other two are scheduled with Washington College on October 4 and the Coast Guard on December 6, the latter being planned as the annual President's Cup game.

In 1929 the Marines played only seven games, a reduction of five from their 1928 schedule. The 1930 edition of Coach Tom Keady has bright prospects, it is reported. Many former college stars, who were duly enlisted last fall but who were unavailable for football service, are expected to be on hand when practice is called in September.

The schedule as constituted at present:

September 19, John Carroll University, at Cleveland.
October 4, Washington College, at Washington; 6, Boston College, at Boston; 10, Mount Union College, at Alliance, Ohio; 25, Lebanon Valley, place undecided; 31, Western Maryland, at Washington.
November 11, Citadel, at Roanoke, Va.; 15, Rider College, at Trenton, N. J.; 26, Davis and Elkins College, place undecided; 29, New River State College, at Charleston, W. Va.
December 6, Coast Guard, at Washington.

V. P. I. Nine Defeats Emory-Henry, 8-3

Blacksburg, Va., April 9.—V. P. I. hit at opportune moments today to take a one-sided game from Emory and Henry by an 8 to 2 score. In their second appearance of the year, Gobblers played midseason ball, and fattened their batting average at the expense of two Emory and Henry pitchers.

One of the features of today's game was the brilliant playing of "Muddy" Rule, who has just recently been elected captain of the Gobbler Team. Batting in the clean-up position, he got three hits, along with five stolen bases. The Gobblers meet the Emory and Henry Team again tomorrow in the stadium at 4 p. m.

Davidson Gives 1 Hit; Emerson Routs Eastern

Only one hit was garnered by the Eastern High School Baseball Team yesterday off the slants of Ray Davidson, left-hander of Emerson Institute, whose team defeated the Light Blue and White, 7 to 0, at the Lincoln Park Stadium in seven innings.

McAvoy, the second man to face Davidson in the game, lined a single out for the blow that spoiled an otherwise hitless game.

From then on, Eastern batters were helpless before Davidson, although a few batsmen got on the paths by virtue of walks and errors. Emerson scored once in the first and second innings, but waited until the seventh before launching their big assault, batting in seven runs during their time at bat in the lucky frame. Noonan, Curtin and Dillon served on the mound for Eastern, with the last-named being the victim of the seventh-inning onslaught.

High School Baseball Nines in Two Battles

Two high school baseball teams will get into action today, while a third, which had a game scheduled, will idle until Saturday, due to the inability of its opponent to put a nine on the field for some time. Eastern will play its second game in two days, meeting Georgetown Prep at the Lincoln Park Stadium, while Western will tackle Emerson on the Monument Lot.

The Georgetown Freshmen, who were supposed to meet Central, stated that they would be unable to get into action until after the Easter holiday, leaving the Gettysburg game on Saturday as Central's opening game. Today's game will start at 3:30.

Collier Tops Field In Newspaper Tourney

Collier had a string of 110, 122, 98, 116, 141 for a set of 587. Burris, Lawrence and Heffelfinger were the other survivors. Frank Money, Post star, who was seriously injured in a recent auto accident, was eliminated when Sherwood, his substitute, rolled 512. Stultz led the consolation group with a 566 set.

13 Runs in One Inning Features St. Alban Win

Making only 12 hits, the St. Alban's Baseball Team took advantage of eleven errors of the Laurel High School to swamp that school 26 to 2, yesterday on the St. Alban's diamond. A 13-run inning, in which only 4 hits were made, featured the attack of the winners.

It was the second win in as many starts for the Saints who recently defeated the Episcopal High Nine, of Alexandria.

Coast Driver to Seek 4-Cylinder Auto Mark

Los Angeles, April 9 (A.P.).—William (Shorty) Cantlon, Los Angeles racing driver, today announced plans for an attempt to break the 19-year-old speed record for four-cylinder automobiles. Cantlon will attempt a new record on the bed of the dry Muroc Lake, near here, tomorrow.

The existing record of 141.738 miles an hour was set in 1911 by Bob Berman. Cantlon hopes to make at least 180 miles an hour in his Miller Hi-Speed Special.

PENN BEATEN BY NAVY, 14 TO 9

Middies, Outhit, Win on Superior Work of Defense.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 9.—In a game marked by lively hitting, the Annapolis Midshipmen defeated University of Pennsylvania on the diamond here today by a score of 14 to 9. Between them, the teams pointed out 30 safe blows, the Quakers getting 16 to the Middies 14. Only one extra base blow was registered. That was a double by Schultz, Navy pitcher, in the seventh frame, when Navy sent five runners across the rubber to sew up the game.

The Red and Blue used three hurlers in a vain effort to stem the Navy assault which gathered momentum all the while. Navy sent in two pitchers to hold the ever-dangerous Quakers in check and while both Coombs and Schultz were touched up in lively fashion, they were supported by sharp fielding on several occasions when things looked dangerous, and this really saved the day for the home team.

Fielding Features Of Game.

Noteworthy features of the game were two fast double plays by Navy infielders, and Capt. Gentner's lunging, barehand catch of a throw to first to retire a runner.

Navy was booked to meet the New Haven Nine of the of the Eastern League tomorrow, but the Athletic Association released the New Englanders from the contract so that they might clash with an all-Star Annapolis outfit in an exhibition benefit game at the Annapolis ball park.

STOCKS' INDEX RISES TO NEW HIGH LEVEL

General Electric Touches 1930 Peak; Turnover at 5,000,000 Mark.

RAIL SHARES SLUGGISH

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—Speculation for the rise was aggressively resumed in the stock market today, and the general level of share prices recorded another new altitude record for the year. Although business news was none too cheerful, powerful speculative interests remained committed to the rise, feeling that the market had solidified its position during the unsettlement of the past two days. Total sales again exceeded the 5,000,000 share mark.

Some reports from the steel industry bore out earlier predictions that mills would have difficulty in maintaining last week's rate of operations. Iron Age stated that U. S. Steel's operations had fallen from 81 to 77 per cent of capacity this week, and production for the country at large from 78 to 76 per cent. There was some disagreement on this point, however, Iron Trade's Review estimating operations generally had gained about 1 per cent this week.

Iron Age attributed a falling off to smaller business from the railroads and for heavy construction. Some recession in railroad buying had been looked for at this season but better demand for building and construction is generally expected, in view of the huge volume of heavy construction under contract or contemplated. A survey of building operations by Standard Statistics Co. said the gain in contract awards in March was such "as to bring almost unhoped for encouragement to the industry." Furthermore, automotive steel requirements are expected to gain during the next few weeks.

Freight Car Loadings Rise.

The weekly freight car loadings figures continued rather unsatisfactory. While a moderate gain was shown over the previous week, this resulted largely from an increased movement of coal. Loadings of miscellaneous freight fell off somewhat, and total was the lowest for the corresponding period in several years. The American Petroleum Institute's weekly crude oil production figures showed a substantial increase due largely to the bringing in of a gusher in Oklahoma. Earlier estimates from other sources had indicated a further decline.

J. I. Case was a buoyant feature, rising 11 points on top of yesterday's 17 to 301, a new top. Earnings for the first quarter are unofficially estimated at $16 a share. Food shares generally were strong, with Bordens, Gold Dust, Beatrice Creamery and Penick & Ford selling up 1 to 4 points. Gold Dust is said to have placed its inventories in a highly favorable position during the recent depression in commodities.

General Electric was again a leader, rising about 4 points to a new 1930 high. Utilities were buoyant on further merger gossip and shorts were sent to cover in the merchandising shares.

General Motors Advances.

Other issues reaching new 1930 peaks included Associated Dry Goods, Consolidated Gas, Air Reduction, Dupont, General Gas, General Motors, Public Service of New Jersey, Skelly, Standard of Kansas, Sparks-Withington and Worthington Pump, the last named rising 6 points. In the low-priced issues, Universal Pipe sold up about a point to new high ground, reflecting reports that a banking group had purchased controlling interest from George Whelan and favorable building outlook. Steels and rails were sluggish, United States Steel and New York Central losing about a point. American Can, United Aircraft and Fox Film also eased.

Credit conditions were unchanged, call money again ranging from 4 to 3½ per cent. There is some talk of a further reduction in the Bank of England rate tomorrow, but no change is expected in the New York Reserve rate. Another substantial gain in brokers' loans is generally forecast. Foreign exchanges were practically unchanged, with sterling cables holding at $4.86¾.

Commodity markets were little changed. Wheat and corn futures sold up fractionally on dry weather complaints.

INVESTMENT BONDS ADVANCE SLIGHTLY

Amusement and Telephone Shares Are Features With Large Gains.

UTILITY GROUP IS FIRM

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—A revival of speculative interest in share feature bonds, inspired by the stocks they represent, enlivened the bond market today. Investment bonds, particularly the rails, firmed to a trifling extent, but the general tone was again little more than steady. Net changes in higher grade obligations were small.

The high flier for the day was the Shubert Theaters 6s, which soared 9 points to equal its year's high at 64. General Theaters Equipment 6s scored a maximum gain of 5½ points, closing at 149 for a net advance of 4. Warner Bros. Pictures 6s, Pathe 7s, Loew's 6s displayed marked strength, but finished below the top for net improvement of about 1 to 2 points.

American Telephone convertible 4½s succeeded in pushing past their 1930 high, touching 193⅜. The advance for the day, at the final price of 192¼, was 4½ points. International Telephone 4½s moved up a point. Texas Corp. 5s were active, but failed to move.

Rail Shares Recover.

Many of the rails that had lost ground in the Tuesday trading recovered on average inquiry. The firmer issues included Santa Fe general 4s, Canadian National 4½s, Central of Georgia 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Lehigh Valley of Pennsylvania 4s, New York Central general 3½s.

Northern Pacific general 3s and Wabash "B" 5s, soft spots, persisted, however, and St. Louis, San Francisco 4½s, Wabash 4s, Northern Pacific 6s, Pennsylvania 4½s, and Rock Island 4s, among others, closed half a point lower. The recent issue of Pennsylvania 4½s made its debut on the New York Stock Exchange and led the rail group in activity, climbing about a point above the offering price.

The new Erie 5s were also busy but clung to 95½, at which figure they were marketed yesterday.

Utilities, mostly firm, found the market rather narrow. American Telephone 5s of 1965 sold off to 102¾, against their high of 105¼ a few weeks ago. Consolidated Gas of New York 5½s, International Telephone 5s, Federal Light & Traction 6s, North American Edison 5½s and Postal Telegraph 5s improved. There was only light trading in industrials, but the average for ten bonds of this group remained at its 1930 high of 94.5.

U. S. Shares Are Quiet.

It was a quiet day for the Libertys and Treasurys and the largest turnover in the group was only about $55,000 par value. Prices closed slightly higher.

Foreign bonds were still irregular and quiet. The few new highs for 1930 included Peru 7s and Hungary Municipal 7½s, each up a point. British 5½s traded briskly, but closed a shade lower. Kreuger & Toll 5s, with warrants, touched a new top on vigorous buying.

New financing scheduled for tomorrow is substantial. Heading the list is a $50,000,000 issue of Argentine Government six-month 5 per cent treasury notes, to be offered at par. This is the largest piece of short-term financing by a South American country in seven years. Other offerings include the $10,000,000 Starrett Corporation 20-year 5s at 92; an $8,000,000 issue of Calgary Power Co., Ltd., first 5s at 94, and a $4,000,000 issue of City of Dublin, Ireland, 5s at 95½.

STOCKS' INDEX RISES TO NEW HIGH LEVEL

General Electric Touches 1930 Peak; Turnover at 5,000,000 Mark.

RAIL SHARES SLUGGISH

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—Speculation for the rise was aggressively resumed in the stock market today, and the general level of share prices recorded another new altitude record for the year. Although business news was none too cheerful, powerful speculative interests remained committed to the rise, feeling that the market had solidified its position during the unsettlement of the past two days. Total sales again exceeded the 5,000,000 share mark.

Some reports from the steel industry bore out earlier predictions that mills would have difficulty in maintaining last week's rate of operations. Iron Age stated that U. S. Steel's operations had fallen from 81 to 77 per cent of capacity this week, and production for the country at large from 78 to 76 per cent. There was some disagreement on this point, however. Iron Trade's Review estimating operations generally had gained about 1 per cent this week.

Iron Age attributed a falling off to smaller business from the railroads and for heavy construction. Some recession in railroad buying had been looked for at this season but better demand for building and construction is generally expected, in view of the huge volume of heavy construction under contract or contemplated. A survey of building operations by Standard Statistics Co. said the gain in contract awards in March was such "as to bring almost unhoped for encouragement to the industry." Furthermore, automotive steel requirements are expected to gain during the next few weeks.

Freight Car Loadings Rise.

The weekly freight car loadings figures continued rather unsatisfactory. While a moderate gain was shown over the previous week, this resulted largely from an increased movement of coal. Loadings of miscellaneous freight fell off somewhat, and total was the lowest for the corresponding period in several years. The American Petroleum Institute's weekly crude oil production figures showed a substantial increase due largely to the bringing in of a gusher in Oklahoma. Earlier estimates from other sources had indicated a further decline.

J. I. Case was a buoyant feature, rising 11 points on top of yesterday's 17 to 301, a new top. Earnings for the first quarter are unofficially estimated at $16 a share. Food shares generally were strong, with Bordens, Gold Dust, Beatrice Creamery and Penick & Ford selling up 1 to 4 points. Gold Dust is said to have placed its inventories in a highly favorable position during the recent depression in commodities.

General Electric was again a leader, rising about 4 points to a new 1930 high. Utilities were buoyant on further merger gossip and shorts were sent to cover in the merchandising shares.

General Motors Advances.

Other issues reaching new 1930 peaks included Associated Dry Goods, Consolidated Gas, Air Reduction, Dupont, General Gas, General Motors, Public Service of New Jersey, Skelly, Standard of Kansas, Sparks-Withington and Worthington Pump, the last named rising 6 points. In the low-priced issues, Universal Pipe sold up about a point to new high ground, reflecting reports that a banking group had purchased controlling interest from George Whelan and favorable building outlook. Steels and rails were sluggish, United States Steel and New York Central losing about a point. American Can, United Aircraft and Fox Film also eased.

Credit conditions were unchanged, call money again ranging from 4 to 3½ per cent. There is some talk of a further reduction in the Bank of England rate tomorrow, but no change is expected in the New York Reserve rate. Another substantial gain in brokers' loans is generally forecast. Foreign exchanges were practically unchanged, with sterling cables holding at $4.86¾.

Commodity markets were little changed. Wheat and corn futures sold up fractionally on dry weather complaints.

Amusement and Telephone Shares Are Features With Large Gains.

UTILITY GROUP IS FIRM

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—A revival of speculative interest in share feature bonds, inspired by the stocks they represent, enlivened the bond market today. Investment bonds, particularly the rails, firmed to a trifling extent, but the general tone was again little more than steady. Net changes in higher grade obligations were small.

The high flier for the day was the Shubert Theaters 6s, which soared 9 points to equal its year's high at 64. General Theaters Equipment 6s scored a maximum gain of 5½ points, closing at 149 for a net advance of 4. Warner Bros. Pictures 6s, Pathe 7s, Loew's 6s displayed marked strength, but finished below the top for net improvement of about 1 to 2 points.

American Telephone convertible 4½s succeeded in pushing past their 1930 high, touching 193⅝. The advance for the day, at the final price of 192¼, was 4½ points. International Telephone 4½s moved up a point. Texas Corp. 5s were active, but failed to move.

Rail Shares Recover.

Many of the rails that had lost ground in the Tuesday trading recovered on average inquiry. The firmer issues included Santa Fe general 4s, Canadian National 4½s, Central of Georgia 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Lehigh Valley of Pennsylvania 4s, New York Central general 3½s.

Northern Pacific general 3s and Wabash "B" 5s, soft spots, persisted, however, and St. Louis, San Francisco 4½s, Wabash 4s, Northern Pacific 6s, Pennsylvania 4¾s, and Rock Island 4s, among others, closed half a point lower. The recent issue of Pennsylvania 4½s made its debut on the New York Stock Exchange and led the rail group in activity, climbing about a point above the offering price.

The new Erie 5s were also busy but clung to 95½, at which figure they were marketed yesterday.

Utilities, mostly firm, found the market rather narrow. American Telephone 5s of 1965 sold off to 102¾, against their high of 105¼, a few weeks ago. Consolidated Gas of New York 5½s, International Telephone 5s, Federal Light & Traction 6s, North American Edison 5½s and Postal Telegraph 5s improved. There was only light trading in industrials, but the average for ten bonds of this group remained at its 1930 high of 94.5.

U. S. Shares Are Quiet.

It was a quiet day for the Libertys and Treasurys and the largest turnover in the group was only about $55,000 par value. Prices closed slightly higher.

Foreign bonds were still irregular and quiet. The few new highs for 1930 included Peru 7s and Hungary Municipal 7½s, each up a point. British 5½s traded briskly, but closed a shade lower. Kreuger & Toll 5s, with warrants, touched a new top on vigorous buying.

New financing scheduled for tomorrow is substantial. Heading the list is a $50,000,000 issue of Argentine Government six-month 5 per cent treasury notes, to be offered at par. This is the largest piece of short-term financing by a South American country in seven years. Other offerings include the $10,000,000 Starrett Corporation 20-year 5s at 92; an $8,000,000 issue of Calgary Power Co., Ltd., first 5s at 94, and a $4,000,000 issue of City of Dublin, Ireland, 5s at 95½.

MECHANICS SAVINGS OFFICERS ELECTED

Mehler Is Named Assistant Cashier at Meeting; Gould Reports.

NEW OFFICE UNDER WAY

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

All officers of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank were reelected at a meeting of the board of directors yesterday and W. B. Mehler was named an additional assistant cashier. Officers reelected were: Ezra Gould, president; Dr. Edward P. Pickford, vice president; A. Scott Offutt, Joseph M. McCarthy and L. W. Davis, assistant cashiers, and Mrs. M. H. Buckingham, secretary.

In his annual report to the stockholders, President Gould stated: "As we enter into our quarter century of banking business, it is very gratifying to note the steady increase that has been made in deposits since our first meeting held over 24 years ago. A dividend of 20 per cent was paid during the past year on the increased capital stock.

"Permission was obtained from the Treasury Department to establish an office at 3401 Connecticut avenue and a new building is now being erected on this site which will give us one of the most modern banking houses in the city. In addition to providing every facility consistent with modern banking, ample parking space has been provided for the customers of the bank, which space adjoins the bank building. Upon the completion of the new office, which will be on about June 1, 1930, we will have four offices serving the people of Washington."

Says Business Optimistic.

The outstanding element in the business situation has been the wish of the investing public to look at the future optimistically, according to Moody's Investors Service in its review of the first quarter's security markets in 1930. It states that the average business man who has been complaining that his business is poor and who, on the other hand, has been buying common stocks for a rise, exemplifies this fundamentally hopeful spirit. The service believes this is the reason why the past three months have seen no serious weakness in the stock market even though business as a whole has not shown any definite upward turn.

The volume of new loans made by the Continental Finance Corporation of New Jersey total $145,098 for the first three months ending March 31, 1930, compared with $124,798 for the same period as of last year, being an increase of 16.3 per cent.

The loans outstanding as of March 31, 1929, have increased from $278,959.38 to $475,755.14, as of the close of business on March 31, 1930, or an increase of 70.5 per cent.

The corporation's gross earnings for the three-month period ending March 31, 1929, have increased from $21,975.91 to $40,002.67 for the three-month period ending March 31, 1930, or an increase of 882 per cent.

Roger Babson, noted economist and business forecaster, was in the city yesterday on his way back to Boston from Florida. He was a visitor at the offices of Crane, Parris & Co.

Robert K. Carpenter, of the Washington office of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., has resumed his duties after spending a few days at the New York office of the firm.

Curb Review

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—Prices on the New York Curb Market gave a rather impressive demonstration of strength today as trading again approached the 1,500,000-share mark. Spectacular advances in a few high-priced specialties were the feature, although good accumulation also was noted in a number of public utility, oil, motor and aviation issues.

Deere & Co. (new stock) ran up more than 10 points to a new high above 160 on unofficial estimates that earnings for the current quarter would run about $9 a share, but eased to 158 on profit taking. The old stock soared 35 points, to 781, and retained all but a point of its gain. Aluminum Co. of America jumped 10 points and Aluminum Limited soared 13 points to a new high at 225. A. O. Smith jumped 14 points, Nelsner Bros. preferred 12¾ and Parker Pen 6⅝.

In the public utility group General Gas & Electrical convertible preferred jumped 7 points to a new high at 105 and retained all but a fraction of its gain in anticipation of an unusually favorable annual report. Niagara Hudson Power, which is expected to absorb Consolidated Gas of New York in the next few months, was again turned over in large volume, but the net gain was fractional. Revival of activity in Electric Bond & Share carried that stock up more than 3 points, but about a third of the gain was lost on realizing. Brazilian Light & Traction, Empire Gas & Electric 7 per cent preferred and United Light & Power "A" also moved into new high ground.

Canadian Marconi was turned over in enormous volume, crossing 8 to a new high record, on reports that a new radio plant would be built in Canada by that company with the backing of Radio Corporation of America, Westinghouse Electric and General Electric. Polymet, which recently has received several important contracts from radio manufacturers, crossed 17 to a new high. Driver Harris, which manufactures nickel alloys, jumped 6 points to a new high at 82 on reports of large current business and retained most of its gain. Ford of Canada crossed 38 to a new high on the publication of an exceptionally favorable balance sheet by the parent company.

Mexico-Ohio Oil, which more than doubled in price, was one of the features of the oil group. Cosden jumped more than 6 points and retained all but a fraction of its gain. International Petroleum sold at 24 for the first time this year. Other oils held fairly steady, the increase in crude oil production last week being offset by the announcement of higher gasoline prices in New York and New England territory.

Aviation Corporation of the Americas and North American Aviation, both at new highs, led the airplane shares.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

Walworth Co.

L. S. S.—What is the exact nature of the business of Walworth Co? What are its latest earnings and what dividends are being paid?

Answer—Walworth Co. is a holding and operating concern (dating back to 1872), engaged in the manufacture and sale of valves, fittings, tools, steel products, cast iron soil pipes, heavy screwed and flanged cast iron fittings, power piping material and the jobbing of plumbing and piping material. For nine months ended September 30, 1929, net income was $1,556,240, equivalent to $77.81 on the preferred and $4.90 on the common. These figures compared with $100,592 in the corresponding period of 1928, this amount being equal to $5.03 per preferred share, and 14 cents per common share. Company paying quarterly dividends on common of 50 cents per share, or $2 annually, compared with $1.40 in 1929. On preferred 75 cents quarterly, or $3 annually, the same as in 1929.

White Sewing Machine Co.

F. S. R.—Will you please tell me something about the White Sewing Machine Corporation? What are its latest earnings and is the company paying any dividend?

Answer—Report for year ended December 31, 1929, showed net income of $778,739, equivalent after preferred dividend requirements, to $1.89 a common share. This was a large decrease from net of $1,071,083, or $3.35 a common share, in the previous year. Balance sheet of December 31, 1929, showed current assets of $13,956,948, against current liabilities of $1,760,189. Preferred dividends, amounting to $4 annually, have been maintained from May, 1926, the latest quarterly payment of $1 having been made February 1, 1930. However, no distribution has yet been made on the common.

Peerless Motor Car Corporation.

E. B. H.—How do you regard the common stock of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation? Can you tell me something about the company's present business and prospects?

Answer—The common stock, on which no dividends are being paid, is highly speculative. Company's shipments in March, 1930, were around 700 cars, against 653 in February, 1930, and 1,107 in March, 1929. Earnings for the first quarter of this year have not yet been published, but it was recently stated, quite authoritatively, that net income for the period would equal, or exceed, the results of the preceding three months. At the same time a statement was made to the effect that the company was understood to be negotiating for the acquisition of American rights to manufacture a front wheel drive automobile under European patents.

Davison Chemical Co.

T. L. D.—I am a stockholder of Davison Chemical Co. and would like your opinion concerning this stock.

Answer—Davison Chemical is one of the leaders in the fertilizer and chemical industries. Earnings for the year 1929 were the largest in some time, amounting to $3.34 a share on the common stock, as compared with $1.42 for the 18 months ended June, 1928. This company has developed a chemical known as "Silica Gel" whose production and development is carried by the Silica Gel Corporation, one-sixth of whose outstanding common stock is held by Davison Chemical. Arrangements are understood to be under way for widespread introduction of Silica Gel, whose properties give it a value as a refrigerating medium. Davison Chemical stock appears to have considerable attractiveness for the long-term holding, in view of the favorable outlook in the fertilizer and chemical fields.

Bullard Co.

A. D.—What is your opinion of Bullard Co.?

Answer—As a result of a new process it has perfected in its manufacturing operations, which greatly reduces costs in metal finishings, outlook for Bullard Co. stock is regarded as being considerably brighter. Royalties are being received by the company for the use of this process, and this extra income is expected to swell earnings for 1930. Income for 1929 amounted to $3.60 per share, and last March the stock was placed on an annual dividend basis of $1. Bullard appears to have considerable attractiveness for the long pull.

International Agricultural Corporation.

H. W.—I wish to ask your suggestions as to holding or selling 50 shares of cumulative prior preferred stock in the International Agricultural Corporation. Should I sell and take a profit or hold on to it and take the $7 dividends, which make a return of just over 13 per cent on the cost of my shares? How do you consider the 1930 prospects for sales and profits in the fertilizer industry?

Answer—This column can not advise as to what price any stock should be either bought or sold. Considering the high investment yield on the stock you hold, it would appear to be most advantageous for you to retain it, especially as the 1930 prospects for sales and profits in the fertilizer industry appear, at this writing, most promising.

Sylvestre Utilities Co.

Miss N. E. B.—I should greatly appreciate any information that you can give me regarding the Sylvestre Utilities Co., a large interest in which was recently purchased by the Beacon Oil Co. Can you tell me its quotation in the over-the-counter market, and can you mention the firm through which one might dispose of the stock?

Answer—There is no available information tending to throw any light upon the affairs of this company, such as earnings, assets. The stock is not quoted in the over-the-counter market, consequently can not advise through whom it may be possible to dispose of it.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—Continued nervous and irregular fluctuations in cotton today seemed to originate chiefly in the over-run of the May positions, which were again relatively easy. May sold off to 16.21, or 21 points net lower, but recovered part of the loss, closing at 16.36, while the new October contract, after declining to 15.25, or 11 points net lower, rallied to 15.42 and closed at 15.40. The general market closed firm at a net decline of 8 points to a net advance of 8 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 11 points under scattered realizing, supposed to include some further liquidation of near months. The early offerings were quite readily absorbed and prices worked up a few points during the early trading, but the bulges seemed to be meeting increased offerings and the market weakened again during the middle of the day. July was relatively easy, selling off to 16.17, or 28 points net lower and 4 points under the price of May, and there seemed to be some selling of July against purchases of May by spot house brokers. New crop positions held relatively steady, but gradually yielded with the old December selling off to 16.54 and the new to 15.38, or about 10 to 12 points net lower.

The decline brought in more demand, which was supposed to include some buying of July by the leading long interests and the market stiffened up on covering during the last hour. At the close, May was 5 points under and about 96 points over October, compared with 108 points the previous day, while there was not much change in the difference between May, in New York and New Orleans.

The weekly report of the Weather Bureau attracted very little comment and the attention of the trade again seemed to be absorbed by the near-month situation. Conflicting opinions were expressed as to whether leading long lines in May or July were being gradually liquidated or held intact and general business was supposed to be restricted by an inclination to await more definite developments in this respect.

Liverpool reported that trade calling and continental buying had been supplied by liquidation and said speculation was dormant.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 9 (A.P.).—Expecting the Government crop report would prove bearish, wheat traders went slow in buying today, only to find after the close that official figures on domestic winter wheat showed the crop condition was only 77.4 per cent. The average private estimates had been 81.4 per cent. Apparently this means that an unexpected cut of 35,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels in the 1930 probable yield of United States winter has been made.

Closing prices on wheat today, registered before the Government crop report was out, were firm at ¾c to ⅞c a bushel advance over yesterday's finish, but 1c to 1¾c under today's top level. Corn closed ¼ to ⅝c up, oats unchanged to ¼ to ⅝c advance and provisions unchanged to 10 cents down.

News that France was withholding permits to export wheat was largely responsible for the topmost upturn in wheat prices today. The action of the French government shuts off one of the most important sources of supply for other European countries, but late reports indicated that the refusal of export permits would not be permanent, which tended materially to curb bullish enthusiasm. Another draw on the market here was the fact that export business in North American wheat today lacked volume, the total being only 400,000 bushels, mainly wheat from Canada.

Relative firmness of the Liverpool wheat market and persistent widespread dearth of moisture from Oklahoma into Canada, however, tended to lift prices here. In some districts Southwest drought conditions were described as the worst in 35 years. The Kansas City forecaster did not expect the drought to be broken this week. Late advices were to the effect that every day of drought was taking some toll, and that a large portion of the winter wheat crop of the United States was nearing irreparable damage.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat upturns despite progress of corn planting in the Southwest and of plowing in the more northern sections of the corn belt.

Provisions showed themselves responsive to downturns in the value of hogs.

SUPERVISORS PLAN SPECIAL JAIL LEVY

Arlington County Chairman Pledges Aid to Obtain New Structure.

SHERIFF OUTLINES NEEDS

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The Organized Women Voters of Arlington County through its special committee for a new county jail scored a victory yesterday while holding a special "at home day" at the jail when they were given assurance by Edward Duncan, chairman of the board of supervisors, that he has provided a special levy for a new jail in the 1931 budget.

Mr. Duncan, who went through the jail with Mrs. Crandal Mackey, chairman of the committee, and a large group of other ladies, agreed that a new modern jail was needed and stated that in addition to laying a special levy next year the $11,000 now in the jail fund will be set aside and any other such funds that are available will be added.

Arriving at the jail, Mrs. Mackey was met by the other members, Mrs. Pauline A. Smith and Mrs. Bertha Kelley, who were greeted by Sheriff Howard B. Fields.

From early morning until late yesterday afternoon the committee, in company with Sheriff Fields, escorted groups of ladies through the jail and not one on leaving the jail failed to express her strong indorsement to the movement.

Entering the jail the ladies were amazed to find but one wash basin in the women's section which was for both white and colored, there being no separate section for those who might be held over night for some traffic violation.

Erected in 1902 the building was designed to accommodate law violators only so long as they awaited trial. At that time all prisoners sentenced to more than 30 days were sent immediately to the State road force upon conviction. Now they must get a sentence of more than 60 days before being sent to the State road force.

It is a two-story structure. The upper story is occupied by Deputy Sheriff and Jailer Harry L. Woodyard and his family. The lower floor is made up of cells, two tiers high. Some of them have two bunks on each side, small narrow things with hardly enough room to turn over without falling off; the others have two bunks on one side.

A stone wall separates the women and the men, the women, both white and colored being on the same floor, while the colored men are on the first floor and white men on the second. There is no distinction as to ages with either men or women.

The men have a bathtub and a shower; the women have one lone basin in which they wash themselves and their clothes.

Discussing conditions, Sheriff Fields declared that the resolution recently offered at the meeting of the Ar-Arlington County Civic Federation providing that the prisoners be sent to the State farms, which would greatly relieve crowded conditions would in no way help conditions at the county jail.

He said: "For example, take a person arrested and unable to get bond. He is arrested in the middle of a term of the circuit court, is taken before the police court and held for action of the grand jury. That person, if unable to give bond, has to stay in jail until the next term, which might be 30 days or more."

"There should be at least 40 cells for men prisoners, with ten for women, one padded cell for insane prisoners, detention rooms and a room for a matron to look after women prisoners," said Sheriff Fields.

"Today we have five cells for white prisoners, and the same number for colored men, with six for both white and colored women."

"Before prohibition we did not have as many prisoners as we have now," the sheriff declared.

"I do not ask for a hotel for prisoners, but I do want a place where there is plenty of room and especially a modern place where there can be an office." The sheriff showed the women space for a roll-top desk and a chair and room for one person standing sideways.

The executive committee of the Parent-Teacher Association of the James Monroe School at Aurora Heights met yesterday at the schoolhouse. Mrs. J. W. Walcott, president, presided.

Mrs. Bessie Lamberson was elected treasurer; Mrs. G. S. Lynch, chairman of finance committee, and Luther Price, chairman of the nominating committee for the selection of a slate for officers to be elected at the May meeting.

The association will hold its weekly luncheon for the pupils and patrons of the school today at 12 o'clock. It is hoped that the mothers will attend.

Arlington Hall, College for Girls, closed yesterday and will remain closed until Wednesday, April 23, for the Easter holidays.

The case of Edward Long and Edward Pensock, soldiers at Fort Myer, who were charged with contributing to the deliquency of a minor, was heard behind closed doors yesterday and they were dismissed by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas. Attorney Thomas Phillips and Lieut. Bassett, of Fort Myer, appeared as counsel for the defendants.

The joint committee on schools from the parent-teacher associations and other civic organizations of the county will hold a meeting tomorrow night in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce at 8 o'clock.

At this meeting the executive committee will make its report as to past and present finances of the county school system.

It will be suggested at this meeting that the necessary petitions for the school bond election be prepared without delay and distributed to the local committees for signatures. It is understood that the election will probably be held the latter part of next month in order that present crowded conditions at the schools may be relieved with the fall opening of schools.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will meet today in the Ashton Heights Woman's Club House at 12 o'clock.

A total of $620,000, to provide the needed additions to the county school buildings and paying off the floating debt of $235,000, was recommended in a report submitted by the special committee to the Arlington County School Improvement Association at its meeting held last night in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce.

The committee, composed of William P. Ames and A. F. Thelander, met yesterday with State School Architect Raymond V. Long, County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp and T. T. Taylor, contractor, and made a study of the preliminary plans and costs for each addition. The detail report shows the following additions with costs: Henry Clay School, four rooms, $22,500; Stonewall Jackson School, four rooms, $22,500; James Monroe School, four rooms, $20,000; Nellie Custis School, four rooms, $20,000; Patrick Henry School, four rooms, $20,000; Woodmont School, two rooms, $12,500, and the Washington Lee High School, 42 rooms, $250,000, making a total of $367,500.

Adding the $225,000 for payment of short term loans the total came to $592,500. The report shows an item of $20,000 to cover all equipment for the additions and cost of inspection and plans. The committee stated that about $4,000 of the $20,000 would be used for the inspection of the buildings by the State architect's office.

Superintendent Kemp stated he was confident that the bonds would be approved by the bonding attorney, as the bill which permits the county to issue bonds and pay off current floating indebtedness was drawn by a leading bonding attorney of New York.

"As superintendent of the county schools I feel the responsibility of providing the facilities for the school children. I have studied the present proposed plans and am putting them now up to the people. If the bond issue fails I will feel the responsibility has been shifted and we will then have to make the best of what we have," Mr. Kemp said.

"With the present financial depression it is going to take the combined efforts of all the citizens to put this bond issue over," he said.

"The time is short and if we want to relieve the present crowded conditions we should lose no time but get ready and have the bond election the latter part of May. It will take 500 signatures on a petition and the school board will then take it to the judge and he will set a date. The date will be 30 days from the day it is announced by the judge," he said.

"With the election in May the additions to the schools can be made ready by the time of the fall opening," Mr. Kemp said.

National defense work was the principal topic of discussion at the meeting of the Thomas Nelson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of Arlington County, held last night at the home of Mrs. Carl Edwards, 1657 Thirty-first street northwest, Washington. Mrs. R. Winston Holt, State chairman, national defense committee of the District of Columbia, gave an interesting talk on the subject, including a comprehensive review of "Sinister Shadows."

The chapter voted to assist the American Legion Auxiliary in the sale of poppies during the month of May, and Mrs. Marion S. Barrows was selected to have charge of the chapter's activity. Mrs. C. W. Maffett was appointed to represent the chapter on the Arlington District Library Board and the treasurer was instructed to send check for $25, the chapter's pledge for the year.

The regent, Mrs. A. J. Webb, and Mrs. C. D. Crist, vice regent, were elected to represent the chapter at the National Congress, which meets in Washington, April 13 to 19, inclusive.

Census Supervisor May Get Apology

Danville Legion Head Says Post Should Clear Up Condemnation.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., April 9.—Thomas S. Williamson, retiring commander of the local American Legion Post, today issued a public statement in which he said that the local post should apologize to G. Howard Guerrant, local supervisor of the census, for condemnatory resolutions adopted on Tuesday night. In those resolutions the local post criticized Mr. Guerrant for his alleged failure to appoint former service men as enumerators.

Mr. Williamson declares that the appointments were based on examinations taken by the applying enumerators, and that a relatively small number of applications were made by service men, some of these not being returned from Washington as acceptable.

Mr. Williamson further contends that the post was not acquainted with existing conditions when the resolutions were adopted.

Miller, counsel for the mayor and council of Easton, today received word from Baltimore that the Public Service Commission of Maryland has approved the franchise granted to the Maryland East Coast Utilities by the County Commissioners of Talbot County to erect electric lines between Trappe and Oxford and in the vicinity of Bailey's Neck and the Peach Blossom.

Punch-Board Distributor Fined in Hagerstown

Hagerstown, Md., April 9.—A drive here against a punch-board ring, which is believed to have State-wide ramifications, with headquarters in Baltimore, resulted in the arrest and fining of Albert Kerxton, of Baltimore here today. The company, which employs Kerxton, had distributed punch boards among juveniles here, and Kerxton had come here to collect money, boards and prizes, when he was caught by the police, who have been watching for the distributors.

State's Attorney Harper Ballentine, who prosecuted the case, said that the boards were illegal and that they came under the class of gambling devices. According to the police many of the boards and prizes were distributed among high school students to sell.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA was on the verge of tears, a gloomy look on her face.

"Whassa matter now, old gal?"

"That's just the trouble," she wailed, and started to cry.

"What's just the trouble?" I asked, puzzled.

"Do I really seem old to you?" she countered.

"Whattayuh mean, 'seem old'?"

"You said 'old gal'——"

"Aw, that's only an expression, a term of endearment, really——"

"Really?"

"Certainly!"

* * * *

TO prove it, I took her in my arms and gave her a big hug—a grizzly bear hug. She dried the tears.

"I'm so glad to hear you say that," said Luella, "say I'm not getting old——"

"You getting old? Why, you'll never get old, Luella. After all, you know the old adage, 'A man's as old as he looks, and a woman's as old as she feels——'"

"It's the other way round," she informed me. "Anyway, if I was as old as I feel, I'd be——"

"You would? What got you feeling this way, in the first place?"

"That census enumerator——"

"The census enumerator? So that's it. What did he do? Get fresh?"

* * * *

"OH, NO," Luella hastened to explain, "I guess he thought I was too old to get fresh with. He was a perfect gentleman—as far as a man can be a perfect gentleman who goes around poking his nose into other peoples' business——"

"And yet he upset you——?"

Luella smiled: "When he asked me my age," she said.

Oh! So that was it. The dumbbell.

"Why did he want to know your age? What difference could that make to him?"

"It was part of the questioneering," said Luella. "He not only asked me my age, but he asked me how old I was when I got married—and that started all the trouble. You see I gave him the wrong figures——"

"So you lied about your age!"

"When a woman gives her age incorrectly," said Luella, haughtily, "it is not a lie. It's just one of those social customs, like having me say you're out when you're in."

* * * *

"WELL, what did you tell him?"

"When he asked me my age at marriage I got all rattled—I gave him my mother's age instead of mine——"

It was my turn to laugh. "No harm done. All they want in this census is a grand total of ages. Merely write to your mother. She can give your age and thus even it up."

"Say," said Luella, her eyes brightening, "you're awfully clever, aren't you? That's a good idea. It'll make mother young again——"

It was a simple remedy, and it proved to Luella that she is really young, no matter what age she gave the census enumerator. Yes, indeed, she is young.

FLOATS WILL DEPICT HISTORY OF VIRGINIA

Richmond Completes Plans for Celebration of Adventure Days.

PARADE TO BE FEATURE

Richmond, Va., April 9 (A.P.).—Floats depicting in graphic fashion the history of Virginia will climax the third annual celebration of adventure days here, May 3.

Counties' entries are expected to be among the most interesting of the group, and several have been listed, promising fascinating bits of local history, usually prior to the Civil War. On the floats will ride the queen selected by the county entering.

The parade will be in four sections—the first consisting of introductory floats representing the spirit of adventure. Sir Walter Raleigh pleading with Queen Elizabeth for permission to go to the New World, and the voyage of the three little ships, the Godspeed, the Discovery and the Sarah Constant, which finally came to rest at Jamestown Island in the spring of 1607 to form the first permanent English settlement in America.

The spirit of struggle will be represented by the second float, showing Jamestown, the first religious services in the New World; Pocahontas saving John Smith's life; the first Christian marriage in this country; digging of "fool's gold;" the "starving time" in Jamestown; the coming of Lord Delaware with the new settlers, and the marriage of Pocahontas.

The third section of the parade is to depict the spirit of progress, showing the first meeting of the Virginia House of Burgesses, the first free school in the country, Bacon's Rebellion, plantation life, leisure time in the colonies, the founding of the College of William and Mary and the famous journey of the "Knights of the Golden Horseshoe."

The spirit of independence will be the theme of the fourth and final section, showing Jefferson writing the Declaration of Independence; Patrick Henry speaking of liberty; Washington taking command of the army and Cornwallis' surrender at Yorktown. Other floats will show Gen. Lee, the Virginia Presidents of the United States, and well-known writers of the Old Dominion.

Rosewell Page, history chairman of Adventure Days, has addressed a letter to editors in the State asking for cooperation in having as many counties as possible represented by floats, and urging them to select a queen for each county, costumed for the event to be represented.

AUXILIARY TO HOLD SALE FOR VETERANS

Annual Event for Disabled Men Set for Saturday in Alexandria.

JUDGE SMITH RESIGNS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523

The service sale committee of the American Legion Auxiliary, headed by Mrs. L. H. Dudley, will hold the annual sale of articles made by disabled veterans in service hospitals on Saturday of this week, at 620 King street. Assisting Mrs. Dudley are Mrs. Rathbone Smith, Mrs. Charles Pozer, Mrs. Walter Roberts, Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, Miss Florence J. Evans, Mrs. Llewellyn Powell, Mrs. T. Wilfred Robinson and Mrs. W. Selden Washington, as well as other members of the auxiliary.

The articles to be sold are made by the men who are in most cases permanent inmates of the veterans' hospitals, some of them being mental cases, and this year some of the articles to be sold are listed as "seconds," having been made by very sick men who are unable to do perfect work, yet are in need of a little spending money and, with the assistance of the hospital attendants, can manage simple articles. These "seconds" are priced cheaper than the perfect and inspected articles. Among the articles offered for sale are sewing trays, vases, fireside brooms, flower baskets, rugs, keytainers, bill folds, coin purses, bath mats and footstools.

The patronage of the public has been asked for these unfortunates for whom the war will never be over. The committee will endeavor to sell all articles and not subject any of the disabled men to the disappointment of having his handiwork returned unsold.

Judge Howard Worth Smith, of the Sixteenth Judicial Circuit of Virginia, comprising the City of Alexandria and Arlington, Fairfax and Prince William Counties, has mailed his resignation to Gov. John Garland Pollard, to take effect April 19. The judge set this date so that he will be able to close the minute and order books of the various courts next week and leave each docket cleaned up for his successor. He will close the Prince William Court today.

Judge Smith was appointed by Gov. Harry Flood Byrd to fill out the unexpired term of the late Judge Samuel G. Brent, August 8, 1929, and immediately resigned from the bench of the corporation court on which he had served since October, 1923. He has made an enviable record while on the circuit bench, handling the heavy dockets at Arlington and Fairfax Courthouses to the satisfaction of the entire bar of the circuit. His resignation has been received with expressions of regret by the members of the bar, and by citizens who have served on juries in his court.

The judge announced some time ago that he would submit his resignation so as to be able to devote his entire time to the prosecution of his campaign for the House of Representatives to represent the Eighth District, succeeding Representative R. Walton Moore, who has announced that he will not again be a candidate. It is understood he will at once begin an active campaign.

Mrs. Mary W. Troth was reelected president of the Alexandria Business and Professional Women's club at the annual meeting held on Tuesday night in the George Mason Hotel, preceded by a supper, at which Mrs. Troth presided and when the only guest of the club was presented, Miss Lura P. Dowe, of Palmyra, Wis., who was for 20 years the editor of the Palmyra Enterprise. She was the guest of her cousin, Miss Lucy M. Graves, the first president of the local club when it was organized in 1921.

Miss Eleanor Watkins was reelected vice president and Mrs. Mary J. Hullings reelected treasurer, while new officers chosen were Miss Dorothy Otley, recording secretary, and Mrs. Dolly Peyton Shepperson, corresponding secretary.

These officers will head the list of delegates at the State convention in Clifton Forge, May 9 and 10, with the addition of Miss Bertha Allison, Miss Maida Foster, Mrs. Harry B. Caton and Miss Florence A. Long; alternates are Mrs. D. C. Book, Miss Lucy M. Graves, Miss Edith Whitton, Miss Oreon Bruce, Mrs. Helen Springman, Mrs. Mary Power, Miss Rietta Butler and Mrs. Lula Grillbortzer.

The annual report of all officers and standing committee chairmen were presented and accepted. Mrs. Troth reported on the recent State executive board meeting held in Suffolk, and the fact that the slogan adopted for the biennial convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, to be held in Richmond in 1932, was the suggestion of the Alexandria club, "The Old Dominion Convention," and that stationery with that heading is already being used by the convention committees. Miss Alice Gronau, of the local club, was appointed pageant chairman for the national convention; Miss Alice Whitton placed on the finance committee, and Miss Florence A. Long, publicity.

Five new members were elected—Miss Marguerite Davis, nurse in the Public Health Service; Miss Anita Noble, stenographer in the local office of the C. & P. Telephone Co.; Miss Marie B. Logan, home economist, Virginia Public Service; Mrs. Annie L. Demaine, of Demaine & Son; Miss Mary Esther Moore, secretary in the Washington office of the C. & P. Telephone Co.

Mrs. Troth, prior to her reelection, was presented by the club with a basket of flowers and a resolution of thanks for her service to the organization the last year was passed.

J. William May has been elected president of Post F, Travelers Protective Association, other officers chosen being Mark L. Price, Harry D. Kirk, F. Clinton Knight and David E. Robey, vice presidents; the Rev. Ernest M. Delaney, chaplain, and Alfred Thomson, secretary and treasurer.

Price, D. E. Robey, T. H. Henshaw, J. D. Hammond, E. H. Henderson, C. W King, L. P. Merchant, J. William May and Alfred Thomson. Alternates are A. N. Shuman, M. E. Greene, Sidney Weil, O. H. Kirk, R. B. English, R. P. Whitestone, C. W. Fletcher, John Murphy, E. W. Jenkins, jr., L. B. Alexander, Benedict Weil, John G. Graham, J. D. Worsham and George F. Birrell.

Harry K. Green, grand senior warden of the grand lodge of Masons in Virginia, will be the principal speaker at the communication of Alexander-Washington Lodge, No. 22, A. F. & A. M., tonight in the Masonic Temple. Mr. Green is commissioner of revenue of Arlington County. A large delegation of Masons from the county will, it is understood, accompany the grand senior warden on his visit.

This is the last day on which candidates for the city council may file their announcements, the election being set for June 10. The only new candidate who has so far announced his intention of running is O. P. Angelo, who will run on the independent ticket. Arthur Herbert and Clyde C. Lamond, Democratic nominees, have also filed their notices with the clerk of the court, and Edmund F. Ticer, incumbent and the third Democratic nominee, is expected to file today. There are three vacancies to be filled in the June election, caused by expiration of the terms of Councilmen Ticer, Robert S. Jones and J. E. W. Timberman, the last two having announced prior to the primary that they would not again run.

Members of the Young People's Society of Immanuel Lutheran Church will tender a reception tonight tonight to the Rev. Carl J. Goette, pastor of the church, and Mrs. Goette. The Rev. Mr. Goette has accepted a call to another pulpit and will leave shortly for his new charge.

Virginia Festival Gets Stage Coach

Venerable Vehicle to Carry Girls to Winchester Blossom Program.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 9.—Lavender and old lace, powdered hair and crinoline. Such were the accompaniments of the old stage coaches that lumbered over the Shenandoah Valley pike between Winchester and Harrisonburg 100 years ago. The scene is to be reenacted by Frank L. Sublett, antiquarian of Harrisonburg, who recently found perhaps the last of the fleet of sturdy "Old Ironsides" of the highway, and has had it reconditioned for the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival here this spring.

Mr. Sublett found the old stagecoach in a stable, covered with dirt and dust and cobwebs. Several coats of paint and varnish were removed by experts, and the original design has been revealed and restored. Upon the paneled door on one side is a painting of Mount Vernon, the home of Washington, and on the other one of Monticello, where Jefferson lived.

A few days before the Apple Blossom Festival is held the coach will leave Harrisonburg for Winchester, carrying a number of girls dressed in colonial costumes and wearing powdered wigs, who will distribute engraved invitations to the people of towns en route for the festival.
